LAWS OF NEW YORK—CHAPTER 99

AN ACT to facilitate the unification and integration of the missionary organizations and societies of The Methodist Church and for that purpose to incorporate Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of The Methodist Church.

Became a law March 12, 1942, with the approval of the Governor.

Section 1. All persons associated, or who may become associated, together in the corporation hereinafter named are constituted a body corporate under the name and style of "Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of The Methodist Church."

§ 2. The objects of said corporation are religious, philanthropic and educational, designed to diffuse more generally the blessings of Christianity and education in every part of the world and to promote and support Christian missions, missionary schools and all phases of religious activity at home and abroad; to develop and maintain Christian work among women and children at home and abroad; to cultivate Christian family life; to enlist and organize the efforts of Christian women, young people, and children in behalf of native and foreign groups, needy childhood, and community welfare; to assist in the promotion of a missionary spirit throughout the church; to select, train, and maintain Christian workers; to cooperate with the local church in its responsibilities, and to seek fellowship with Christian women of this and other lands in establishing a Christian social order around the world.

It may conduct and carry on its work directly as well as through corporate or other agencies of The Methodist Church now existing or hereafter established, including all agencies and corporations of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church, which are now united in The Methodist Church, and through such denominational, interdenominational, or other agencies as it may determine.

Said corporation shall be under the direction and control of the General Conference of The Methodist Church.

§ 3. The management and disposition of the affairs and property of said corporation shall be vested in its members who shall collectively constitute its Board of Managers. The Board of Managers may delegate its power and authority to an executive committee. The number of its members, qualifications for membership, method of choosing members, number and qualifications of members to serve on the executive committee and the method of choosing such committee shall be as heretofore, or as from time to time hereafter, prescribed by the General Conference of The Methodist Church. The managers and executive committee appointed as prescribed by said General Conference at its last previous session shall be entitled to act as such from and after the time this act shall take effect, until successors, chosen as prescribed by the General Conference shall assume their duties.

§ 4. Said corporation shall have perpetual succession, may adopt a common seal and alter the same at pleasure, may sue and be sued, may acquire property for corporate purposes by grant, gift, purchase, devise or bequest, and hold or dispose of the same subject to such limitations as may be prescribed by law, may sell, transfer, lease, mortgage or otherwise dispose of such property, whether held in trust or otherwise, without obtaining leave of any court, may borrow money and secure the same by mortgage or otherwise, shall be competent to act as trustee in respect to any gift, devise or bequest pertaining to the objects of the corporation, may accept contributions to its funds subject to annuity, and may make such by-laws and rules for the management of its affairs as may be consistent with law and with its constitution which shall be adopted and may be altered from time to time by or under the authority of the General Conference of The Methodist Church, and shall have all the general powers and privileges of a corporation organized under the corporation laws of the state of New York.

§ 5. Said corporation is organized exclusively for charitable, religious and educational purposes and not for profit. None of its members, executive committee or officers shall have any share or interest in its assets or earnings; no shares of stock shall be issued and no part of its net earnings shall inure to the benefit of any private individual and no part of its activities shall be attempting in any way to influence legislation.

§ 6. In the judgment of the legislature the objects of this corporation cannot be attained under general laws, and the provisions of this act shall be liberally construed with a view to effecting its objects and promoting its purposes.

Washington, D. C.

We rejoice in your safe arrival and pray for your recovery. We are confident that your visit will strengthen bonds of Christian fellowship as well as bonds of friendship between our nations.

Report of Vice-president, Mrs. J. W. Mills.

This has been a busy year working at the various tasks which missionary women are called to do. I have attended the quarterly Executive and other committee meetings in New York, two jurisdiction conferences (the Southeastern and South Central), the Assembly, three annual conferences, and many district and local meetings. I was happy to be a delegate to the Foreign Missions Conference at Trenton, N. J., and to help in the Leadership School at Mount Sequoyah. I have taught the course on the Work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at Houston, Tex.; Gulfside, Miss.; and New Orleans, La.; also the course on Latin America to various groups.

I attended the Interracial Commission meeting in Atlanta, Ga., in October, and two meetings of the Texas State Council of Women at Austin, Tex. In every group I have tried to present the work of the women and make clear the purpose, the methods, and some of the results of our organization.

As chairman of the Standing Committee on the World Federation of Methodist Women, my special emphasis, together with the officers of the World Federation, has been to create a vital interest in the Federation through a knowledge of its purpose and scope. To this end I have sent several letters to all conference vice-presidents with materials for study and programs. The last one, urging the presentation of the special program for December. In each I enclosed one of the attractive new leaflets on the World Federation and called attention to the special feature of the Federation in the December (1942) World Outlook, and many interesting articles in recent copies of both the World Outlook and The Methodist Woman. Sincere appreciation is felt for these.

According to plans made at the last meeting of this Division, the Federation has been featured at jurisdiction conferences, the Assembly, and a large number of conference, district, and society meetings.

The large number of personal letters shows a wide interest and eagerness for fresh news from the units around the world. Communications from some fields have been cut off by war, but missionaries who have come home have brought most interesting reports of the organized work of women. Both India and China have issued their Constitution and By-laws and Guides patterned after the Woman's Division. Miss Edith Fredericks tells of how the new organization exactly fits the people of China. Miss Mary Sue Brown has given details of the work in Brazil. Reports have just been received of the first Continental Congress of the Methodist Women of Latin America. Miss Aguirre worked long and earnestly to bring this about. It was held in Buenos Aires, September 22-26. Forty-three women delegates attended from six Latin lands. They said that "bonds of union were formed and interest created that will never die." The problems which they discussed give us a feeling of kinship: "The Organization of Methodist Women in Latin America; Evangelistic Workers for Students; a challenge to young women to enter full-time Christian service; Development of Christian Homes; Social needs and co-operation in solving social problems; the establishment of an International Methodist Woman's Bulletin."

In speaking of these self-directed groups of women in other lands, one of our leaders said: "I am convinced that these organizations are one of the very best evidences of the success of our missionary effort. The creation of an organization of women with not only a Christian, but also a missionary purpose, is to me almost the highest goal that we could desire. It is for this reason that I have always been so deeply interested in the World Federation of Methodist Women. We must keep this channel open by every possible means in these days of divisive influences. It is our contribution to ecumenical Christianity, and we must not let it lapse."

A study of the recommendations made a year ago shows that progress has been made all along the way. A few days after our annual meeting, war came to our own land, and thousands of women have gone all out for "war work," and it has been difficult to launch the specific service projects for peace which we hoped to add to special prayer. This is now the most important thing before the Federation at this time. Christian women must have a voice in the peace terms. To do this effectively, they must learn to think internationally. To do this they must know facts. Therefore we are urging Methodist women to use the Peace Packet, and form study groups, to make lists of articles which are in our Christian periodicals, and have informed convictions, not ignorant opinions, about the many barriers that face us before peace can come. Those of race, and economic conditions, tariffs, raw materials, immigration, and the treatment of conquered nations.

We must learn to evaluate Christian missions in relation to world peace. One of the Latin-American women wrote that they all "felt one in Christ; all barriers seemed to be broken. Our women have begun to build bridges that will unite the hearts of the women of all lands. This is what the world needs just now."

While the world is divided by war, the Christian fellowship remains. We have no task so urgent as to try to help our women realize the importance of the World Federation of Methodist Women as a means of carrying forward the purpose of making Christ known. The women in the various units know Christ. They are pledged to the work of sharing this knowledge with others—through life, prayer, money, and missionaries. They are united in conferences, in national units, and in the World Federation. This gives advantage beyond expression. Truly, "Christians hold the world together."

Report of Auditor and Treasurer. Mrs. Ina Davis Fulton, treasurer.

The annual report of the treasurer was distributed in printed form. The report of the auditor was adopted. The third quarter's report of the treasurer was received and ordered filed. (See pages 187-198.)

Chairman Wesleyan Service Guild Standing Committee. Miss Louise Young, Scarritt College, spoke to the Division concerning the work of this committee.

Report of Finance and Estimates Committee. Mrs. W. Raymond Brown, chairman; Mrs. F. G. Brooks, secretary. The appropriations for Department of Work in Home Fields were presented by Mrs. Fred C. Reynolds. The appropriations for Department of Work in Foreign Fields were presented by Mrs. A. E. Beebe. The appropriations for Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities, Joint Division of Education and Cultivation, and General Appropriations were presented by Mrs. Brooks. (See page 181.) The following recommendations referred from the Finance Committee, after discussion, were adopted by a rising vote.

I

a. It is recommended that $3,000 (three thousand) be appropriated for expense incurred in connection with General Conference.

b. It is recommended also that $2,000 of the above amount for General Conference expenses be secured from 1943-44 appropriations, the remaining $1,000 to be set aside from the income of 1942-43.

II

It is recommended that there be recorded in the quarterly and annual reports of the treasurer a list of the bequests and lapsed annuities; that, in the 1943 Annual Report, the list shall cover all such bequests and lapsed annuities as have come to the Woman's Division up to this time.

III

It is recommended that, since life membership pins can no longer be secured at the original price, no more life membership pins be given, but instead the certificate now issued will later entitle the holder to a pin, when they are available.

IV

It is recommended that the Status of Women Committee shall have a meeting, including the Jurisdiction Secretaries of Status of Women, early in 1943, the $600 necessary for this meeting to be taken from the present appropriation for Special Meetings in the budget of the Woman's Section of the Joint Division.

Introductions. Dr. W. G. Cram, Dr. Hugh Stuntz, Dr. Albert E. Barnett, Dr. C. P. Hargraves and staff, Mr. and Mrs. Don Klingensmith, Miss Sarah Evans.

After prayer by Dr. Stuntz, the session adjourned to reconvene at 1:45 P. M.

SECOND SESSION

The second session of the Woman's Division of Christian Service was called to order at 1:45 P. M., November 30, by the president, Mrs. Bragg.

Prayer was offered by Mrs. J. K. Cecil.

Miss Erma Taylor, of Japan, was introduced.

Report of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities. Mrs. James Oldshue, chairman; Miss Thelma Stevens, executive secretary.

On motion of Mrs. Oldshue, the report was adopted, as follows:

Notwithstanding the fact that the Conference on the Status of Minority Groups in a Christian Democracy gave emphasis to the work of one Committee of the Department, the seven Committees of the Department participated in planning the conference. This experience made clear the relatedness of the aims and objectives of the committees. Therefore today instead of presenting to the Division recommendations from seven committees, we bring to you and through you to the women in the local church, one group of recommendations with the following subdivisions: (1) General; (2) the church and the present emergency; (3) social action; (4) legislation; (5) areas of study; (6) co-operation with other groups.

I. GENERAL

We recommend:

(1) That we re-emphasize the recommendations of the Department as set forth in the 1942 Journal as a continuing program for 1943.

(2) That a seminar be planned for 1943 similar to the Garrett Seminar of 1942, and that a committee be named by the Department to follow through with plans.

(3) That increased emphasis and publicity be given to seminars and studies in the area of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities at Jurisdiction Schools of the Woman's Society, and that the Department provide a ten-dollar subsidy for each conference secretary of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities attending Jurisdiction Schools.

(4) That the semiannual meeting of the Standing Committee of the Department be omitted in 1943 unless otherwise ordered by the Administrative Committee of the Department.

(5) That at the next annual meeting a special emphasis, similar to the Conference on Minority Groups, be given in some major area of the Department's program.

(6) That a committee be appointed by the Department to restudy the co-operative program of Methodist women as it relates to the Leadership Schools for Negro women, particularly the C. M. E. Schools, so that a broad new forward-looking policy may be established to give guidance to women of the conference and local societies.

(7) That the Findings of the Conference on the Status of Minority Groups in a Christian Democracy be used in the following ways:

A. (a) Informal study; (b) as basic study material for the approved course on "The Church and America's Peoples"; (c) by making same available to the Missionary Education Movement and other interdenominational groups; (d) supplementary material for the Peace Packet.

B. That Dr. W. H. Kilpatrick's address on "The Study of the Factors at Work to Segregate Minorities" be lifted out of the report and printed separately for wide distribution.

C. That the Rosenwald Foundation be requested to prepare materials on the life and customs of diverse culture groups for use in elementary and secondary schools and in church schools, with the understanding that members of Women's Societies will promote the use of such materials in co-operation with P. T. A.'s, Women's Clubs, and other civic and church groups. Furthermore, we recommend that similar materials on the college and graduate school levels be used in our colleges and schools of theology.

II. THE CHURCH AND THE PRESENT EMERGENCY

(1) The following suggestions are made for the guidance of Methodist women in the emergency situation which the nation faces:

Without the slightest disposition to isolate ourselves from the immediate situation and its emergency demands, we are necessarily mindful of the obligation to fully and effectively discharge the responsibilities that are primarily ours as church women. The church has a distinctive mission and message, and it is a disservice to the common good if we so dissipate our resources as to cause neglect of these "priorities." We are limited in time, physical strength, and financial resources, and these limitations require selection among the multitudes of worthy calls that crowd each day. We urge that Methodist women keep the needs and service of the church central in the allocation of time and effort and in the budgeting of financial resources. The values for which the church stands are abiding and our best service in the emergency is to exact those values by putting them first in planning our service.

(2) We urge local societies to be concerned with every changing phase of family life brought about by our national war activities as they touch marriage, mothers in defense industries, children, and family affiliation with churches. We encourage activities in the local societies to meet needs brought about by those changes such as: provision for nursery schools and day home care for children, and vigilant care lest in the urgency of war work we allow our children to be exploited by industry.

(3) We urge Methodist women to direct attention to the rapid increase in juvenile delinquency, arising from enforced absence from home of mothers in war industries, and also as a result of the curtailment of funds for all types of education. We urge them to act immediately to relieve this situation.

(4) We join with the Methodist Commission on World Peace in "commending the action of our government in undertaking the relocation of individual Japanese and families in schools, on farms, and in other civilian occupations."

By virtue of our commitment to the Christian way of life we earnestly urge women in local societies not only to help create public opinion, but likewise to participate in activities which will help meet the needs spiritually, morally, and otherwise for persons in this group.

"Recognizing the complexity of the issues involved, we affirm our conviction that the Japanese living in the United States should be given the same treatment as that accorded to Germans and Italians, namely, the taking into custody of politically dangerous individuals rather than general internment on a racial basis. We are led to this judgment by our concern for both political and Christian democracy."

III. SOCIAL ACTION

We recommend:

(1) That every local group seek to have a direct part in the integration of the members of minority groups into the larger life of the community, sharing their joys and sorrows, and joining them in their struggle to participate in the privileges and responsibilities of the democratic way of life.

(2) That every woman in a local society become a "center of good will":

- a. By tracing rumors to their sources; checking the false ones and referring well-founded ones to the F.B.I. for further investigation.
- b. By using her influence with local and state authorities in regard to the brutal handling of members of minority groups by police, civil authorities, and citizens.

(3) That women of the societies work to make government services operate for all people. In addition, we urge the President of the United States and all federal administrators, especially those in war agencies, to examine the local practices of the various agencies to see that all people are serviced in a truly democratic manner, without discrimination on account of race, creed, or class.

(4) That we affirm our interest in the economic rights of workers which have been accepted as a part of the basic law of the land. We believe that the principles of equal pay for equal work, irrespective of race, creed, nationality, or sex and the protection of women and children through existing federal and state legislation should be maintained. Every Christian woman has a more or less direct share in establishing fair labor standards and should pay enough for services and goods to provide a sound basis for proper standards of living.

(5) A study of the motion picture situation in local communities, co-operation in the execution of a well-considered program of activity to improve motion picture entertainment, and the support of measures to achieve this end.

IV. LEGISLATION

We recommend:

(1) That old-age and survivors' insurance provision of the Social Security Act be extended to include in its coverage domestic and agricultural workers and employees in nonprofit agencies.

(2) That the Department of State be commended for its announcement that in the new treaties with China the rights of extraterritoriality are surrendered.

(3) That efforts be continued to secure the repeal of the Asiatic Exclusion Act, and that as a first step the government make provisions immediately for the admission of Chinese into American citizenship on a quota basis.

(4) That we support the proposal for a Congressional Commission on American Peace Aims.

(5) That we continue to work toward the enactment and enforcement of local, state, and national laws protecting civilian and armed forces from the sale and use of alcohol and other narcotics with special regard to the group of very young men who will soon be in military training.

(6) That every effort be made in the woman's societies of the local church to initiate and support local option in co-operation with other welfare agencies working to achieve this end.

(7) That Methodist women as a "will to justice" increase their activities to educate public opinion against lynching, and that they work for the passage of a federal anti-lynching bill.

(8) That support be given federal legislation for the repeal of the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting for federal officers, and that further necessary steps be taken for removing all other barriers to full use of the franchise, such as the state poll tax prerequisite and white primaries.

(9) That Methodist women protest to the federal government the establishment of a national lottery as a means of revenue.

V. AREAS OF STUDY

We recommend:

(1) That the study course, "Planning for Peace," be continued as an approved study course for 1943-44, and that it be given further wide descriptive publicity in such papers as The Christian Advocate, motive, and Highroad.

(2) The continued study of Stewardship in its relation to constructive ways and means projects. (Pamphlet No. 1, Local Church and Community Co-operation.)

(3) The continued study of crime and delinquency through investigation of conditions in our courts, jails, prisons, and correctional institutions.

(4) The promotion of classes in citizenship for new voters and a program of education for all citizens in the administration of election machinery.

(5) That local societies continue their work in the field of Consumer Education and equip themselves to help in the education for wise buying under price control and rationing programs as they develop.

(6) That each society use the pamphlet on Alcohol and Other Narcotics and suggestions on page 132 of the 1942 Report of the Woman's Division.

(7) That the local Committee on Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities stress an educational program for parents which emphasizes their responsibility for building friendly attitudes in children toward people of other groups and nations. (Pamphlet No. 7, "The Christian Family" on "Attitudes.")

(8) That local Committee on Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities sponsor and promote interracial and/or intergroup discussion of current family problems.

(9) That the secretaries of Children and Youth Work in the local society be members of the Committee on Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities when projects in the area of family life are being studied and promoted.

VI. CO-OPERATION WITH OTHER AGENCIES

We recommend:

(1) Continued co-operation with the World Peace Commission of The Methodist Church and the Federal Council Department of International Justice and Good Will and its Commission on a Just and Durable Peace.

a. Through promotional co-operation in a series of fifteen or twenty regional conferences on postwar planning.

b. Through the use, by the Woman's Division, of projected materials, such as (1) a simplified booklet on peace aims; (2) recordings of panel discussions for use in peace discussions and study group and over local radio stations; (3) posters; (4) contributions from Woman's Division to the World Peace Newsletter and its wider distribution to secretaries of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities.

c. We express our appreciation for the co-operation of the World Peace Commission in promoting the World Day of Prayer.

(2) That the conference woman's society have a representative on the Annual Conference Peace Commissions.

(3) That we request our executive secretary to transmit to our conference secretaries statistical and financial information on our Methodist Conscientious Objectors.

(4) That Methodist women work through local Councils of Churches and local Councils of Church Women to insure adequate representation of minority groups in the planning, participation, and execution of community projects. We further urge that such occasions as the World Day of Prayer, Race Relations Sunday, Children's Good Will Day, and special religious festival days be used for intergroup and interracial worship and fellowship.

Committee to Study Postwar Education. It was voted to appoint a committee to bring a recommendation or a statement which the Woman's Division of Christian Service might make relating to postwar education. (See seventh session.)

1. It is recommended that a stereopticon lecture on the work of the Home Department be prepared in co-operation with the Department of Visual Education of the Joint Division of Education and Cultivation.

2. It is recommended that the attention of the conference organizations of the Woman's Society of Christian Service be called to the policy that money pledged to the Division treasury is not used locally for conference work.

3. It was voted that it be the policy of the Home Department to take no action whatever on requests for deferment from military service.

4. A contract for workers in the Home Department was approved and its adoption is recommended.

5. It is recommended that the Woman's Division adopt the same policy for war insurance on properties in the Home Department as that used by the Home Division of the Board, namely, full insurance on those deemed advisable within 300 miles of the Atlantic, Pacific, and Gulf Coasts. The amount necessary for the premiums shall be taken from the Emergency Fund for this year.

6. It was voted that the workers in the field be requested to assist church women with plans and procedures in their local churches, such as day nurseries or recreational opportunities for the care of children left alone due to the employment of parents in war emergency activities.

7. It was voted that the Home Department request the Personnel Department to prepare an article setting forth the serious emergency caused by the lack of sufficient workers in the institutions of the Department.

It is recommended that this article be published in The Methodist Woman.

8. Miss Edith Lowry, of the Home Missions Council of North America, has sent a request that the Woman's Division share in remembering Japanese children in relocation camps with toys at Christmas. A list of camps, the number of children in each, and the toys desired was included in this request. Mr. Suzuki, former superintendent of Japanese Neighborhood House, is located at the camp in Granada, Colorado.

It was voted to recommend to the Division concurrence in this request to the extent of remembering 3,200 children at Granada, giving an opportunity to conferences to take part in the project with the understanding that the Department will complete the required number of gifts.

9. It was voted to recommend to the Committee on Week of Prayer Projects $30,000 for work in rural fields; the use of any balance to be recommended later by the Home Department.

10. It was voted to put into the field two new workers in defense areas, provided they can be financed, one to work among young businesswomen and the other among local church groups, the appropriation to come from Emergency or Contingent Funds.

Bureau of Educational Institutions

1. Inasmuch as the George O. Robinson School cannot be opened, and as we can serve the most people at present through our kindergartens, we recommend that we look forward to opening another kindergarten, for the present, as soon as a teacher can be secured. (November 1 a kindergarten was opened at San Juan Moderno, with Miss Ida Luz Rosa as teacher, this being in accordance with the previous recommendation of the Home Department.) The amount needed is $500.

2. We recommend that the Health Center at Vashti School, appraised at $6,000, be insured for $5,000, and that the furnishings, appraised at $1,000, be insured for $800. This is upon the advice of the agent and after consultation with the superintendent and the bookkeeper.

3. We recommend that Vashti School be allowed to start a fund for a new school building, the appeals being made for the present only through the alumnae.

4. We recommend that Miss Eureath White, of the National Training School, be granted a year for study beginning January 1, 1943.

5. It is recommended that, if possible, according to the will, the Alice Ellwood Bequest of $1,000 for Wood Junior College be invested, after the expense of the repairs to the heater at Miller Hall and the compressor (total amount, $88.27) has been deducted.

6. It is recommended that inasmuch as Miss Josefina Garcia has resigned from Field Work as of January 1, 1943, and inasmuch as the secretary of the Joint Division reports that she could transfer Miss Felicidad Mendez from the Southwest Mexican Conference to do Field Work in other conferences, we recommend that the salary and expense item be transferred from Miss Garcia to Miss Mendez (a total of $525 for five months) and continue to be taken from the George O. Robinson budget.

7. We recommend that $500 be taken from the Hendrix Hall Fund to meet the financial needs in current expense and salaries at Valley Institute, Pharr, Texas.

Bureau of Urban Work

1. Since the work at Cape Girardeau, Missouri, is Wesley Foundation Work, we recommend that it be placed in the Bureau of Educational Institutions.

2. At the last meeting of the Executive Committee there was an approval of the expenditure of $850 for equipping vacant rooms at Manley Center, Portland, Oregon, for dormitory service. It was voted that this amount be advanced from the appropriation for Manley Center.

3. To complete work for her degree without further interference with regular duties, we recommend a furlough for Mina Klayman, Marcy Center, Chicago, Illinois, effective January 1, with $300 for study grant.

4. Because of the sudden increase in population in Norfolk (more than 300%) there is an imperative need for a community house to care for the many children in the streets. Work has been established for several years, using existing facilities, but that is increasingly difficult as the problems in that area increase.

A suitable piece of property in the Brambleton Area has been placed on the market; therefore, the Virginia Conference is requesting $5,000 from the Woman's Division for the purchase of this property.

It was voted that the Home Department approve the project, that it be referred to the Committee on Projects for the Week of Prayer, and that, if needed, the money be advanced from funds to be decided upon by the Executive Committee of the Department.

Bureau of Social Work

1. We recommend that the sum up to $1,500 be approved for repairs to the Esther Hall in Salt Lake City, the money to come from the receipts of the Iowa National Esther Hall which have been sent in for use at other Esther Halls.

2. It is recommended that the remaining furniture at the Jesse Lee Home be sold to the Navy. It is recommended further that the officers be allowed the use of the gymnasium at the Jesse Lee Home with the provision that it be returned in good condition when needed and that the chapel be offered to officers and men for religious services, if they so desire to use it.

3. It is recommended that the Jesse Lee cabin and lot be sold when a proper valuation has been determined.

4. It is recommended that the funds received from Skeer Rest Home in Newtown, Pennsylvania, be set aside for taxes and insurance on that property.

5. It is recommended that following the receipt of deeds of all institutions from the Woman's Home Missionary Society, blanks for admission to Rest Homes be adjusted according to ownership.

6. It is recommended that Miss Constance Erickson's request for the rental of a furnished house in Nome at the rate of $40 a month be approved, the funds to come from the amount appropriated for the Jesse Lee Home for 1943.

Bureau of Medical Work

1. It is recommended that $500 from unused appropriation in the Medical Bureau be used as a down payment on replacement of laundry equipment at Brewster Hospital, the balance to be paid monthly from current expense.

Bureau of Deaconess Work

1. It is recommended that the pension of Miss Edith E. Dewey be withheld during the time she is engaged in work under the United States Government and for which she receives a salary. Miss Dewey was retired for health reasons in June, 1941, but she has not as yet reached retirement age.

2. It is recommended that Miss Addie B. Greely be retired with pension from the restricted funds of the former Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Miss Greely is now sixty-two years of age and has served nineteen years as a deaconess.

3. It is recommended that Mrs. Anna M. Kellog be retired with pension. She was born January 1, 1878, and served twenty-seven years as a deaconess.

4. It is recommended that Miss Rona M. Crawford be retired with pension. She has served over thirty-nine years as a deaconess and is sixty-six years of age.

5. It is recommended that Miss Grace Woodside, sixty-six years of age, be retired with pension. She has given thirty-three years' service as a deaconess.

6. According to the policy of the Woman's Division, Miss Josephine Fort is released from her responsibilities as a deaconess since she was married November 7, 1942.

7. It is recommended that Miss Esther Drinker, on request, be granted a six-months' leave of absence.

Bureau of Rural Work

1. It was voted that $10,000 be appropriated from the 1942 Contingent Fund of the Home Department toward the restoration of the Leisenring Community House, Dunbar, Pennsylvania, which was destroyed by fire December, 1941.

Greetings. Greetings from the Division were sent through Mrs. Beebe to the Brooklyn North District of the New York East Conference, in session at this time.

Report of Joint Committee on Missionary Personnel. Miss Ruth Ransom, secretary. The report was adopted, as follows:

Recommendations of the Joint Committee on Missionary Personnel to the Woman's Division of Christian Service, November 17, 1942.

Current Funds

Balances in current funds were included in the report of the treasurer of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Protestant Church at the annual meeting of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of The Methodist Church.

Corporation Expense Fund

The Board of Missions of the Methodist Protestant Church maintains a small fund (see Annual Report) to be used for any current obligations and responsibilities in connection with the complete closing out of the work of the Board, including surrendering of charter, when such surrender seems advisable. This fund will not be closed out until the charter is surrendered and necessary details in connection therewith are taken care of.

BETTIE S. BRITTINGHAM, Treasurer,
 Board of Missions of the Methodist Protestant Church.

Woman's Home Missionary Society, Mrs. W. H. C. Goode.

Transfer of property of The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church to the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of The Methodist Church.

Following the action of the General Conference of The Methodist Church in May, 1940, the Board of Managers of The Woman's Home Missionary Society at its last meeting in August of that year voted:

1. After the charters have been granted to the Divisions of the Board of Missions of The Methodist Church, The Woman's Home Missionary Society shall turn over deeds to properties now in use by the society, to the Woman's Division of Christian Service as soon as conveniently possible except such as are in the process of building or have an uncompleted building program.

2. A resolution was passed at this time relinquishing all rights to the current income of the auxiliaries of The Woman's Home Missionary Society and all responsibility or authority for the conduct of its educational, medical, and social welfare work, and use, care, and maintenance of the property, including all repairs and replacements because of fire loss or other causes.

3. January 2, 1941, when the offices of the Division were established in New York, N. Y., the income from the

Deaconess Pension Fund.....	$61,804
Revolving Fund of the Society.....	37,500
Bureau balances.....	16,102

Total.....	$115,406

were turned over to the treasurer of the Woman's Division of Christian Service.

4. At a meeting of the Executive Committee, November 30, 1942, the treasurer of The Woman's Home Missionary Society was authorized to begin to hand over to the treasurer of the Woman's Division of Christian Service such assets as could from time to time be transferred without loss.

Following the action in Section 1, the attorney for The Woman's Home Missionary Society was instructed to prepare quitclaim deeds for all institutions which were listed as ready for transfer. I have here thirty-three such deeds which I now give to the Woman's Division of Christian Service to be administered by the Home Department of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of The Methodist Church.

In the case of institutions which are incorporated, the deeds are held by the trustees of these institutions. Charters of these institutions differ in their articles on election, but in all the charters the Home Department of the Woman's Division becomes one of the appointive agencies. In the case of those institutions held in connection with the Board of Education, the Home Department is the appointive agency.

There are several institutions where either by action of a donor or because of a state requirement, the deeds are held by the conference officers or by a local board. In these cases the attorney for the society is preparing the legal statement that the property is held for the Woman's Division of Christian Service and its Home Department. There are other deeds which required special investigation, and as soon as they are ready they will be sent to the custodian of deeds or any person or place designated by the Woman's Division of Christian Service. The attorney suggests that when the deeds are sent to their respective counties to be recorded that the descriptions be verified.

Re Insurance

The Woman's Home Missionary Society, for a number of years, had carried its own fire insurance, and to care for this had built up an Insurance Reserve Fund. It seemed wise to the Board of Trustees to use this fund or as much as necessary to place commercial insurance on each of the buildings which were given to our successors. This has been done at an outlay of approximately $50,000. I present at this time fifty-five three-year policies. Others will be presented later.

As soon as the government announced the establishment of its War Damage Insurance, the society took out insurance for our properties in Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. These were ordered canceled in those places where the institutions had already secured similar coverage.

In 1940 the assets in buildings, grounds, and equipment were estimated at $8,556,625.15. When appraisal was made in 1941 of buildings only (for insurance purposes), the estimate was $5,018,978. Because of this recent survey we think the 1940 estimate low, because since 1940, $531,000 has been spent for buildings, making the present real estate valuation $9,087,625.15.

At the last meeting of the Board of Managers of the Woman's Home Missionary Society in August, 1940, it was decided that the $150,000 raised for the sixtieth anniversary project of the society, a building in San Juan, Puerto Rico, be augmented by any additional gifts which might come in later. When the Building Committee, composed of the Bureau secretary, Mrs. Raymond Meek, and a Board member, Mrs. Anna E. Kresge, went to Puerto Rico, to open the bids for that building, they found that the lowest bid from a trustworthy contractor amounted to $200,000. The fund in the treasury at this time was $160,000. The Board member, Mrs. Kresge, generously contributed the $40,000 necessary to authorize the committee to sign the contract. This building is not yet completed because of lack of some iron and steel equipment.

The remainder of the amount disbursed since 1940 came from the Henry Pfeiffer estate. We wish to record here our deep appreciation of the generous personal gifts of Mrs. Henry Pfeiffer, Mr. G. A. Pfeiffer, Mr. Daniel Merner, Mr. Garfield Merner, and our gratitude to Mrs. Pfeiffer and the other executors of the Henry Pfeiffer estate for the share of the Woman's Home Missionary Society in the gifts from that estate.

All of this will in time come into the treasury of the successor of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, the Woman's Division of Christian Service for the Home Department.

Madam President, I am presenting deeds for thirty-three pieces of property and insurance policies for fifty-five institutions. I wish also to present this very illuminative book prepared by our insurance agent. I have put together the policies for each bureau, and suggest that each bureau secretary look up her institutions in this book, noting the recommendations of the agent for future protection of the institutions in her care.

Respectfully submitted,

IDA H. GOODE.

Recommendations:

In consideration of the transfer of $85,000 from the Pfeiffer Bequest for the Porto Alegre School, Brazil, the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society recommends to the Woman's Division that favorable consideration be given to allocating $30,000 released from the nonrecurring item for Porto Alegre in the 1942 appropriation to a project in India.

That the funds received through legacies or gifts for building projects and transferred to the Woman's Division shall be invested and held in Restricted Funds until they can be used in the fields as designated, and income shall be credited annually to each fund.

That Lapsed Life Income Gifts, Legacies, and Special Gifts transferred to the Woman's Division not designated for current appropriation shall be allocated by the Department of Work in Foreign Fields and credit be given to local societies or conferences designated as over and above gifts.

That the Fire Insurance Reserve of $35,000 be held invested as a Restricted Fund for Burma and Malaya as required by government regulations and held in lieu of fire insurance on buildings erected by the British Government on our mission property. That if, in the future, this reserve is no longer required for these countries this amount shall be an asset of the Foreign Department of the Woman's Division as an Insurance Fund for all foreign property. That interest shall be added annually to the principal on unused portions.

That $64,535.67, W.F.M.S., 1940 cash balances, be transferred to the Woman's Division to be listed on the books of the treasurer of the Woman's Division as 1940 Surplus of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

That the allocation of this amount be referred to the Finance and Estimates Committee with the request that it be applied to the deficit in 1941 appropriations of the Foreign Department.

A declaration of trust has been prepared relating to the properties of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society in foreign fields issued in favor of the Woman's Division of Christian Service for the Department of Work in Foreign Fields, until such time as titles may be transferred to the Woman's Division. A record of the real property of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church in foreign lands as printed in the 1938 Yearbook of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, together with the property records and files specifying the country, location, dimensions, description of property, appraisals of value as of various dates, title, etc., are to be forwarded to the Woman's Division of Christian Service for the Department of Work in Foreign Fields.

ELIZABETH S. MASLAND, Treasurer.

Recommendations:

To the Woman's Division of Christian Service:

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society in transferring to the Woman's Division $263,865.74 designated and undesignated funds covered by securities and cash, offers the following recommendations:

That the value of the securities be determined as of the date of transfer and the difference between such value and the total fund of $263,865.74 will be in cash. The value as of the date of transfer shall be the market value plus accrued interest.

That the securities transferred be subject to the judgment of the Committee on Investments of the Woman's Division as to whether they shall be held or sold and the proceeds reinvested.

It will be noted in connection with the above recommendations that the incidental expenses connected with the transfer shall be paid by the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and that the average rate of income on the securities transferred will be no less than an average of 3% on the principal.

Suggested Change in By-laws. A suggested change in By-law was brought from the Finance and Estimates Committee, as follows:

The Finance and Estimates Committee requests a change in By-law, Article IV, Number 3, page 377 of second Annual Report, so that "Emergency Fund" shall be known as "Contingent Fund" and the words "undesignated income" shall be replaced by the word "appropriation," and so that the paragraph shall now read:

"The Woman's Division shall appropriate annually a contingent fund of not less than three per cent nor more than four per cent of the appropriations for the use of the three departments, general administration, and the woman's section of the Joint Division of Education and Cultivation."

Further, that this requested change be referred to the Committee on By-laws, but shall be used in making appropriations until it may be properly inserted in the By-laws.

Introductions. Mrs. Frances Baker Hager, associate secretary of Missionary Personnel, introduced the following missionaries and deaconesses who will be consecrated at this meeting of the Board: the Misses McKinny, Oberlin, Beckwith, Lowden, Stouffer, Esterline, Bope, Dellinger, and Perrielli.

They were greeted by Mrs. Bragg and assured of the loyalty, confidence, and support of the Woman's Division of Christian Service.

Report of Committee on Missionary Personnel. Mrs. L. R. Peel, chairman; Mrs. Isaac Morris, secretary. The recommendations were adopted. (See page 217.)

Study Grants of the Woman's Division of Christian Service

I. Information regarding grants.

1. One year of successful, full-time experience with remuneration is required of applicants for work in either home or foreign fields.

2. A young woman applying for service as a deaconess or home missionary must have at least two years of college training.

3. A young woman applying for service as a foreign missionary must have a degree from an accredited college.

4. The health of each applicant must be cleared through the Medical Department of the Board of Missions and Church Extension through the Personnel Department.

5. An applicant with a large debt cannot be considered until the debt is greatly reduced.

6. Each applicant for a study grant must be recommended by the conference of which she is a member.

7. Contributions from conferences should cover only study grants and not personal expenses.

8. When a young woman finishes her course of study, is recommended by the Joint Committee of Missionary Personnel, is accepted by the Woman's Division of Christian Service as a deaconess or home missionary and serves in the homeland for four years she has fulfilled her financial obligation.

9. When a young woman finishes her course of study, is recommended by the Joint Committee of Missionary Personnel, is accepted by the Woman's Division of Christian Service and serves on the foreign field for one term, she has fulfilled her financial obligation.

10. If, for any reason, a young woman should not finish her prescribed course of study, she shall return to the treasurer of the Woman's Division the amount of money paid for her study grant.

11. A young woman using a study grant may secure permission through the Personnel Department to work a limited number of hours if her health and scholastic record are acceptable.

II. Procedure regarding study grants.

1. The conference secretary of Missionary Personnel will carry on all correspondence with the conference president and treasurer regarding applicants and money for grants. The conference treasurer may clear any questions regarding money for grants with the treasurer of the Woman's Division. The Personnel Department will correspond only with the conference secretary of Missionary Personnel.

2. The conference secretary of Missionary Personnel will advise with young women interested in missionary service through three years in high school. After a young woman completes the junior year in high school she will be referred to the Personnel Department. If a high-school girl first contacts the Personnel Department, she will be referred to the conference secretary of Missionary Personnel.

3. The Personnel Department will continue the correspondence with the young woman while in college; will have a personal interview, and will send the preliminary blank. If a young woman in college first makes contacts with the conference secretary she will be referred to the Personnel Department.

4. After a young woman has fulfilled the requirements and is recommended by her conference, she will make application to the Joint Committee of Missionary Personnel through the Personnel Department.

5. All applications for study grants should be in the Personnel Department by April 15 if the applicant expects to begin study the following fall.

6. All applicants for study grants must be recommended to the Board by the Joint Committee of Missionary Personnel.

The committee further recommends:

I. That a committee of three—Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Lamb, and Mrs. Hagar—confer with the Policy Committee with reference to the placing of deaconesses and home missionaries in local churches.

II. We recommend that Paragraph 4 in Section 12, By-laws, Woman's Division, dealing with the responsibility of this committee for nationals, be referred to the Policy Committee for necessary consideration.

Report of Committee on Education and Cultivation. Mrs. Albert T. Morgan, chairman; Mrs. Wiltz Ledbetter, secretary. (See page 216.)

In considering ways to insure use of program materials provided by the Woman's Division, and of World Outlook and The Methodist Woman, we recommend:

1. That Executive Committees of conferences through the conference secretaries of Literature and Publications assume responsibility for sending to every society within their conference a copy of the program and worship booklets; that in implementing this undertaking, district corresponding secretaries accept responsibility for providing conference secretaries of Literature and Publications with accurate directories; that in conferences where there are no district secretaries, the responsibility of providing a directory be assumed by the conference corresponding secretary.

2. That conference Executive Committees set a definite conference goal for joint subscriptions to The Methodist Woman and World Outlook, including in the goal at least one joint subscription for use of the Program Committee in each local society.

3. We further recommend that wherever possible the Woman's Society in the local church make available for the young people of the church a joint subscription to The Methodist Woman and World Outlook, and to student secretaries near campuses.

4. As a means of initiating and using approved study courses and informal studies, we recommend:

That a conference Study Committee composed of secretaries of Missionary Education and Service, of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities, and the chairman of Spiritual Life Cultivation, review all possible study opportunities provided by the Woman's Division and make definite but flexible plans for a yearly study program.

5. We recommend that the following new themes for additional studies for 1943-44 be approved:

The Church and America's Peoples
The Problem of Suffering
Christian Ventures in Learning and Living

6. We recommend that conferences provide, insofar as possible, for the attendance of the secretary of Young Women and Girls' Work at jurisdiction summer schools and conferences.

7. That the Week of Prayer literature be channeled to societies through the conference secretary of Literature and Publications, one free set to be supplied to each local society.

8. Since the needed increased giving of conferences depends upon the understanding and response of individual members,

We recommend that membership obligations in the Woman's Society of Christian Service be re-emphasized by the conferences bringing to the attention of local societies that membership is a continuing relationship; that members are expected to renew their membership each year by signing the membership pledge card of the Division which points up the threefold obligation of prayer, service, and an annual pledge or contribution of money to the total budget.

9. Further, we recommend in conferences where dislocation of members to residence in defense areas is taking place that local societies be urged to use the transfer card as a means of introducing such members to the Woman's Society; that societies in these defense localities also seek to increase their membership from among new residents in these communities hitherto not related to any society.

10. That the Woman's Division representatives on interdenominational summer school committees shall nominate the camp director in such summer schools and conferences, expenses for the director to be met in accordance with the action taken at the June Executive Committee meeting (page 41, Minutes of June Executive Meeting).

Report of Committee on Literature and Publications. Mrs. J. N. Rodeheaver, chairman. (See page 217.)

Whereas, The Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of The Methodist Church was incorporated on March 12, 1942, by Chapter 99 of the Laws of New York State; and,

Whereas, The officers of the aforesaid incorporated Division have been elected in accordance with the Discipline of The Methodist Church; and,

Whereas, Some or all of the organizations of women as mentioned in Section VI, Article 1, paragraph 989, of the Discipline, have authorized or will authorize the transfer of all or part of their assets to the aforesaid incorporated Woman's Division. Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Board of Missions and Church Extension of The Methodist Church receive and accept the aforementioned assets, to be turned over to the treasurer of the Woman's Division at such time and place as shall be agreed upon.

Report of Committee on Supplies. Mrs. H. E. Woolever, secretary of Supply Work. (See page 222.)

Report of Committee on Wesleyan Service Guild. Miss Louise Young, chairman. Mrs. Woolever made the report. (See page 225.)

Report of Committee on Trust Funds and Investments. Mrs. Anna E. Kresge, chairman; Mrs. Foss Zartman, secretary. The following report and recommendations were adopted:

The Trust Funds and Investment Committee of the Woman's Division of Christian Service began its work in May of this year and has met regularly since that time.

$81,370.18 has been invested. The securities purchased consist of Government bonds, Railroad and Utility bonds; $60,912.25 additional is allocated for investment and plans are made to take care of this the first of next week. You will find the items covered by these totals in the treasurer's report under the heading of "Liabilities."

The committee selected Mr. C. E. Bacon, of the Spencer Trask and Company of New York, N. Y., as counsel, and asks your confirmation.

As funds become available for investment, the treasurer consults with Mr. Bacon, then sends to the members of the committee his recommendation for purchase. Changes in the portfolio are likewise reported to the committee.

The members of the committee have pledged themselves to aid and support the treasurer in every way possible in this one of her difficult tasks.

The committee now recommends that the Woman's Division adopt the Uniform Annuity rates adopted by the Federal Council of Churches as of October, 1939.

Recommended, that all investments except Annuity Funds be kept in general invested accounts, income of which shall be allocated as follows:

To the Pension Fund, 3½%. All other funds, 3% if possible.

Annuity Funds, according to the laws of New York, must be reported separately, and the rate of interest paid is by contract.

Report of Committee on World Federation of Methodist Women. Mrs. J. W. Mills, chairman. (See page 225.)

The committee submitted the following recommendations and plans for 1943 as means for the promotion of the spirit of world unity which we desire:

I. Feeling that Christian women have a definite obligation to take a vital part in the peace terms, and this can only be done by learning to think internationally in world terms:

We recommend:

(a) That in co-operation with the Departments of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities and of Missionary Education, we urge the fullest use of the Peace Packets, the forming of study groups, and listing of articles and reports on a "just and durable peace."

(b) That we work in every way to:

(1) Build an intelligent understanding of the causes which underlie world conflicts.

(2) To have informed convictions as to how changes may be brought about.

II. Since many Methodist men in military service are in lands where our churches and institutions are located, we recommend:

That those interested at home and those in these lands encourage every contact that can be made between the soldiers and our work and workers, that the feeling of oneness in Christianity may grow.

III. We congratulate the units of Latin America in the success of their first Continental Congress held in Buenos Aires, September 21-25, 1942. To help strengthen the bonds of friendship of the Americas, we recommend:

That those in charge of the work of the Federation in the jurisdictions be urged to promote subscriptions to Genta Nueva, a new interdenominational youth magazine in Spanish, edited by Miss Maria Aguirre, of Santiago, Chile, and Bem-te-vi, a children's magazine in Portuguese, published by the Woman's Missionary Societies of the Methodist Church of Brazil.

These magazines are suggested for the use of teachers in church supported schools, where Spanish and Portuguese are taught, and to librarians. Mothers whose children are studying these languages should be urged to have these magazines in their homes.

IV. We recommend:

That it be brought to the attention of the women of this unit that the central core of the sister units of the World Federation has seen their sacrificial giving inspired by their desire to share Christ and strengthen world unity.

V. In view of the increasing strains of international life that are dividing people one from another; in view of the effect of this division upon the childhood of every nation, we recommend

That the World Federation, through its units, work to guide all children into experiences of world friendship and peace.

VI. That the units of the World Federation of Methodist Women strive to bring the status of women along all lines, in all countries, to the highest degree attained in any country.

VII. That we re-emphasize the action of last year relative to plans for sending supplies of all kinds into impoverished lands at the close of the war. (See

VIII. That we promote a wider use of the "Prayer Cards" and make it our prayer for peace.

IX. Having heard the repeated need for new missionaries in every field,

That the units of the World Federation be asked to join in definite prayer that workers may be found from among the choicest youth of every land and nation and that the training may be provided and funds secured for their support.

X. (a) That the World Day of Prayer material be transmitted to units of the World Federation far enough in advance of its observance to be translated and used.

(b) That a letter of greeting from the unit in the U. S. A. be sent with the material with the request that stories of the observance of the day be shared with our unit.

XI. a. That the Woman's Division of Christian Service covenant together specifically for a "prayer minute" in the morning hours of Christmas Day for the other units of the World Federation and the coming of the Kingdom in all lands.

b. That all members of this unit be requested to observe this "prayer minute" in the morning hours of each day throughout the year ahead and that we ask the other units of the Federation to join us in this "prayer minute."

Report of Committee on Policy. Mrs. J. D. Bragg, chairman; Mrs. A. C. Johnson. Secretary. The recommendations were adopted.

The committee recommends the following:

1. That one of the duties of the Policy Committee be the consideration of General Conference legislation and preparation for the organization of the Woman's Division of Christian Service in the new Board of Missions and Church Extension for the next quadrennium.

2. That nominations for membership on the Board of Missions and Church Extension be made by the conferences at their annual meeting nearest the date of their Jurisdiction Conference.

3. That there may be proxies on committees of the Woman's Division of Christian Service which might be classified as educational and promotional, such as the following:

Co-operation with Other Agencies

Library Service

Literature and Publications

Education and Cultivation

Schools and Colleges for Training Christian Workers

Spiritual Life

Status of Women

World Federation of Methodist Women.

4. That appeals from agencies, in which more than one Department of the Woman's Division of Christian Service or the Woman's Section of the Joint Division might be involved, be referred to the president of the Woman's Division of Christian Service for clearance.

5. That the conference Woman's Society of Christian Service be encouraged to accept full responsibility for representation on conference boards where specified, but such relationship does not involve financial obligation.

6. That the secretary of Organization and Promotion be asked to stress the following:

a. Education and information on the duties of the local Woman's Society of Christian Service Finance Committee and the items which should be included in a total budget of the local society.

b. The use of cultivation funds both in the local and conference Woman's Society of Christian Service.

7. a. That the members of the Executive Committee of the Woman's Division of Christian Service who are members of the Joint Division meet quarterly with the staff of Education and Cultivation.

b. That the president of the Woman's Division of Christian Service be asked to convene this group for organization.

Resolution Concerning Japanese. Presented by Miss Miriam Ristine and adopted, as follows:

We deplore the circumstances that have eventuated in the evacuation from their homes on the West Coast of 110,000 Japanese-Americans, aliens and citizens alike—and their removal first to temporary assembly centers and now to more permanent relocation projects.

We desire to express our heartfelt sympathy to our pastors and members and to all the evacuees in the hardships this experience has brought them. We realize that many have suffered great financial losses, and all have undergone much inconvenience. The plans of years have been wrecked and the education of the children and young people interrupted.

It is a cause of reassurance that the authorities have carried out this measure with consideration and kindness. The evacuees, too, have co-operated with admirable courage and loyalty. Christian pastors have been and are the leaders in seeking to bring forth from these painful experiences many fruitful results, and in sustaining the morale of the entire group. We are proud of their splendid spirit and service.

We desire to reiterate our confidence in the loyalty of our citizens who stem from Japanese ancestry. Hundreds of young men, many of them sons of our own pastors and members, are serving in the United States Army. Japanese-American soldiers are now giving their lives at Guadalcanal, New Guinea, and North Africa.

With much appreciation we would commend our Caucasian churches for their splendid expression of Christian love in self-sacrificing services rendered the evacuees during their days of greatest need.

We note with hopefulness the present policy of the War Relocation Authority in promoting as wide as possible a dispersal of the evacuees through individual resettlement in normal American communities. We view this as a challenge to our people and would prayerfully commend it to them, bespeaking for selected and accredited individuals or families a friendly welcome and such aid as they may need.

We desire to continue to assist the young people who are being and will be released from camps to pursue their education in our colleges and universities. They need our friendship and practical help.

As a long-time objective we would pledge our Board and summon our entire church to unceasing efforts in the Christianizing of attitudes toward racial minorities among us, and not least toward those of Oriental extraction. We hope for the repeal of the Oriental Exclusion Act, for the full protection of civil rights, and the natural return to free American life of all persons now affected by emergency war measures. We must work for the renewal of all traces of racial discrimination in the treatment of our fellow Americans.

The assignment of missionaries, returned from Japan, to "Reconciliation Ministry" in this country has proven farsighted strategy. We rejoice in the remarkable work they have accomplished and heartily recommend their continuance in this vastly important field.

These returned missionaries have brought untold spiritual and practical reinforcement to the Japanese Provisional Annual Conference, as it faced exceedingly difficult and perplexing problems. They have also been builders of good will and understanding in a multitude of Caucasian groups.

We note with profound appreciation the remarkably able service of Dr. Frank Herron Smith, not only to our own work, but to the work of all the Protestant churches. As chairman of the Protestant Commission for Japanese Service, he has helped to unify all Protestant activities. At the same time he has been a valuable liaison officer between the church and the government.

The unity of this Board of Missions and Church Extension has been strikingly revealed in the hearty co-operation of all its divisions and departments in this overwhelming task for which there were no guiding precedents.

We feel the particular urgency of this entire undertaking in view of its direct relation not only to the unity of American life, but also to the future of the World Mission, and of that new and better order in which, under God's providence, we are to have our part.

Adjourned with prayer to meet at 5:00 P. M., Friday, December 4.

SEVENTH SESSION

The seventh session of the Woman's Division of Christian Service was called to order Friday, December 4, at 5:45 P. M., by the president, Mrs. Bragg. Prayer was offered.

Foreign Students. Miss Lee presented the following report, which was adopted:

The Education Commission of the 1942 Assembly, looking toward education for a Christian World Community, submitted, among other recommendations, the following which is found on page 37 of the Assembly Bulletin:

"That the exchange of American and foreign students be encouraged through individual sponsors and available agencies; and that these students be selected by committees of the nationals of their respective home or foreign fields."

A committee of two was appointed to study this material. This committee has tried to discover the conditions under which foreign students are being admitted to our colleges this year. From the Institute of International Education much valuable information has been received as to how this committee has functioned in the past. Students from our own mission schools around the world have in other years been recipients of scholarships arranged by the Institute.

Under present war conditions no actual exchanges of students are being made between the United States and foreign countries except a few U. S. students who are going on government scholarships to some of the universities of Latin America.

The committee feels that further study should be made of this situation and that we should look forward to the establishment of a Methodist Scholarship Fund for Foreign Students for use as soon as world conditions permit. With such a fund, it would be possible for us to select specially qualified young people from our mission schools in other lands and help them to study in Methodist colleges in the United States. The committee feels that this would assure a more satisfactory placement of students in colleges where they would be under Christian influences.

It is recommended that this committee for study be continued.

Resolution. The following resolution was referred to the Policy Committee, with favorable consideration:

Be it Resolved, That if and when Gulfside Association, located in Waveland, Mississippi, and incorporated under the laws of the State of Mississippi, so amends its charter as to provide that the Woman's Division of Christian Service is entitled to two members on the Gulfside Board of Trustees, said members to be chosen by the Woman's Division of Christian Service, the Executive Committee of this Division is hereby empowered to choose two such trustees.

(Signed) BISHOP ROBERT E. JONES.

Jurisdiction Meetings. The following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, Certain cultivation funds have been set aside to defray expenses of women members of the Board of Missions to their respective jurisdiction conferences; and,

Whereas, Travel and hospitality conditions caused by the present emergency made it inadvisable in certain jurisdictions to hold annual jurisdiction meetings; and,

Whereas, It is now essential to hold enlarged jurisdiction executive meetings,

We respectfully request the Woman's Division of Christian Service to defray the expenses of the women members of the Board of Missions to their respective jurisdiction executive meetings.

Mrs. C. D. Laylin, President, North Central Jurisdiction.

Mrs. E. L. Hillman, President, Southeastern Jurisdiction.

Postwar Education. Miss Stevens brought the report on Postwar Education of Youth, which was adopted.

We recommend that the Woman's Division urge Methodist women to write their members of Congress, calling special attention to the urgent need for an adequate provision in the Postwar Education program as it relates to the youth whose education has been interrupted by military service.

Committee on General Conference Legislation.

It was voted that the Policy Committee should be the Committee on General Conference Legislation.

Report on Referred Item Concerning Chicago Training School.

Your committee has given careful consideration to the resolution from the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Rock River Conference relative to the Chicago Training School and the advantages to be found at the educational center of which this school is a unit.

We recommend:

That in replying to this communication, assurance be given to the society of the high regard the Woman's Division has for the opportunities to be found in the educational center at Evanston. This interest and esteem has been evidenced by the fact that many of its workers have been sent there for training.

In the study being made of institutions where our workers may secure the highest and best training for their life's work, the Committee on Schools and Colleges of the Woman's Division listed among other institutions for investigation and study: the Chicago Training School, Garrett Biblical Institute, and Northwestern University. The study being made gives an added appreciation of the advantages to be found at this center.

To grant the request: "That the Chicago Training School be listed in the same category along with the National Training School and Scarritt College for Christian Workers in publications and statements concerning the work of the Board of Missions" would seem to the committee to be misleading. The Woman's Division bears a vital relationship to these two institutions in that they were founded by two organizations now merged in the Woman's Division and because of the financial obligations for their maintenance. They stand in a class apart from other institutions by reason of tradition and ownership.

The Division, however, does not confine its interest nor its training program to these institutions, but seeks to direct its workers to those centers of learning where the specific needs of the individual may be most adequately met. We are confident that the Chicago Training School and the institutions with which it is affiliated will receive due consideration in the education and training of the workers of the Woman's Division.

MRS. J. W. PERRY, Chairman;

MRS. LENORE PORTER, Secretary.

Concerning Annual Meeting Treasurers' Committee. Mrs. Ballengee brought to the attention of the Division the need of an earlier appointment of Woman's Division members of this committee, in order that they might have time to meet. It was voted to refer this, as well as similar appointments to the Appropriations and General Reference Committees of the Board, to the Policy Committee for their consideration.

The third annual meeting of the Woman's Division of Christian Service stood adjourned, with prayer.

MRS. J. D. BRAGG, President;
MRS. FRED A. LAMB,
Recording Secretary.

MEMORIALS

Recognition of workers who passed to their reward during the year:

"There is no death.
The stars go down
To rise upon a fairer shore,
And bright in Heaven's jeweled crown
They shine forevermore!"

Miss Marguerite Hewson

Marguerite Hewson began her work as a missionary in the Philippine Islands in 1922. She was one of those who responded to the call of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society for mature and experienced women to volunteer for service on the foreign field. Miss Hewson was a graduate of the Chicago Training School and had already served twelve years as a deaconess in the homeland; the last few years as a social and religious worker in the Juvenile Court in Chicago.

Throughout her years as a missionary while she carried on her regular duties, either teaching Bible subjects or music at Harris Memorial or supervising the work of the deaconesses on Manila, Zambales-Bataan Districts, Marguerite was always trying to help some individual or other to solve a personal difficulty; sometimes financial, at other times moral and spiritual. Her mind was alert and her heart open to discover burdens others were carrying.

Marguerite Hewson was ready for tough tasks and liked to begin some new work against odds. Two dormitories for Filipina girls were established under her leadership; one in a provincial high-school center and the other, Thoburn Hall, in Manila. She was very much concerned about social problems. She felt that the women of our Methodist Church in the Philippines should be doing something about the increase in sales of strong drink, gambling, and the white-slave traffic, so she helped to organize and keep alive units of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in Manila and in some of the towns of her districts and planned for temperance material for the daily vacation Bible schools and weekend classes in Christian education.

When she left Manila in 1936, more than a year beyond the time for regular furlough, she was far from well. We received letters from time to time telling of her efforts for recovery. When it seemed likely that her health would not improve sufficiently for her return to the Islands, she accepted retirement in 1940. On March 5, 1942, while attending a luncheon in Los Angeles, where she was living with a dear and loyal friend, she suffered a sudden stroke and never regained consciousness.

Many congregations and individuals in the Philippines have remembered with gratitude Marguerite Hewson's service among them and missed her stimulating personality. In these days, when no contact is possible between the Philippines and the United States, the memory of such persons as Marguerite, who have made the faith and ideals of Christianity real in their fellowship with them, will be one of the forces to strengthen the faith of our Filipino Methodists and keep alive their hope of release and the ultimate triumph of Christ's way of life.

Miss Anna Lulu Golisch

Miss Anna Lulu Golisch passed away in Los Angeles, August 31, 1942, from a cerebral hemorrhage. Her death brings a sense of great loss not only to her American friends, but also to hundreds of close Chinese friends who called her "Aunt Lulu."

In a peculiar way Miss Golisch was "Aunt Lulu" to everyone. This expresses the warm personal interest she took in people. First there were her students—each girl she taught, whether in piano, voice, chorus (and how she did create a love of singing for the sheer joy of it!), or in a Bible class, wanted to call her Aunt Lulu. They came to her with personal problems: she was the honored guest in their homes. Aunt Lulu was always the one chosen by each school bride to arrange the bridal veil, an act which made her part of the bride's family. The grooms began calling her Aunt Lulu and then as children arrived, the first American they knew was "Auntie Lulu." So two and three generations of Chinese students mourn the passing of this woman, who in an amazing sense was a part of each Chinese household she had known.

Then there were the Chinese pastors, Bible women, and teachers. Miss Golisch was never too tired after a day's or week's work to give these folk additional help in music lessons, spiritual advice, or to go to their meetings to play a piano or organ, sing a solo, or direct a choir.

There were the unfortunates, the lame, the blind, and the beggars. They knew something would be done about their cases if they would come to see Miss Golisch. She became responsible for their hospital treatments, if that seemed necessary; in other cases, needs were laid before the Chinese who then quietly helped these less fortunate ones.

And finally there were the children of missionaries. Often a missionary is so interested in her work with the nationals of her chosen land that she is not aware of the needs of America growing up in a land not adopted by themselves. Miss Golisch was Aunt Lulu to these, too. She gave them music lessons, remembered their birthdays, gave them parties. Thus she helped to make their lives more normal.

Came 1937 and war. Most of those whom Miss Golisch had taught in Nanking had moved westward. I was back in Nanking for a week during 1939. Lulu was there, helping to repair the school, the homes, the organs. But most of all she was there to begin all over again in the training of musicians. Most of those who had played the piano or organ in each school and church throughout the city had sought safety in Free China. Lulu said to me, "I won't be content until I have taught each new teacher in our school how to play the organ and have given voice lessons to all of them, too." She felt the burden on her soul of training new recruits to take the places of those who had moved into the interior. So she exemplified the spirit of reconstruction, which is challenged by the responsibility and thrill of beginning again.—Katherine Boevey.

Miss Eva Hardie

Miss Eva Hardie was born in Ontario, Canada, in 1868, and was sent to India by Cincinnati Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society in 1895. She had both nurse's training and business training and proved invaluable as secretary and school nurse at Isabella Thoburn College and later as business manager at Clara Swain Hospital, Bareilly. But her real lifework was evangelism in the populous districts of North India—Naini Tal, Dwarahat, Bareilly, Moradabad—where her faithfulness and self-sacrifice will long be remembered. She retired in 1936 and died in Alhambra, California, June 21, 1942.

Miss Louise Heafer

Miss Louise Heafer was born in Philadelphia, in 1861, and died in the same city December 6, 1941. She was sent to India by Philadelphia Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society in 1891 and served in girls' schools in Hyderabad and Shahjahanpur and as evangelist in Jubbulpore District. Those were the days of pioneering when there were few comforts and many difficulties. Failing health prevented her return after her second furlough and she retired in 1907. Her deep interest in missionary work was a source of inspiration to her many friends all through the years, even during her long invalidism at the end.

Virginia M. Atkinson

Miss Atkinson was born in Talbotton, Georgia, November 8, 1861. Her father was a Baptist preacher. Twice left motherless before she was seven, her father allowed her cousins in Alabama to adopt her. She attended a neighboring Methodist Sunday school, joined the church, and yielded her life to the service of the Lord.

Miss Atkinson went to China with Miss Haygood in 1884, passing her twenty-third birthday on the steamer. Her progress in learning the language was equaled only by the ease with which she won the hearts of the Chinese whom she touched and led to Christ. In Shanghai, besides other forms of work in the early years, she was active in a little Sunday school in the outskirts of the city.

Some years later Miss Atkinson was appointed to Soochow and put in charge of the day schools in that city under the Woman's Board. The difficulty of trying to oversee these scattered schools made Miss Atkinson establish a Center in the western part of the city. This Center accommodated four of the day schools, the Bible Women—Mrs. Zak and Mrs. Wu, the Chinese teacher and his family, Miss Atkinson, and the missionary co-worker.

The Center had been open only a few years when there burst the Boxer outbreak in 1900. Miss Atkinson and three other missionaries took the pastor and his family with most of the leading Chinese Christians to Japan where they refugeed for four months. Miss Atkinson saw that the time of the young people was well spent in study. Early in the spring of 1901, the Consul was willing for the women to return to Soochow, and the work interrupted temporarily, was taken up again. The Lord blessed Miss Atkinson and her co-workers in this Center, and soon another Chinese house had to be rented to take care of the women and girls who came to the newly opened Embroidery Mission. Bible teaching, personal work, and evangelistic services brought many women and girls to the feet of the Saviour.

Miss Atkinson, like the sons of the prophets of old, realized that the place where she dwelt and worked was "too strait," and she heard the command, "Enlarge the place of thy tent, and let them stretch forth the curtains of thine habitations: spare not, lengthen thy cords, and strengthen thy stakes." So, with the approval of the Board, she bought desirable land, and Davidson Girls' School, Louise Home for the missionaries, the Moka Garden Embroidery Mission, the Kindergarten and Kindergarten Training School, were all provided with buildings in the years following.

As she was gradually relieved of responsibility in Soochow, the demands of the District made her decide to move to Changshu, where she lived and worked with the Chinese teachers and Bible Women. She often spoke of these years as some of the happiest and most fruitful of her life.

The Center at Moka Garden in time also proved "too strait." Land next the church was bought, and through the generosity of Miss Atkinson's Alabama Conference, Dowdell Center was built for the Embroidery Mission and the Woman's Work of the Church.

As the age of her retirement approached, her many Chinese "sons and daughters" begged the Woman's Council to allow her to retire in China, promising to build a home for her. This little home, largely furnished by the Chinese, was the delight of her heart during her last years in Soochow. There was hardly a day or night when her two pretty little guest rooms were not occupied. Her prayer during the Japanese invasion that her house might not be destroyed was answered. Though it was thoroughly looted, the house itself was only slightly damaged. She refurnished it comfortably, but cheaply, and for two years after her return to Soochow she still ministered to our beloved Chinese. She was heartbroken when she finally had to leave China because of the growing seriousness of the war situation and her failing health. To the time of her death, December 12, 1941, she never relinquished her hope of returning to China. —Mary M. Tarrant.

Miss Anna Gallimore

Miss Anna Gallimore was born May 16, 1855, in England, and spent her childhood there. She was sent to India by the Baltimore Branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society in 1887 and was appointed to evangelistic work in Gonda. With Miss Phebe Rowe she traveled in an oxcart and lived in a tent, "grateful for her share in the work." After her furlough in 1894-95 she was appointed (1896) to Moradabad for school work; and in 1897 to Aligarh for evangelism. She returned to America in 1901 broken in health and retired in 1903. She did valuable work in the Baltimore Branch and in 1904-05 was field secretary. Her later years were spent at Mount Dora, Florida. A friend writes of her work in the local Woman's Foreign Missionary Society auxiliary (in which she led the monthly devotions), of her long years as a Sunday-school teacher. She continued writing, Opagues and Prisms From Hindustan (1903), a book in memory of her brother, hymns, and Christmas songs for the Sunday school. Her literary talent appears in her letters which also show deep spirituality and a radiant joy. Her long life of service abroad and at home came to an end on June 5, 1942.

Miss Ethel Wheelock

Miss Ethel Wheelock was born November 20, 1883, at Randolph, Ohio. A cable received January 24 told us of a heart attack and her sudden death on January 21. Miss Wheelock was a graduate of the Lucy Webb Hayes National Training School and later, while on furlough, attended The National Kindergarten Association, Chicago, and Asbury College. Brought up in a devoted Christian home at Geneva, Ohio, she early gave her life in service for Him whom she knew as a Living Friend. Trained in children's work as a deaconess she worked in Washington and Cleveland for some years, and in 1921 answered the call to the foreign field; her first appointment being to the Babyfold in Kolar, South India. In 1934 she was appointed to the co-educational school at Guldarga and her influence goes on in many beautiful young Indian lives that came under her direction in her school work. Later she served in other appointments, the last being evangelistic work among the village Christians of the Yadgiri District.

She was one who rejoiced in her labor of love and was known by the Indian people as "The lady of the happy face."

Miss Ruth E. Hyneman

Miss Ruth E. Hyneman was born at Princeton, Indiana, November 6, 1888, and died April 22, 1942, in Lucknow, India. Miss Hyneman attended Asbury College and went to India immediately after graduation in 1916, joining Lucknow Conference. She was an evangelist always, and through her years of devoted service had become one of the wisest and most useful of the evangelistic missionaries in the Ganges Valley. Most of her service was in the Arrah District though she had Ballia under her care at various times. For two years she was loaned to Dr. E. Stanley Jones's Ashram at Lucknow and Sat Tal and was serving as treasurer at the time of her death. But she had asked to be given work again among the Christian villages. She rejoiced in the signs of new spiritual strength among the Christians she visited and, though almost at the end of her physical endurance, her spirit went on from strength to strength as she discovered new evidences of growth in many of the villages. She burned herself out in the work of the Kingdom. Those who have been associated with her remember with thanksgiving her zeal and her joy in the service of her Lord.

Dr. Lily D. Greene

Dr. Lily D. Greene was born at Hardingsburg, Indiana, August 11, 1868, and died at Clara Swain Hospital, Bareilly, India, February 14, 1942. Late in November she suffered a partial stroke while in Sitapur and was taken to Bareilly for treatment and care. Her passing can only be looked upon as releasing her from the limitations of this life and bringing the freedom of life eternal toward which her spirit looked.

Miss Greene was a person of strong personality and high intellectual attainments. She graduated from DePauw University with an A.B. degree in 1893 and received her M.A. degree from Boston University in 1902. Her further studies were in Johns Hopkins University where she was given the degree of Doctor of Philosophy about twenty years ago. She first sailed for India in 1894 and her service was divided between Lucknow, North India, and Northwest India Conferences. From 1935 to 1937 she served as manager of the Boys' Primary School in Sitapur. She retired in 1936, but at the request of Mrs. E. Stanley Jones she was allowed to remain in India to assist her in the care of the Boys' School. She had thus served forty-seven years, a period far beyond that of most missionaries in any land. Dr. Greene was an individualist and frankly held her own opinions, but she was able to found them on wise observation and broad experience.

Mrs. M. C. Slutes

Mrs. M. C. Slutes, the Secretary for Home Work in the North Central Jurisdiction, a member of the Board of Trustees of The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died on Christmas Day, 1941, following an automobile accident. Her husband, Merrill C. Slutes, is an attorney in Cincinnati.

Miss Ida Kahlo

Miss Ida Kahlo died suddenly at Robincroft Rest Home, Pasadena, California, November 1, 1942, having served as a deaconess and missionary since her graduation from the Aldrich Deaconess Training School, Grand Rapids, Michigan, in 1890. Her field of service included St. Johnsbury, Vermont, Irene Maitland Deaconess Home, New Castle, Pennsylvania, and the Maine Conference Deaconess Home, Portland, Maine. She rendered conspicuous service as hostess at Camp Dix, New Jersey, during the first World War. When called to the ministry of her friend, Miss Carrie Barge, she found her experience as a field secretary invaluable as secretary of the Field Department of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Miss Rachel Irwin

Miss Rachel Irwin died at Bancroft-Taylor Rest Home, Ocean Grove, New Jersey, June 3, 1942. She was born in Logansport, Indiana, and attended Western Reserve University and the University of Minnesota. She entered the missionary work from the New York East Conference in 1915. Miss Irwin taught seven years at Browning Home, Camden, South Carolina, and also was a teacher at Allen Home, Asheville, North Carolina, and at Haven Home, Savannah, Georgia, as well as serving a year at Watts DePeyster School, Tivoli, New York. She retired from active service in 1929.

Elizabeth Wilson Pendergrass

Elizabeth Wilson was an instructor for twenty-five years in domestic art at Ritter Hall, Athens, Tennessee, until she married George W. Pendergrass in 1922. She was devoted to the missionary work of the church and by her consecrated Christian character left an indelible impression on her students. She died at home August 22, 1942, Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Miss Eva Jane Ford

Miss Eva Jane Ford, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. John Ford, pioneers in the English Settlement of Berry, Wisconsin, entered deaconess work in 1895. She attended Chicago Training School and spent her deaconess life in the Rock River, Wisconsin, and West Wisconsin Conferences, serving in the fields of pastor's assistant, conference worker, and as a nurse in the Methodist Dea-coness Orphanage, Lake Bluff, Illinois, and The Methodist Home for the Aged, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Miss Ford passed away at the home of her sister, Mrs. Earl Walker, of Palos Hills, Illinois, January 9, 1942.

Miss Clara Wood

Miss Clara Wood entered deaconess work after having been graduated from the New England Deaconess Training School, Boston, Massachusetts, in 1899. She served as a parish visitor in churches in Boston, Massachusetts, and Bangor, Maine, and was the superintendent of the Boston Deaconess Home from 1915 to 1925. Miss Wood retired in 1931 after having given almost thirty-three years of service in the New England Conference. Her going home took place January 16, 1942.

Miss Cynthia A. Wrikeman

Miss Cynthia A. Wrikeman, a deaconess under the Woman's Home Missionary Society, spent a limited number of years in deaconess work in the North-East Ohio Conference, due to a breakdown in health. She spent her retired days in the Bancroft-Taylor Rest Home, Ocean Grove, New Jersey, from which she went to her heavenly home on February 4, 1942.

Miss Mamie Robinson

Miss Mamie Robinson graduated from Scarritt Bible and Training School in 1918, but because of family reasons she was not consecrated as a deaconess until 1923. She served the Mexican Work in Dallas, Texas; the Wesley House in Nashville, Tennessee; the Wesley House in Fort Worth, Texas; the Mexican Church in Laredo, Texas; the Mexican Circuit, Austin, Texas, as a rural deaconess; and the Mexican Circuit, Georgetown, Texas. Miss Robinson was granted her furlough year in 1939-40, but became ill and had to go home. She was retired July 1, 1941, because of her health, and passed away March 11, 1942.

Miss Matilda Reeves

Miss Matilda Reeves completed her deaconess training at Lucy Webb Hayes National Training School, Washington, D. C., in 1896, and then went to serve Foundry Methodist Church of that city. The large part of her deaconess life was spent in the Baltimore Conference. She did a notable work in Baltimore at the Bohemian Church and Institute, and the Seaman's Bethel Church for Polish people. Miss Reeves also served as superintendent of Cunningham Children's Home, Urbana, Illinois. She retired to Bancroft-Taylor Rest Home where she died March 15, 1942.

Miss Winifred Starbird

Miss Winifred Starbird entered deaconess work in 1908 after having attended Ohio Northern University, Detroit Teachers' College, and the Cincinnati Missionary Training School. Miss Starbird served in the field of social service and Americanization in the Detroit and Ohio Conferences. She passed away in Detroit, Michigan, May 21, 1942.

Miss Miriam L. Throckmorton

Miss Miriam L. Throckmorton attended Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa, and was graduated from the Iowa National Bible Training School, Des Moines, in 1917. She served as parish deaconess in the cities of Des Moines, Salt Lake City, and Pittsburgh, but was forced to give up her work in 1928 because of ill health. Miss Throckmorton made her home with her parents in Derby, Iowa, until the time of her death, August 7, 1942.

Miss Rhoda Dragoo

Miss Rhoda Dragoo received her training for missionary work at the Methodist Training School, Nashville, Tennessee. She served in the Wesley House, Biloxi, Mississippi; Wesley Chapel, Dallas, Texas, and at Thurber, Texas. Miss Dragoo opened Mexican work in Dallas, and for thirteen years worked there in what was known as "Little Mexico." After twenty-five years of service she retired in 1934. Department of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities

By THELMA STEVENS, Executive Secretary

THE year 1942 has been a period of fast-moving events that have in many cases not only completely changed our plan of action, but also cut a new pattern for our way of life and thought. Faced with the reality of the nation's actual participation in a war of world-wide scope, many of the petty interests of life have given place in the minds of some people to a study of the greater essentials. Others have been confused and troubled and pushed aside the idealism of calmer days. Methodist women everywhere with one accord are seeking "a righteous faith" for "building a new earth wherein dwelleth" peace. On this ideal and toward this goal the program of the Department of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities has been planned and promoted through the year.

General Scope of Activities

The scope of activities in the program of the executive secretary included varied contacts and work with many national church and civic agencies interested in the areas of life represented in the department's program; visits to conference and district meetings of the Woman's Society in many sections of The Methodist Church; active assumption of interdenominational committee responsibility, leadership in summer schools and seminars, and many other activities aside from regular routine promotional work in co-operation with jurisdiction and conference secretaries of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities.

The summer program is probably of major interest since it related itself to selected groups of leaders from widely separated geographical areas. There were four jurisdiction schools of missions conducted by the Woman's Society during the summer, each of which gave emphasis to the areas of interest of the department through major seminars and study groups. The four jurisdiction secretaries of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities gave excellent leadership at these schools. Large numbers of women participated in the seminars and the study course, "Planning for Peace." Forty-four conferences were officially represented in the seminar groups on Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities in the jurisdiction schools.

For the first time the department attempted a church-wide seminar on Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities at Garrett Institute, Evanston, Illinois. This seminar was conducted under the wise and farsighted guidance of Miss Louise Young. The six jurisdictions were represented in these two two-week seminar periods with a total enrollment of forty-one. The department is indebted to Garrett Institute for the very gracious hospitality extended and the fine co-operation which went far toward making the seminar period an enriching experience for all who participated in it. This intensive leadership training experience for women throughout Methodism made for unity and understanding of the varied social problems confronting Methodist women, and stimulated the group to go back to their respective spheres of responsibility and interpret with renewed zeal the basic teachings of Jesus in terms of practical Christian community living.

Reports from Conferences

One gauge of the effectiveness of the department's program is the actual work done, as reported by conference secretaries of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities. The percentage of reports received in 1942 for the first three quarters was a considerable increase over the same periods in 1941, and the scope of activities included a greater interest in informal and approved studies and a wider range of projects in the area of social action. With an average of slightly less than 50% of local societies reporting for the first two quarters, more than 4,000 informal studies were reported for that period. Many conferences reported a wide range of informal study without giving specific numbers. The regular and systematic reporting of local societies will increase only as conference and district secretaries radiate interest, enthusiasm, and well-planned guidance in the program of the department.

Final figures for the total amount of money spent on local church and community projects are not available, but reports of the first three quarters indicate an approximate average of $750,000 per quarter for the year. The wide range of interests manifested in the use of this fund indicates the increasing demands being made on church women in some areas particularly. New responsibilities of churches for welfare recreation, and fellowship features in congested defense and camp communities call for extra expenditure of funds. In some cases women have faced grave danger of neglecting their stable ongoing church obligations, while they contributed not only all their time, but money also, to the more spectacular and dramatic war agencies of the community. Our obligation to the church and its agencies and institutions at home and abroad demands our increased service and giving in these times of increased need.

Department Literature and Resource Material

During the year 1942 the five pamphlets prepared by the Resource Committees of the department have received widespread distribution and use. Reprints of some have been necessary. These pamphlets are in the area of Local Church and Community Co-operation, Economic Relations, Christian Citizenship, The Christian Family, and Alcohol and Other Narcotics. The Committee on Minority Groups has promoted a study packet portraying certain phases of minority group problems and needs. The demand for this packet has shown the growing interest in this area of American life. Nearly 1,000 of these packets have been used in less than six months.

One of the approved study courses of the Woman's Society for the year 1942-1943 was planned and prepared by the Department of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities around the topic, "Planning for Peace." This study was based on the materials of the study packet, "Planning for Peace," and attempted to integrate major areas of interest as outlined by three Resource Committees of the department, namely, International Relations and World Peace, Economic Relations, and Minority Groups and Interracial Co-operation. The study is timely and stimulating. The church has a major task in preparing its constituency to lead the way in building now the new world, "wherein dwelleth righteousness." Already this peace packet has been used by women in widespread areas of the church.

Resource Committees

The farsighted planning of the Resource Committees at the Annual Meeting last November made possible the projection of a program through the year that could readily be adapted to the changing life of the community under wartime tension. More and more there has been an effort to integrate the emphases in the various areas of interest as outlined by the seven Resource Committees. Such integration will eliminate the complexity of machinery in local societies that seek to follow the pattern of the department and set up parallel committees. The program of action as reported quarterly in the conference summaries cannot be classified specifically in any one area, but the following is illustrative of some of the many outstanding projects undertaken. They are classified under the seven Resource Committees simply as a convenient method, and with no intention of curtailing the relationship to the whole program:

(1) Local Church and Community Co-operation

The following types of activities are generally prevalent throughout the church: Special fellowship, welcome, and visitation committees attempting to meet the needs of new neighbors in defense areas specially, and to work with the pastor in his program to reach unchurched peoples; church recreation and fellowship features of varied types for men in service seeking to strengthen church ties; purchase of church hymnals, choir robes, carpets, stained-glass windows, repairs on parsonage and church, contributions to church debts; provision for church library for general use; sewing for Red Cross; community teas, luncheons, and dinners; family Lenten suppers; co-operated in the World Day of Prayer service; church basement equipped for a rural community center; provided Upper Rooms and other religious literature for service men and other groups; visited jails, hospitals, and prisons; sponsored and worked in health clinics, and numerous other projects.

(2) International Relations and World Peace

An ever-increasing effort has been made to create a spirit of world-mindedness through study and discussion of plans that must begin now if we are to have some practical semblance of a Christian community in the postwar world. Widespread use of the study, "Planning for Peace," has been reported from many sections of the church. Informal studies and discussions of international problems, pastors' sermons, and special guests acquainted with such problems and procedures are all being used by local societies. Among the tangible efforts of the Woman's Division at this point may be listed the emphasis on World Citizenship, as illustrated in the report of the Assembly Commission on World Citizenship. The following resolution of the Woman's Division has also received wide publicity:

(a) That the President of the United States, the Secretary of State, and the Congress of the United States be urged to set up a Congressional Peace Aims Commission for the formulation of such peace aims as the nation deems feasible for the conclusion of this world conflict, publicizing them to all nations—allied, neutral, and enemy nations alike. Such a step would be a means of bringing new hope of freedom and security to Axis and allied peoples alike and thereby speed the satisfactory conclusion of the war.

(b) Furthermore, in line with the above plan, local societies are urged to give increased emphasis to widespread public discussion and study of proposals looking toward World Organization, in order that the general public mind may be prepared to act more intelligently in relation to any proposed Congressional action along this line.

(3) Economic Relations

Local church groups have acquainted themselves with available agencies in the field of consumer problems, housing, health, social security, employment, co-operatives, wages and hours, and other avenues of service and need. Church women have promoted studies and social action programs at these points. Among specific projects listed, in addition to the above, are the following: Secured permanent support for health clinics; rehabilitation of families in the church or community; supplies to Goodwill Centers and other institutions; nutrition classes in the church; lunchrooms for undernourished school children; hospitalization made possible for cases without funds; six beds given hospital for premature babies; employment and help to high-school students who are graduating; survey of wages and working conditions of domestic employees; some worked to combat racial discrimination in employment and in vocational training programs. Five thousand pamphlets on Economic Relations are in use among church women today.

(4) Minority Groups and Interracial Co-operation

In this time of tension and uncertainty, this special area of the program has probably been uppermost in the thinking of many church leaders. The question of the status of minorities in our land today is intricately interwoven into the total community life and ties into the total program of social action of the church. People are recognizing the relation of the minority group in every section of the globe to the total plan of a postwar world. For this reason the Department of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities has spent a great deal of time in planning for a one-day conference on The Status of Minority Groups in a Christian Democracy. The conference will be a major feature of the annual meeting of the department, and the findings of same will be made available for study by the general church groups. The following activities are representative of interests of church women in this phase of the department's program: Forums on Pan-American friendships, including Latin groups in America; interracial observance of Race Relations Sunday and the World Day of Prayer; interracial worship service to initiate observance of Week of Prayer and Self-Denial; informal studies of Minority Group Packet; protests against segregated blood banks; co-operated in opening Community Center for Negroes; service and financial aid given to Mexican Centers; contributed funds to Negro church projects in defense areas; Americanization work with foreign-born groups; work with Japanese evacuees. One conference promised scholarships for all Japanese students sent to one university.

✦ (5) Christian Citizenship

Amid all the talk about "defending and preserving our democracy," the department program has been concerned with interpreting democracy in terms of citizenship privileges and participation for all peoples. Women of the church have been actively aware of legislative programs of social welfare, of community responsibility for improved educational opportunities for all people, of the rapid increase of delinquency in the United States, and many other avenues of service as illustrated by the following extracts from reports: Women working for higher educational standards; community clean-up campaigns to outlaw vice and prostitution and secure clean law enforcement; worked to eliminate white primary and poll tax; made survey of recreation facilities for youth, and increased church recreation; studied "Christian Roots of Democracy"; church represented on local welfare committee and civic council; worked for passage of Sheppard Bill and enforcement of May Bill and other legislation of state and national government; for better movie and radio programs.

(6) Alcohol and Other Narcotics

The war has made many church groups more conscious of the "barefaced use" of alcohol in all its forms. Efforts have been tireless to promote legislation to outlaw alcohol from camps and camp communities. The work done to insure the passage of the Sheppard Bill and the Lee Amendment to the Draft Bill is an example of the action of church groups. The pamphlet on Alcohol and Other Narcotics has been made available by the committee in recent months. Women are becoming more conscious of the need to work on local option plans and local community law enforcement as the surest means toward temperance and prohibition. Thousands of protests have gone to magazines urging nonalcoholic ads. Woman's societies have worked with W.C.T.U., Allied Youth groups, and other agencies of similar nature. Some conferences are recognizing the need for integrating the program of alcohol education into the State Department's program. Mississippi's State Department of Education has such a program at present with a full-time person to direct same.

(7) The Christian Family

Disrupted and uprooted families are calling for churches all over the land to give guidance, sympathy, fellowship, and wholesome activity. The church is becoming more family conscious, and the Woman's Society has been active at this point in many places through initiating study groups, providing books of interest to youth and young parents; instituting church family surveys and following same with new features in the church program; careful planning and observance of Christian Family Week in May; pastors' sermons; co-operation with P.T.A.; use of material provided in The Christian Home magazine and the growing interest in the new pamphlet on The Christian Family, provided by the Resource Committee. Community and government agencies are far ahead of the church in some respects in planning an intelligent practical approach to the whole question of family welfare, but the church has not only the responsibility for these areas of moral and physical well-being, but also the responsibility for a plus in spiritual resources for times of tension and fear and hopeless uncertainty in family groups.

Our Job Now

The Christian Church has a peculiar opportunity in these times. Let us go into 1943 with a carefully planned, prayerfully thought, and fearlessly wrought goal ever before us. Let us seek within the church a spiritual leadership that builds a righteous faith in a new world order that must come if war is to cease. This new world order must be established by followers of Christ, who have vision, understanding, and insight into the needs and hopes of all peoples of all races everywhere. A righteous faith concerns itself with building bodies free from want, minds free from fear, spirits overflowing with forgiveness and compassion, and lives dedicated to creating the good life for all.

This goal must be implemented with practical plans and programs, that touch our sorest spots in the tenderest places, with such healing power that self-righteousness, prejudice, greed, hatred, conceit, revenge, want, despair, superior and inferior notions—will all give place to a fellowship of good will and understanding and justice for all the world.

Burma

METHODIST work in Burma has been almost entirely in and around Rangoon. Pegu, Twante, and Thongwa are all within sixty miles; only Kalaw is at any distance. On December 9, 1941, all Rangoon schools were ordered closed and boarders sent home. Movement out of the city began at once; many Chinese and some of the wealthier Indians sent their families away. The terrific daytime raids of December 23 and 25 precipitated a general exodus. At the same time refugees came pouring in from the Tenasserim area to the southeast and hordes of frightened people were hurrying down from the north hoping to get away by sea. In all the confusion, terror, and sudden death, there was constant opportunity for Christian service to people in desperate need.

For at least a year missionaries had been preparing for such a time, and until they were obliged to leave, every one of them was engaged in some sort of emergency service. The kind of thing they went through no amount of even the best description could quite make clear; only those who have done it really know.

The evacuation was gradual. Grace Stockwell, Ruth Field, Alice Mae Dome, Mary Oppel, and Jeanette Oldfather crossed to India by boat in late January. Stella Ebersole left Rangoon February 18 and made the trip to Calcutta by car, boat, and overland on foot. At the same time Maurine Cavett evacuated to Kalaw hoping that the Shan States might be permanently safe. But she and the three missionaries in residence at Kingswood School there, the Misses Mellinger, Kintner, and Reid, were forced out on March 13 and went by train to Shwebo, and by plane to Chittagong, to get a Calcutta train there. No one left until it became evident that staying on did more harm than good.

Of course most of the belongings of the evacuees had to be left behind. The boats were too crowded to allow much space to be given to goods. Miss Ebersole started out with sixty pounds which was gradually diminished as she walked. Those who flew could take only thirty-three pounds each. Where it was possible, as in Kalaw, the property and equipment were left in the hands of a responsible person who was staying, but this probably meant little in the long run. We have made to each missionary a special grant of $100 for personal reoutfitting—too little, of course. Nothing can be done about other personal losses or about school properties until the war is over. Careful records are being kept of all financial and property items.

On April 22 a cable came from Bishop Rockey, of Lucknow, in charge of Burma Conference, outlining in detail the appointments of all transferred missionaries. Those appointed to Plains stations had a vacation in the hills and began work in July when schools opened. Only one came home, Mary Oppel, who arrived in New York July 8, and has since resigned and gone into other work. Letters have come from all those in India expressing their gladness at being able to serve in places where they are really needed and their eagerness to return to Burma when the way opens.

Maurine Cavett is taking over the work of Martha Coy at Hissar, thus relieving Miss Coy for evangelistic work in the district. The school is closely related to village life and emphasizes handcraft as Miss Cavett did during her years in Thongwa. Of course her lack of knowledge of the vernacular is a handicap. Alice Mae Dome, who had been in Burma only since December, 1940, has asked to be permanently transferred to India and is now engaged in studying Kanarese in preparation for her appointment in Yadgiri District. She will take over the work of Ethel Wheelock, who died last January and who had been her missionary ideal since childhood. Stella Ebersole is heading the department of religious education in Leonard Theological College and is thoroughly enjoying her work. The courses are those lately taught by Rev. E. L. King, now on furlough, and are given in English. Ruth Field returns to a place she used to hold, that of evangelistic worker in Thoburn Church, Calcutta (English). In these days of tension she is finding a wide-open door. Lela Kintner and Mabel Reid are both at work in Mount Hermon School, Darjeeling, a high school for English-speaking girls and boys located in the hills as their own Kingswood was. Roxana Mellinger is in another English school, Taylor High, in Poona, whose former principal has been kept in Scotland by the war. Jeanette Oldfather is fitting in beautifully in the girls' school in Meerut. Grace Stockwell is in Delhi and has taken over the management of the big bungalow where there are always many guests. She is teaching an English Sunday-school class of twenty-five and is being called upon to share her missionary experiences of over forty years through devotional addresses in district conferences and through other evangelistic work. The Burma missionaries are making a great contribution to India.

Their minds, of course, turn constantly to those they left behind. Sometimes they see some of their friends and through them, perhaps, hear of others—often things very painful to hear. They write often to evacuees, for great numbers of their Anglo-Indian friends found refuge in India. But of the Burmese very few got away. Our missionaries are sure, as we are, that the Christians among them are not only maintaining their own individual faith, but carrying on the work of the church and really building the Kingdom.

As to the future, may I quote from two missionaries? Says one: "I am very eager that when the time comes for us to return to Burma the churches may make a united approach to the situation. We shall need to go very humbly. For after all, our people there have suffered as we have not. And particularly those who go first should be people capable of statesmanlike planning for a new situation. I fancy denominationalism would fall very flat on groups who have fellowshiped together in their sufferings regardless of their denominational backgrounds." And another: "There is no ground for a facile optimistic hope that we shall all be back in a few more months. The way back will be extremely hard; and whenever we friends of Burma are able to return, the healing and rebuilding processes will be slow and difficult. I entertain the hope that as Providence does really guide in human history, so these terrible destructions will have destroyed not only much that we loved, but also much that was detrimental to the life of Burma. I hope that Imperialism in its objectionable sense will have succumbed to the flood; but I hope, too, that Nationalism in its baneful and prejudiced sense will also have disappeared. Evils do not disappear automatically; and neither do goods spring up without cost of pain and effort. When the last battle has been fought and the invader driven off the soil, Burma may enter into a new day; and we must prepare ourselves for that day with all possible wisdom and in the light of our best experience, and be ready to spend our service there 'with malice toward none and with charity for all.'"

Malaya and Sumatra

On the morning of December 8 (December 7 American time) the Japanese bombed Singapore and effected a landing at Kota Bahru. It was the beginning of school holidays, and our missionaries stationed in Penang, Taiping, Ipoh, Kuala Lumpur, Sitiawan, and Malacca had left or were about to leave for Annual Conference scheduled to meet in Singapore December 10. They made no unusual preparations for leaving, for they all expected to get back.

Conference met, transacted the absolutely necessary business, holding day sessions only, on account of air raids, and closed on December 13. Still the missionaries expected to go back to their stations. Some of them did go back; Miss Bunce was in Ipoh just three and one-half hours. That terrific, unbelievable advance of the Japanese crowded our people gradually southward until by the time the enemy was actually approaching the Johore Causeway all our missionaries were in Singapore. Missionary work of normal kinds was, of course, out of the question, but everybody was doing something to help—first aid, hospital service, supervision of air-raid shelters, mothering orphaned children—no one left until forced to do so.

On January 26 the Misses Della Olson, Lila Corbett, Louisa Lambert, and Bonita Blossom sailed for the United States, going by way of Capetown. They arrived in New York April 1, except for Miss Lambert, who was detained in Capetown by illness and arrived May 1, just one month later. On January 30 a large party sailed for the United States, including the Misses Thirza Bunce, Norma Craven, Edna Dahlin, Mechteld Dirksen, Carrie Kenyon, Mildred Kerr, Mabel Marsh, Emma Olson, and Lois Rea. They arrived in San Francisco April 4. Three of our active missionaries and one retired remained in Singapore: the Misses Minnie Rank, Eva Sadler, Lydia Urech (a citizen of Switzerland), and Carrie Jackson (retired). From them no news has come.

Meanwhile the same death and destruction had been going on in Sumatra. We had only two missionaries in that area at the time and both of them arrived safely in this country, Carolyn Judd on March 15 and Freda Chadwick on April 1.

All of the evacuated missionaries have shown the finest possible spirit in making their adjustments to their enforced stay in America. Five of them are giving full time to speaking in behalf of the Woman's Division, Miss Bunce and Miss Harvey in the North Central Jurisdiction, Miss Craven in the South Central, Miss Kenyon in the Northeastern, and Miss Marsh in the Western. Three are teaching in public schools: the Misses Bloxson, Corbett, and Kerr; Miss Rea is teaching in an institution of the Division of Home Missions; Miss Dirksen is a nurse in the Brooklyn Hospital; Miss Emma Olson is pastor's assistant in the Lincoln Street Institutional Church, Chicago; Miss Della Olson was obliged to spend some months at home recovering her health, but is now speaking frequently; Miss Chadwick is in school; Miss Judd is at home; Miss Dahlin and Miss Lambert have resigned. Of those who were on furlough when the war began, Miss Geraldine Johnson has transferred to Peru, and is directora of the school in Callao. Miss Eva Nelson is director of weekday church schools for the Massachusetts Council of Churches. Miss June Redinger is studying in Nashville.

It is well to remind ourselves of what we left in Malaysia. On the peninsula, seven government-aided schools, with a total enrollment of nearly 4,000; seven private schools, supported by the mission, with an enrollment of 1,400; sixteen women in the Theological College; the best of all, a church in which great numbers of students were growing into an active Christian life and men and women were doing active Christian service. On the island of Sumatra, two schools, one of which had just become the special responsibility of the Woman's Division; a growing evangelistic work among Chinese and Bataks; and an opportunity to reach the whole of the fertile eastern plain, which is solely Methodist responsibility.

As to the things we had, buildings, equipment, property, there is no way of knowing what has become of that. Some of it is gone; perhaps most of it is gone. And we cannot tell what may have happened to the individuals who made up the church. Some of them, too, will be gone. But there are some assurances:

1. We must go back to Malaysia as soon as the war is over. It is not only one of our most rewarding fields, it is a field in which we were the largest church; we have inescapable responsibilities in it.

2. When we go back we shall find a church that has not only persisted, but has grown strong through suffering. Its leaders will have had to accept loads they never had dreamed of; its rank and file will have had to choose the right steadfastly. We shall not go back to a religious vacuum, but to a living, striving church.

3. Whatever educational processes prove to be possible in the situation that develops, training preachers, teachers, and laymen will be more than ever necessary. Doubtless our greatest gift will be made through helping in such training.

4. To this end we must be (a) building up a financial reserve. The very small expenditure of missionary funds that kept things going under the generous government system of the past will not be enough for the future. (b) Holding missionaries in readiness to return. We know not the day nor the hour; there must be no scattering of our missionary forces. (c) Seeking and training missionary candidates now.

India

Up to the time of this writing (November 1, 1942), there has been no widespread dislocation of missionary work on account of the war, though there is probably no station in all India which has not felt the effect of the war in one way or another.

Immediately after December 7 people began leaving the east coast cities, and after the fall of Singapore and Rangoon the number of evacuees greatly increased. The April 6 bombing of Vizagapatam and Cocanada, with an alert in Madras, brought panic. Thousands moved to the interior, schools were closed, air-raid precautions were intensified. On February 24, St. Christopher's Training College of Madras relinquished its buildings to government and moved on four-days' notice to Vellore. (See October Methodist Woman, page 12). Calcutta Girls' High School sent all its boarders to schools inland but finished the term in the day school. The Lee Memorial Girls' School, Calcutta, not a Woman's Division of Christian Service institution, but closely related to it, moved 117 girls and 14 teachers to our spacious compound in Pakur, and Miss Katherine Kinzly took charge of the group. The high school of Ushagram in Asansol was also transferred to Pakur. When the first scare passed and there were no further bombings, numbers of people returned to Madras and Calcutta and day schools opened as usual in early July. Boarding schools that had moved, however, stayed in their new locations.

Throughout the year there have been preparations for invasion. Some buildings have been marked for military purposes, though we have not been informed of actual occupation except in the case of Ushagram and St. Christopher's Training College. A wing of Isabella Thoburn College is to become a hospital in case of an emergency, but all rooms except the Assembly Hall can be used by the college until an actual emergency arises. Since our institutions are housed in good buildings, there can be no doubt that an attack anywhere would mean making them immediately available for use by the military or the Red Cross. Letters from India speak frequently of preparations for attack—of baffle walls in buildings, of first-aid classes, of air-raid drills. Even Jagdalpur in the jungle, 165 miles from a railroad, but nearer than that to the east coast, is having regular air-raid drills.

During the riots that followed the proclamation of Civil Disobedience and the imprisonment of Congress leaders (August 7) our missionaries were advised not to travel and work on the districts suffered accordingly. Pakur, on the East India Railway Loop, was without train service or mail from August 16 to September 14. Some sections of Lucknow Conference were similarly cut off for a time.

Certain effects of the war are constant. Petrol (gasoline) was long ago rationed and now it is practically unobtainable. Cars are being sold to government and the proceeds placed in the conference account to be used when the war is over. District missionaries are reverting to ancient modes of travel—boats on the canals and rivers; the tonga, a two-wheeled cart drawn by a horse or bullocks; the ekka, an open cart topped by a square canopy; and even the ricksha. Trains are crowded and schedules are irregular; busses are completely overrun; government has requested that no one travel unless it is absolutely necessary. All this affects missionary work, especially district evangelism. Prices are constantly rising, so that school principals are facing the necessity of reducing the number of boarders or else diminishing the amount of the daily rationing beyond the limits required for health. Our workers on the lowest salaries are approaching actual suffering. In response to the request of the field, the Executive Committee voted in September to make a special grant of one anna to the rupee ($6\frac{1}{4}$ per cent) on all work budgets for a period of one year, beginning July 1, 1942. This will afford some relief, though it will by no means cover the advance in actual costs.

The presence of great numbers of refugees is a constant reminder of the realities of invasion. It is estimated that there are a half-million refugees from Burma in India. Our schools that work in English are crowded with them; Wellesley in Naini Tal reports 160 boarders and 41 day scholars, an increase of 50 per cent. Throughout the hot season the hill stations were crowded and stories of hardship and heroism became common talk.

There has been no general evacuation of missionaries. The India Committee of the Foreign Missions Conference held meetings on February 17, April 16, and May 13, in which the advisability of general evacuation was discussed. On the first of these dates the following action was taken:

Voted that it is the opinion of the committee that the situation is such that as boards we should not urge general evacuation of missionaries at this time because of (1) the travel danger involved, and (2) our utter trust in our India friends.

Voted that the suggestion be forwarded to the boards that consideration be given to the question of advising the missions in India to study carefully the postponement of furloughs.

Voted that it would be advisable for each board to assure itself that funds to cover at least three months' maintenance are available for the missions in India.

In succeeding meetings the essentials of this action were reaffirmed.

In reply to a request from the field received by cable on May 8, both the Foreign Division and the Woman's Division voted that full power be given to a committee composed of the bishops and the two treasurers (Mr. Moffatt and Miss Whiting) to decide about the home-coming of missionaries. From this side we are approving regular furloughs, but we are leaving the final decision in the matter to the individual missionary, the Field Committee, and this special committee.

On the India side matters seem to have moved about as follows:

When uneasiness had become widespread, the bishops held a two-day consultation, and on March 13 sent to all missionaries a letter of advice urging calmness, and courage, co-operation with the authorities, and the carrying on of the regular tasks (see my June report to the Executive Committee). Some time in early April (date not specified) every missionary received a letter from the American Consulate advising that unless she was engaged in activities essential to the prosecution of the war, she should return to America. At the same time it was announced that two boats would be made available by government. At first there was some scurrying about and some packing up. But the net result was that four women returned to this country, two on regular furlough, two a bit early because of certain special circumstances. Four missionaries are taking furlough on the field; 136 are actually at work in addition to nine transfers from Burma; twenty in addition to those who came home this summer are on extended furlough in the United States. Of these six have full-time schedules of itinerating in behalf of the Division, four are in school, and twelve are in remunerative positions.

With all the difficulties the work of the church has been going forward, lagging a little here, moving faster there, nowhere measuring up to God's desire for it, but everywhere sending out something of his light and his truth.

Co-operation

Let us speak first of our interdenominational undertakings. The National Christian Council has been briefly mentioned in the report of our general work. The Council is of increasing importance year by year as we find more ways of working together. Our women's colleges have had a good year in spite of everything. For the latest available facts about them, see Florence Gordon's excellent little booklet published in October by the Foreign Missions Conference, Building Women Leaders. When the new year began in July, Isabella Thoburn College was obliged to turn away many applicants because of lack of room. The enrollment is 277. At the time of the popular demonstrations in August, when students in many cities were staging strikes and riots, Isabella Thoburn College took a holiday in which the staff and students together formed groups to discuss the contribution of educated womanhood to the future of India, and dramatized the result in an impromptu demonstration. After that no more talk of strikes!

St. Christopher's Training College has appointed Miss Mercy Cornelius to succeed Miss Helen Scudder on its staff. Miss Cornelius was head mistress of Bentinck School—in which her grandmother was once a teacher—was a student in Columbia University last year, and this year holds a Fellowship in the University of Michigan.

The Woman's Christian College of Madras has opened a science course leading to a degree, the first in South India.

The Medical College for Women in Vellore has by faith received its first class for the M.B., B.S. degree required by government, twenty-five young women from all over India. Negotiation regarding co-education at Vellore still goes on.

The Woman's Division's property in Aligarh, formerly used for the Vocational School, which stood idle after the school was closed some years ago, is now rented for a nominal sum to the Henry Martyn School of Islamics. Since Aligarh is the seat of the great Moslem University, this is an admirable location for a school which aims to help all missions in their study of a Christian approach to Islam.

Perhaps our mission house in Bombay should be mentioned among our interdenominational agencies. This year it has sheltered scores of refugees from Thailand, Malaya, Burma, and China on their way to Europe or North America. One nerve-wracked woman from Singapore made a special trip to our New York office on her return to the United States to express her gratitude for the kindness of our representatives in Bombay.

Medical Work

There was great rejoicing when India's share for the 1941 Week of Prayer Offering for medical work was announced. The following division of the total has been approved by the Medical Council of The Methodist Church of South Asia:

Bareilly	$1,400.00
Baroda	1,200.00
Brindaban	1,300.00
Kolar	1,400.00
Madar	1,100.00
Dhulia	1,100.00
Bidar	500.00

The Cowen Memorial Hospital in Kolar has already used most of its share of the fund for the purchase of instruments and equipment left with them by Dr. Alexander Corpron, who came to America in July to retire. Dr. Corpron will be greatly missed in Kolar and steps should be taken as soon as possible to send a new man to the hospital. Under the leadership of the Perrills, Clara Swain Hospital at Bareilly has brought its basic equipment up to date and has built a new serving kitchen and service room and a pumphouse-laboratory. The number of patients has steadily increased, and they have required, says Dr. Perrill, "practically every variety of complicated surgery."

The laboratory of Clara Swain Hospital is in charge of a graduate of the course for laboratory technicians given by Ruth Corpron at Creighton-Freeman Hospital, Brindaban (Miss Corpron is the daughter of Dr. Corpron just home from Kolar). Brindaban Hospital was greatly disappointed that the Gordon Hermanns were unable to get to the field this year and is looking forward confidently to their arrival in 1943. Meanwhile the hospital continues its Christlike service in this "Holy city" of Hinduism, following its spiritual leader, Rev. Chakraverti, himself once a "Holy man."

During the monsoon this year, Baroda suffered from high water, the worst since 1927, and both Butler Memorial Hospital and the missionary residence were flooded to a depth of several feet. Their ministrations were more than ever needed during the fever epidemics that followed the flood; India estimated a total of no less than a hundred million cases of malaria last summer. Our two Methodist hospitals at Baroda and Nadiad are taking seriously the Board's instructions to study the possibilities of close affiliation, and definite proposals should be forthcoming. We have one Woman's Division of Christian Service missionary in Nadiad Hospital, Hannah Gallagher, who manages the hospital laboratory and trains a group of young men as technicians.

During the annual meeting of the Board of Governors of Madar Union Sanatorium January 27, 1942, the new men's ward for the Sanatorium was formally opened. The building was made possible by the gift of Mr. George Burlew, of Pittsburgh, in memory of his wife. Miss Maude Nelson, transferred from Korea, arrived in Madar in March—she was in Honolulu December 7—spent the summer in language study and is now on the job as supervisor of nursing. Her first prayer was answered when we sent cash supplies to the amount of $500 for screens. The debt on the Madar property, Foreign Division responsibility, was wiped out this year.

The work of Northern India Public Health Committee has been carried on in spite of limitations of staff. Dr. Kipp has given regular health examinations in the schools and has conducted courses on public health in the Schools of Nursing in Bareilly and Brindaban.

Education

Dr. J. Z. Hodge, former Secretary of the National Christian Council, said recently: "I make bold to say that the most effective service the missionary can render to the church, and through the church to the supreme Christian obligation of evangelizing, is in the province of theological education and teacher training."

First, then, has the Woman's Division anything to do with theological education? It is only three years since the women undertook active participation in Leonard Theological College, but our interest is great, and the amount of our actual contribution has increased this year. We provide six scholarships for women in the department of religious education—not all occupied as yet—and give the service of Miss Beno Benarji to the Woman's School (for pastors' wives). Cash supplies this year furnished materials for the Primary School maintained on the compound. In July Miss Stella Ebersole, temporarily transferred from Burma, took over the courses in religious education that had been taught by Rev. E. L. King, now on furlough. A late report says: "The largest group of students to go out from the college at one time finished their studies in April and left us to take up their new work in many parts of India. Twelve men received their diplomas in the theological department and two men completed the short course. Eleven student wives received certificates, and the first graduate from the department of religious education also received her certificate. From our nursery and primary schools we lost twenty-five children."

The School of Religious Education emphasizes handicrafts, and students are taught as many as twenty different crafts. "Mrs. King, who is in charge of the handicraft department, is constantly studying the possibilities of developing cheaper apparatus and of discovering new sources of supply of materials, new crafts, indigenous materials, and the like. The possibilities of the use of these crafts in village work (where they have furnished openings for evangelistic work, as well as doing their own particular service) have been discovered in the use of leisure time, in home beautification, as well as in classroom work proper. It should be emphasized that this work is educational, not commercial, in its objectives, though the economic aspect is sometimes also apparent." During the Kings' furlough, handicrafts are being taught by a pastor trained in the school. This year, for the first time, a group of women students from the Women's Department of Leonard were given a two-weeks' course at the Agricultural Institute, Allahabad, in the problems of the rural pastor's wife.

The School in the Life of the Church, a 75-page pamphlet appearing early this year, reports a conference held at Jubbulpore, October 28 to November 4, 1941, under the auspices of the Council of Christian Education of our Church in India and Leonard Theological College. Two nationals and three missionaries from Woman's Division schools were among the twenty-six delegates. The report of the series of addresses and of the discussion outcomes ought to have wide circulation in India, and to help in the process of building churches that teach and schools that evangelize.

My report last year listed our institutions for training teachers, from St. Christopher's Training College, which takes college graduates, to those schools which use the vernacular and train middle-school graduates. This year an important change is in process for one of these institutions. The Training Institute for women, Hawa Bagh, Jubbulpore, was visited in 1941 by the Director of Public Instruction of the Central Provinces. In his report, after commenting favorably on the school, he said: "I discussed with the principal the possibility of the College becoming affiliated to the Nagpur University and teaching up to the Diploma of Teaching standard. There is, I think, a great deal to be said in favor of training women teachers in an institution meant particularly for women with a girls' practicing school attached. I have asked the principal to submit definite proposals at an early date so that financial implications may be thoroughly examined with a view to considering the possibility of including provision for the increased general grant in the budget of 1942-43, if possible, or, failing that, of 1943-44, if the College is (a) admitted to the privileges of the Nagpur University, and (b) recognized by government as a training institution for Dip.T. candidates. I recommend the proposal to the serious consideration of the permanent Director of Public Instruction." This was practically a command from the educational authorities to seek affiliation. Miss Lucile Colony, the principal, writing February 10, 1942, made further report: "We have made application, have been inspected by a committee sent by the University, and are led to believe that the affiliation will take effect from July. The governing body, to some extent, remains the missionary body, but there will also be regulations from government placed upon us. We shall grant our students a diploma rather than a certificate, which carries more authority with it and will be an advantage for them to have. Some of our courses of study will have to be altered somewhat, but on the whole there is much in the affiliation which is to our advantage. In fact, the chances are that unless we are affiliated we shall soon be put out of commission entirely because of certain moves in this Province. I will write you again when I know if we are affiliated."

Letters from missionaries bear frequent testimony to the effectiveness of the type of training given at Blackstone Missionary Institute, Muttra, which adds to the prescribed two-year course for teachers a year of Bible training. A young woman with such training makes an invaluable assistant to a missionary and frequently can do things that the missionary herself cannot do. To the villager, of course, such an assistant must remain a person outside the normal pattern of life, since she is past eighteen and unmarried! And this is a problem which the Woman's Division constantly needs to be aware.

Between December 1, 1941, and February 11, 1942, Rev. E. L. King, secretary of the Council of Christian Education of The Methodist Church in Southern Asia, made a study of the schools of our church in Gujarat and Hyderabad and South India Conferences, among them twelve schools of the Woman's Division. The conclusions were published in a brief report entitled "Inside Methodist Education," after having been discussed in detail with the Board of Education in each conference and with the principals of the various schools. The study used an appraisal form grading from 0 to 5, with plus and minus for each, on the following points: An adequate program for character making; careful attention to health; a rich and varied activity program; attention to the education of the hand; provision for vocational guidance; systematic supervision; good teaching; adequate physical equipment; administrative efficiency; definite correlation with church and home.

There is room for numerous comments on these findings, but only one will be made here. It is significant that whereas our schools were given many 4's in the various items and a 5 plus in one (administrative efficiency) only two schools received more than 3 minus in definite correlation with church and home. This certainly gives weight to the complaint that is often made by school principals, that they and their staff get so tied up in routine that they fail to do the very thing they were sent out for. The cure would naturally lie in either (1) simplifying administrative procedure—and this government requirements make difficult, or (2) providing a larger staff; in any case, the cure must be found and applied. It is greatly to be hoped that this appraisal of Mr. King's will be carefully studied both here and in India, and that upon his return from furlough he may extend his studies to the schools of other conferences.

Of our high schools, Ushagram has doubtless had the most exciting year. What happened is briefly stated in the minutes of the Bengal Women's Finance Committee as follows: "Mrs. Williams reported that the military took over the Ushagram Girls' School from July 1. The four upper classes of the high school and the domestic science department have opened at Pakur and efforts are being made to care for the other children at Asansol." It takes some stretch of the imagination to see the multitudinous planning and activity involved in that move. There are some gains—it will be good for Pakur to have the high school and the home science department near at hand. May the losses on both sides not be too serious!

Two rural middle schools in which the Foreign Division and the Woman's Division co-operate opened the first high-school class in July; eighteen registered for it in Gulbarga (South India Conference) and thirty-one in Puntamba (Bombay Conference). Both these schools plan to keep the new course close to the needs of village life.

Johnson Girls' High School in Jubbulpore has a little smaller attendance than usual. Miss Becker suggests two causes—poverty combined with the great increase in the cost of living, and fear of invasion. The school opened in July when these fears had a very real basis; Jubbulpore is a military center of considerable importance.

Webb Memorial High School in Baroda had just been granted an extra $3,000 for repairs of its hostel roof—white ants inside and monkeys on top throwing tiles around—when the flood came and washed up into all their rooms. How far can they stretch that $3,000?

Lal Bagh in Lucknow spent last summer most of its special grant of $3,500 for roofs, floors, paint, whitewash, and other improvements. The report is that its big Primary Day School is jammed to the doors.

Almora is another crowded place. After study by a special committee it was recommended that the school at Dwarahat, some thirty miles over the mountains, be reopened as their primary department. Permission has been granted for this move, but we had to add that additional funds are not available, which may make the change impossible.

The new high-school building for Stanley Girls' High School in Hyderabad was formally opened on December 15, 1941, the gift of its first principal, Miss Alice Evans, now retired. An account of this interesting event, with pictures, appears as one number of the "Challenge Today" series.

The principal of Stanley School is an Indian woman, a graduate of the University of Madras with an M.A. from Mount Holyoke. Eight of our other schools have Indian principals. That is good, but not nearly good enough. One thing we must do is to hasten the process of handing over the management of institutions to Indians. If we do not do it, one of these days government will do it for us.

Education in villages still lags far behind what it ought to be. The difficulties are numerous, but if we are ever to have a strong village church they must be met. Some significance should be attached to the visit of Leslie G. Templin, of Gujarat Conference in Hyderabad this year, to explain to Hyderabad Conference the working of the Village Educational Service. The Gujarat setup is explained in The School in the Life of the Church, as follows: "An attempt has been made (in Gujarat) to differentiate between three types of Christian workers in the village along functional lines. One group, the schoolteachers, are organized into a Village Educational Service, where under educationally qualified leaders village education is as carefully managed as our central schools. Another group, the evangelists in villages that have no Christians, are supported from mission funds and are under the direct employ of district superintendents. The third group is composed of ordained pastors of organized village circuits, on whom is the responsibility of leading the local church in its evangelistic and educational program. The support of these pastors and the local current expenses with a contribution toward benevolences are the first objective in the successive stages toward full church support." Our women missionaries are in general the "educationally qualified leaders" who supervise the schools.

Hyderabad might make a contribution to Gujarat if Mr. Templin made a first-hand study of the village centers in Vikarabad District, of which Mr. E. L. King in Inside Methodist Education says: "The Center program is one—from Mondays through Fridays the school functions, with young and old alike: regular work and adult education. On Saturday comes clean-up day, which is a community-wide affair, with haircutting, delighted use of the shower bath, and a general sprucing up. In the evening there are games of all sorts, many never before seen in villages, I suspect; or folk dancing, with the ancient steps and gospel teaching tied together in happy fashion. I do not know where I have seen such unself-conscious groups, so intent each on its own immediate occupation that visitors came and went unnoticed, play going on with such abandon yet in such orderly fashion. Around the edges were caste people, sharing, even though indirectly, in the gaiety. Then on Sundays all this is transformed and worship attracts the same people in the same numbers and with the same sense of satisfaction. I have never seen greater reverence, nor any more order, in any worshiping group. The minister was gowned, in one place a group of young men served as choir in shirts made distinctive with red pipings. What matter if they were also used as sports shirts, for the same group feeling which won them the conference athletic contest was functioning as they sang in the choir. Some village worthy, hitherto neglected, found new importance in being made an usher, a service which he performed with authority, be it said. Then the Order of Worship—a real order, just like that in the Central Church, an order used intelligently by this village congregation. And the Lighted Cross and the Altar, and the sermon prepared and brief and to the point. Then comes Monday again and the program is off to another round. This is no flash in the pan; it has been in the making for fifteen years at least. And it is no show place—this is the regular work of the Center. Feeder schools in the neighborhood share in its benefits. In time, spreading centers will coalesce and a uniform policy and program be followed, in this district at least.”

Evangelism

What are Woman's Division people doing about “the supreme obligation of evangelizing”? In cities the task is always exceedingly complicated, with constant shifting in population and the denominational divisions. This war year has, of course, intensified the first difficulty enormously. Doris Welles (Hindustani work, Calcutta), wrote in April: “A very large share of the women of Calcutta have left. Gone everywhere. Very few Christian Hindustani women remain. It is the same with the Christian Bengali women. Our church services have very few people attending, and only two or three women. Schools have been closed or evacuated to safer places. Trains are packed.” But by July many had returned and work was going on almost as usual. It is encouraging that some women church members are volunteering for distinctively religious service without salary.

Regarding denominational divisions, the following good word comes from Mildred Drescher, of Bombay: “We had a most successful school of prayer over a week end not long ago. All denominations took part in it, and Christ's Church was well filled for the general meetings. It was very inspiring to see such numbers of people eager to become more effective in their prayer life. It also helped greatly to bring us nearer together in our work.

“Monday we entertained the Missionary Conference of Bombay and had the house full because the subject was “Church Union.” Everyone was so interested that they voted to have another meeting on the subject when more time could be given to questions and discussion.”

The Evangelistic Committee of Bombay Conference makes this recommendation: “In accordance with the new program for women in The Methodist Church, Women's Societies of Christian Service should be formed in every church. Mrs. Chitambar may be requested to help in the organization of these societies. One of the fundamental duties of this society is to educate Christian women to engage in some definite local evangelistic activities. In the primary stages it may be helpful to hold special meetings or institutes in order to get this work definitely under way.” The growth of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in India is truly encouraging.

The great districts in the United Provinces and the Punjab are often areas in which the Christian groups are widely scattered. One such district has Christians in 1,500 villages. Needless to say, there are never workers enough and never well-enough trained. Says the missionary in charge: “My village schools certainly are far from perfect. I have forty-four now, but each one is a decidedly shining light in its own dark corner. I doubt if I could stand another term working as hard as I have this, and it happens that I am the most physically strong of the evangelists. . . . Even if our schools were closed, we could keep busy doing any number of important jobs now entirely neglected.” If village work is really to go forward in areas like this, we must find and train more Indian Christian workers, both salaried and unpaid. That takes more money and more missionaries!

To Nander District in the Deccan (Bombay Conference) we have allowed an annual appropriation of $760, beginning 1942. Miss Emma Stewart has settled in the village of Udgir, from which center she tours the district teaching the infant churches. In rented quarters she has opened a primitive school, because separate day schools are not yet feasible, and has twenty-four boys and girls living with her besides twelve day pupils. “A few,” she says, “came with a change of clothes and some bedding, but most of them with only the rags on their backs." The schoolhouse she describes as follows: "Upstairs there is one long room which serves as the girls' box and sleeping room and also classroom for two classes, and a flat roof on which they can play. They think the upstairs heaps of fun. Downstairs is a small fresh-air room, with only three walls, which serves as home for a young lady teacher and her parents, as well as for her classroom. A rather large kitchen serves for all of us. A tiny bathroom is used for cleaning teeth and doing some washing. It isn't a very inviting place, with very uneven, partly mud floor and poor drain. I have two small, windowless rooms, with a veranda room—three windowless walls and one side open—which serve me for bath, dressing room, bedroom, living room, and office, as well as sewing room for the children. A step lower than my veranda room is another of the same type, which serves as dining room when it is too wet to eat out on the ground, the boys' box and sleeping room, grain-cleaning room, and general workroom, and also for our chapel."

Having made a start in this very promising region, shall we not go forward, not by way of doing things for the people, but by way of teaching them to do things for themselves?

A good example of this way of teaching people is found in Jagdalpur District. Miss Helen Fehr, the missionary in charge, is planning to set up a center for the most progressive type of village service. She says: "But I do not want to make the decision as to the place. I have gathered all the information that I can. I am now going to call the Education Committee for the district and put before them something of the plans and tell them what will be needed and let them find out where they think the best project could be set up. I would like to have the project in the hands of the Education Committee and get it sufficiently under way so that they will be able to report on it at the District Conference. . . . Each day I live I am becoming more convinced that we must do something more than we are doing by way of training our village workers, and relating our whole program more to the lives of our people."

Miss Fehr, like many others of our missionaries, is very active in promoting the literacy program. This movement has now passed through the first high wave of enthusiasm and is out upon the vast sea where the things that count are vision and persistence. Where funds and workers are being made available, as in Gujarat, the teaching goes forward well enough to make the goal of a literate church seem something more substantial than a golden dream. We must give real substance to the whole!

The 1942 Bulletin of the Christian Homes Movement has just come to hand, a little 40-page booklet that is a real milestone of progress. It contains a general discussion of "Homes to the Fore," by Miss Ruth Ure, of the National Christian Council, articles on the Christian home life movement in China, religion in the home, family relationships, and the home beautiful; some suggestions as to standards of excellence in homes, and a beautiful service of intercession for homes. We are not forgetting that it was the purpose of our Week of Prayer offering for 1941 to give impetus to this great movement.

As India moves forward toward the goal of nationhood, a goal that she must reach unless this war is to be in vain, the terrible needs arising out of her illiteracy, her poverty, her diseases, her fatalism, are more clearly than ever our opportunities, the very call of God to share with him in making the new nation a people that he can call his own.

The Church Conference on African Affairs

THE outstanding event of the history of Africa missions for many years is the Church Conference on African Affairs held in Westerville, Ohio, June 19-25. This was the first church conference for Africa held since the conference in LeZoute, Switzerland, in 1926, and the first such conference ever held in America. There were 199 delegates, representing twenty-one denominations. Twenty-one areas of Africa were represented by missionaries and the Gold Coast, Liberia, Nigeria, and the Union of South Africa were also represented by Africans. The conference was, of course, interracial. In the presence of diversity, there was a deep sense of unity made vivid because of the common interest in Africa and because of the fellowship of worship.

The questions presented and discussed show something of the horizon of the conference and the complexities of the problems facing the church in its work in Africa. These subjects were: The Present-Day Africa, the Indigenous African Church; Evangelism and Building of the Indigenous Church; Christian Education in Africa; Christian Literature for Africa; The Ministry of Healing; The Comprehensive Approach to Rural Africa; The Christian Approach to Moslems in Africa; The Contribution of the American Negro to Africa; Missionary Personnel for Africa; Relationships With the Roman Catholic Church in Africa; Africa and an Enduring Peace. In addition to the general discussions there were regional group meetings, each group making specific recommendations for its area. From the general discussions recommendations were made which, if followed, will give direction to missions in the present moment and in the days to come. In accordance with the recommendation of the sections on Christian Education and Christian Ministry of Healing committees have been set up under the Africa Committee of the Foreign Missions Conference to study the problems of educational and medical work looking toward a larger degree of correlation and of experimentation, and a more rapid development of native leadership.

Approximately fifty Methodists attended the conference. All except two of the Woman's Division of Christian Service missionaries on furlough from Africa and all missionaries under appointment to Africa were present. The report of the conference is being sent to every missionary for Africa of the Woman's Division.

At the September meeting of the executive committee of the foreign department of the Woman's Division the major part of one day was given to the study of the report. The executive committee voted to continue the study and to ask that a concurrent study be made in each of the Africa fields. The Inter-Division Committee of Foreign Work voted to make this a joint study and the foreign secretaries for Africa have asked the field committees to begin the study even before the printed report reaches the field.

The Field

News from the field has been meager this year because of irregularity of mails. Work in each field is suffering from limited staff, for it has been impossible for the missionaries on furlough in America to sail for Africa. Except for this serious shortage of missionaries, the work has had surprisingly few dislocations because of the war. The increases in the cost of living and of the operation of the work are great. The letters that come tell of increasing response to the gospel and of growth and development among the African Christians.

Angola

Only Miss Miller and Miss Cross are on the field. Miss Crandall and Miss Glidden have not been able to secure visas from the Portuguese government to return. Miss Nelson is taking a much-needed six-months' furlough in South Africa. These two missionaries, with their Portuguese and African co-workers, are conducting the girls' school, and the agricultural work in connection with it. Miss Miller assists in the medical work of the hospital. The girls' school has an enrollment of more than 200. It was feared that the Bible School could not be opened this autumn because of the decreased missionary staff.

In the Luanda District among the Dembo tribe there is evidence of a real mass movement toward the Christian Church. This movement seems to have developed through the going of large numbers from the Dembo tribes to Luanda to work in the port city. There they come in contact with Christian people and with the church. On returning to the village they have told of the Christian message and from their witness has sprung the mass movement. Our women are eager to work in this field and with the tribe, but are unable to do so because of their limited numbers.

Portuguese East Africa

Unlike the other of our Africa Conferences in Portuguese East Africa, all the missionaries assigned to the work are on the field and have been able to carry on the lines of work as usual. Nevertheless there is definite need for re-enforcement of the staff.

Bishop Springer reports that there is a Methodist community of over 12,000 with nine ordained pastors and scores of local preachers who help shepherd the congregations in 212 villages in Portuguese East Africa and in ninety-two mining compounds around Johannesburg in the Union of South Africa.

As in Angola, there are other tribes near our stations to the south who are responding eagerly to any evangelistic work that is done among them, though the movement is in no sense a mass movement. Miss Northcott, Miss Michel, and Miss Thomas have co-operated as far as possible with the Foreign Division in going out to this tribe.

Rhodesia

In March Miss Sarah King returned to this country from Rhodesia. The ship on which she was traveling was torpedoed and the first lifeboat on which she sought refuge was capsized. After spending about forty-eight hours on another lifeboat the group was rescued. Of the staff in Rhodesia Miss King, Miss Parmenter, Miss Jessie Pfaff, and Miss Lois Pfaff are in America. At the meeting of the executive committee of the Woman's Division in June, Miss Evelyn DeVries was commissioned for work in Rhodesia. When it seemed impossible to secure passage she accepted a teaching position which will give her valuable experience.

There has long been a hope that a nurse training school could be established in Nyadiri. This year the school was established for both men and women with the hearty approval of the government. There is great need for missionary nurses to help in this training and to carry the health work into the villages and dispensaries.

The new-born African Missionary Society of this conference is this year financing the opening of pioneer work on a native reserve on the extreme edge of our territory. A graduate of the theological school and his trained wife have volunteered to go.

Belgian Congo

Miss Martin, Miss Rees, and Miss Robken have completed a year of furlough, but have been unable to return. Miss Parham returned to the United States in late August. Miss Kelly returned to the field, arriving in February, and while no other missionary of the Woman's Division has been able to return, Dr. Hughlett and Mr. and Mrs. Ayres, of the Foreign Division, are en route, which will bring relief to the situation. Miss Carey and Miss Smith are under appointment, and the Woman's Division has voted to transfer Miss Dalbey from Korea, but they have not been able to go to Africa.

Several years ago a building program for the Central Congo Conference was outlined and most of the money for carrying it out set aside. This year the program has gone steadily, if slowly, forward. A home for the missionaries and a home for African girls have been completed at Minga. A building for the normal school at Wembo Nyama is nearing completion. This building has been greatly needed for a number of years. It is near the Bible School, and between the Bible and the Normal Schools a chapel to be used jointly is to be erected. At Tunda a new hospital building is under construction.

Perhaps the event of greatest import to the work in the Congo is the appointment of the first trained African teacher and his trained wife to the teacher-training program at Wembo Nyama. Two couples were sent last year to Kimpese for higher training and have made outstanding records. Formerly the African teachers had had no training beyond the normal school, which has about nine grades.

The regional schools have been strengthened this year, particularly in the Tunda District, by the appointment of normal-trained women teachers to work along with their husbands.

The missionaries in the Congo, like the missionaries in all of Africa, feel that the greatest need at present is for an increase in the missionary staff. They are requesting the opening of two new stations.

Recruits and Training for Missionaries for Africa

It is clear from all information that has come from Africa that the greatest need at the present time is for an increase in missionary personnel. This is necessary in order to prepare Africans for leadership. It is encouraging to know that there are now four new missionaries ready to go when transportation conditions will permit. Two of these have had specialized training at Scarritt College, and all four have had the privilege of studying at Hartford under Dr. Edwin Smith, one of the leading authorities in the world on African culture and the Christian approach to Africa. These four missionaries are not enough to meet the replacements necessary from loss of missionaries in the last two or three years. For no field is specialized training for missionary work more essential than for Africa. There seems to be a growing interest in this field among young persons in America, and the Woman's Division of Christian Service should seek and prepare highly qualified young women for the task.

China

The report for China, written last year on November 19, 1941, closed with these words, "The threat of war between Japan and the United States is great. Should war come, the difficulties of mission work in China will be increased. Of this one fact we are sure: The church has been established in China, and at its center is the Cross of Jesus Christ. In this lies the hope of China." Every message coming from China since December 7, 1941, has revealed the strength of the church and the growing, deepening faith that makes the suffering church a light set upon a hill that cannot be hid.

The report for 1942 is necessarily uneven because of uncertain mails. From occupied China the latest information is that brought by missionaries who left Shanghai June 19. Mail from West China has been fairly regular and has usually been a month or six weeks in transit. Mail from Fukien, Hinghwa, Yenpking Conferences and from Hwa Nan College has been irregular, infrequent, and slow.

OCCUPIED CHINA

With the outbreak of war on December 8 our missionaries in occupied China were interned in mission compounds, usually in their own homes. In Peking and Shanghai they were allowed the freedom of the city, but in other towns and cities they were confined to their compounds. Two in North China were imprisoned for six weeks, but for the most part the missionaries were treated with consideration by the Japanese. In some cities they were allowed to see Chinese friends and servants, in others only their servants. The outstanding, never-to-be-forgotten experience for all the missionaries was the constant evidence of the friendship of the Chinese. They used every method possible to bring comfort and strength to their missionary co-workers, often at personal risk and sacrifice. Food, money, and service were generously proffered.

The board was able to make arrangements with the government of the United States to pay through the Swiss government subsistence allowances to the missionaries in occupied China. Through cable all missionaries were advised to accept repatriation if and when offered. Twelve missionaries of the Woman's Division returned on the S. S. "Gripsholm," which with 1,453 repatriates from the Far East arrived at New York on August 25. Our twelve from China were: Misses Ruth Daniels, Nanchang; Ruth Danner, Tsinan; Edith Fredericks, Hong Kong; Jenny Lind, Kiukiang; Pearle McCain, Nanking; Geneva Miller, Tsinan; Annie Pittman, Kiukiang; Mary Katharine Russell, Tsinan; Clara Bell Smith, Chinkiang; Harriet Whitmer, Nanking; Jessie Wolcott, Nanking, and Mabel Woodruff, Kiukiang. It is understood that opportunity for repatriation was given first to persons from smaller interior places without Swiss consulates. It is expected that two more trips of repatriation will be made from the Orient and that all—or virtually all—of our missionaries from occupied China will return to the United States.

No one who has followed the history of the church in China in recent years expected that the internment of missionaries and the cutting off of funds from abroad would close the work, but the loyalty and courage shown by the Chinese Christians in this time of trial is additional evidence of the strength of Chinese character and the power of the Christian gospel. The employed workers—ministers, Bible women, and deaconesses—and the lay membership of the church have shared together the hardships, the ministers and Bible women and deaconesses going steadily forward with the work, living as frugally as possible, the church assuming their support. From former students of the schools and from their husbands have come unexpected, generous gifts.

North China Conference

In Peking Gamewell School is open under municipal auspices with its former Chinese staff. The Union Bible Training School and Yenching University are closed. Sleeper Davis Hospital is functioning as usual. Miss Alice Powell, R.N., missed only a few days and is now working regularly. With two other mission hospitals, one of the Foreign Division and the other Presbyterian, Sleeper Davis is carrying an unusually heavy load since the closing of P. U. M. C.

In Tientsin Isabella Fisher Hospital is functioning under the former Chinese staff. Keen School is open under government auspices with the former Chinese staff. Mr. Liu continues as principal. The strongest Chinese woman leader in the school, an unusual Christian, was appointed dean in Miss Frantz's place. The headquarters for the conference religious work for women and children and for public health work were located in Tientsin. The headquarters are closed, but the Chinese workers are using carefully the funds on hand and are raising more, carrying on as best they can.

In Tsinan Cheeloo University, Cheeloo Hospital, and the special home economics center are closed. Chinese workers are continuing to spread the use of diet lists and formulas and methods learned.

In Changli the property of Alderman School and of the New Light School have been taken by the government and combined with a government school. One of the teachers of New Light is traveling throughout the territory visiting graduates, encouraging them, and helping them in church work and in adult education classes. From these classes it is hoped that students will come for New Light when it again opens. Alderman primary school is open under government auspices with an entirely Christian staff.

Central China Conference

The missionaries of the Woman's Division of this conference, with the exception of Miss Clara Bell Smith, were in Wuhu on December 8 attending the annual conference. They were interned on the hospital compound there for several weeks and later allowed to return to their stations.

Nanking. In the autumn of 1941 the Woman's Division of Christian Service was able to strengthen the Bible Teachers Training School by the addition to the staff of Miss Pearle McCain and Miss Violet Yao. The school opened with an enrollment of 133 and was permitted to remain open throughout the school year. Early in 1942 orders came that no American could teach. The Chinese members of the faculty accepted additional responsibilities in teaching and in administration and finance, and some of the pastors in the city helped with the teaching. Twelve students were graduated and went as trained workers into seven of China's provinces. The school was not allowed to reopen in the autumn of 1942. The report from the school states: "After thirty years of service in training over four hundred women for the Lord's work in China the Bible Teachers Training School is closed for a while. We believe it is only for a while. A complete list of buildings and equipment was filed with the Japanese and Swiss Consuls."

The middle school at Ginling was allowed to complete the work for the year 1941-42, but was closed on the 15th of June. On June 19 the Japanese occupied the compound, took over an empty dormitory and, as a matter of form, checked the inventory that had been made.

No missionaries of the Woman's Division remain within the borders of the Central China Conference.

Kiangsi Conference

All the missionaries have left the occupied portions of Kiangsi Conference. Schools and hospitals are closed, but the church work is being carried on by the Chinese with courage and resourcefulness.

East China Conference

On December 8 the missionaries of the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the East China Conference were already in Shanghai. They have been allowed comfortable freedom within the city. Moore Memorial Church was one of the first places to be occupied and has been used as headquarters for the Japanese military. Much of the work of the church continues from a center in the French Concession. Laura Haygood Normal School carried on for a while in rented quarters. The school is now officially closed and completed the year's work in informal classes. McTyre School completed the school year with virtually no interference and expected to open again in the autumn with a large enrollment. The missionaries in the school are continuing to teach. Margaret Williamson Hospital is open, but none of our American staff is at work there. From one missionary in Shanghai has come a copy of a detailed plan for the organization of the department of Deaconess and Bible Women Work of the China Central Conference.

In Soochow Davidson School and Konghong Church have moved to the Baptist Compound. The church has been taken by the Japanese and all institutional features closed. Atkinson Academy is running under new government supervision. St. John's Church is open. The Soochow University buildings have been taken over by the military.

In Wusih the social-evangelistic work is going on under Chinese leadership.

Changchow Hospital is being carried on by the Chinese. No religious work is permitted.

In Huchow all religious work has been closed.

Information concerning the area of the Central, Kiangsi, and East China Conferences is necessarily indefinite, for changes come rapidly. A memorandum from the bishop in charge states: "Of our seven Methodist hospitals in this region fully functioning on December 8, four have been taken over and closed to the Chinese public. The union hospitals in Nanking and Shanghai in which the Methodist Church cooperates continue but with all Americans withdrawn.

"In most places local churches continue as usual, with the pastors and Bible women in regular work. But in the city of Huchow all churches have been closed and our people forbidden to assemble for worship even in private homes. In Kiukiang four of our five churches have been taken over and closed, one or more being nailed up. However, services conducted in homes are not forbidden and many of our people gather regularly in the one remaining small school chapel at one side of the city. The premises of our strongest church in Shanghai have been occupied by armed forces since December 8, though the congregation continues vigorously in borrowed quarters and with decentralized activities. Our large institutional church in Soochow is about to be taken over entirely by the government."

FREE CHINA

Little information has come from Hwa Nan College and Foochow, Yenping, and Hinghwa Conferences. The Japanese occupied parts of Fukien Province for several weeks in the spring, but later departed, leaving this area again Free China. The institutions and workers have moved frequently because of heavy fighting, invasion, and threats of reinvasion. Hwa Nan College has continued in borrowed buildings in Yenping with a large enrollment. In the late summer President Lucy Wang went to West China for consultation with Madame Chiang Kai-Shek and other educational leaders. Yet one missionary writes of this year as a time of harvest and all letters indicate progress in the midst of great difficulty. A few excerpts from letters to fellow missionaries and friends reveal something of the problems and of the spirit in which they are being met:

"We are grateful that we can go along with the work even to the 'tune of the old siren.' Hamilton dormitory (in Hinghwa) is a sorry sight. The principal is here planning to repair and get things in shape for the school to return this fall. Our residence there is practically gone."

"When I first came to China Christian educational institutions were in the lead. Now we are lagging far behind. If we are to continue to carry our educational work after the close of the war, we must remedy some of these conditions now while there is yet time, or we shall be closed out. We still feel from the Chinese pulse there is need for our Christian primary school. Here in our girls' primary school (Hinghwa) we have the children from most of the official families which puts us as a good school. But we are constantly being sent notes as to what we should have in the way of equipment which is impossible to procure with present funds. Teachers are also leaving unless we can give them a living wage."

"Another thing that is helping to keep my spirits up instead of down is a new Sunday-school project. The Guthrie High has its own circuit. So some of the Chinese have become interested in having a Sunday school for high-school students from our non-Christian schools. We have been having about ninety in attendance for the past two months. More are coming now and by fall several schools will be represented. They are asking for a choir group, a special Bible study group and, of course, they want to know if they may have parties. So we have a big work and a most wonderful opportunity before us. I do hope they shall be able to stay and carry this work on."

"It seems to me that if it is possible, two young women should be getting Mandarin in the language school at Berkeley to come to the Hinghwa Conference as soon as the war is over. With one exception we are all or soon will be in our fifties. We must have some new recruits to get ready to take over. Our Chinese are carrying their end of the heavy load, but they still ask for more missionaries. We had a new worker in 1929 who was reappointed on the field to Yenping Conference in 1930. We were promised a replacement then. She has never come."

From the minutes of the Hinghwa Field Committee is the following about the progress of conference work:

"Each district superintendent or missionary in charge reported on the progress of the work in his district. The reports resolved themselves into the following headings:

"a. Twenty-three revivals have been held since last conference. In each place new members have been won and former members have returned to the church;

"b. Several hundred men and women are organized into Romanized classes. Many young people are learning to read Romanized to be able to teach a mother, sister, or wife to read;

"c. The Chinese Woman's Society of Christian Service, reported by the conference treasurer, told of the increase in the number of auxiliaries. The aims of this organization for the year were given as follows: Each member reading Mark; every member holding family worship; every member who cannot read to learn to read the Romanized primer; a campaign of one win one. Financially the conference society is pledged to send 60 per cent of their funds for work carried on by the Fukien area Chinese Woman's Society of Christian Service. The remainder is to be used in the local conference to aid the leper work and also needy Bible women."

"I am sorry that we have to increase our askings (in Yenping), but prices keep on soaring higher and higher. If it had not been for the relief grant from Chungking for the first half of the year we would have had to take more drastic measures. As it stands now we are not sure we can reopen all of our primary schools this fall. Our lower-paid workers, the faithful Bible women, receive now ten times as much as two years ago, but are closer to starvation than at any time in their lives. We have lost a very few who simply could not make ends meet, but on the whole they are standing by.

"Our own residence (in Yenping) was thoroughly reconditioned in 1933, nine years ago. For the past four years the foreign staff of Hwa Nan has lived with us which meant that we were constantly eight people in the house instead of four. Naturally our home has had much harder wear, and the dining room and hall are in dire need of repairing. Cracks reach from the ceiling to the floor, and the paint on the floors is badly worn. Preparations are under way to divide in two households; this will relieve the present crowdedness but, of course, cannot compensate for the hard wear of years. Hence our need to ask for help. Five hundred dollars is as modest as we can make our request."

Kiangsi Conference

Miss Seeck and Miss Cone have continued to work in Yutu, Kiangsi. During the summer there has been fighting in this area. Six of the places that had been open were occupied and the work closed. Baldwin School planned to carry on again this year in Yutu.

West China Conference

New Ways for a New Age:

In America conferences and committees discuss post-war planning. In West China, in the midst of war and destruction, the Christian church puts into action new plans for the new age.

Chengtzu District Conference: For the first time in ten years the Chengtzu District held a district conference. It met for eight days, a combination of a business meeting and a training school, with the emphasis on the latter. Bishop Chen and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lee, of the Department of Religious Education, missionaries, men and women, ministers, lay workers—employed and volunteer—were in attendance. There were graded classes in Bible study, one working particularly on Bible study for family prayers. There were workshops in which devotional and recreational periods were planned and then made a part of the conference program. Demonstrations in health work and in parent education were given. A program was adopted which included a resolution for each one to win one during the year and for each one to give one-tenth of his income.

Kienyang Rural Service Station: Under the leadership of Dr. Irma Highbaugh, who had formerly worked in North China, the Kienyang Methodist Center was opened in 1941. Miss Highbaugh writes: "One of the chief purposes of establishing the Kienyang station was to give college students an opportunity to work in an on-going, well-rounded church program during vacation periods. The object of this is twofold: To give them experience and direct contact with rural people to carry back into the classroom; to interest them in church work so that they will be active, aggressive Christians in their communities, and to enlist some of them in church work as a life vocation." In the winter vacation nine college and university students from Chengtzu work through this center. They were from Ginling, Cheeloo, West China Union University, Nanking University; majors in sociology, home economics, agriculture, or religion. Most of the students stated as their purpose in coming the desire to get some practical experience before leaving school. A few came because someone had suggested it, while two of the Ginling girls said they were investigating Christianity and wanted to share this church work with the hope that it would help them to a decision about accepting Christ. In the summer there were town and rural volunteer leaders to be trained with college students. The work was divided into three periods. The first, a preparation period when teams prepared posters to place around town announcing the exhibit and program, prepared plays, songs, and materials, enlisting as many boys and girls and local women as possible to go forth to invite the whole city to attend. The second period was the exhibit and program in Kienyang itself. The third period was the taking of the exhibits and program into two other rural and one town centers, the students and staff dividing into groups and living in the centers. The winter exhibits included children's clothing, household decoration, religious art, citizenship, foods, children's toys, and recreation. The summer program consisted of five nursery play groups with weekly parent education meetings; three daily vacation Bible schools; three adult literacy classes; research work—several juniors are gathering data for their theses, either in sociology or home economics; health work, including physical examinations and curative work for all children in classes; a clean-up campaign on drains, toilets, and flies—two medical students, one man and a woman, worked with the midwife. Religious education in all classes, and Sunday school for all of them, and in town and one rural center a preparation for church-membership classes. A description of the summer work written in the midst of the program says: "The students are a very superior lot, and we enjoy them and feel we are all growing together. I believe the professors and students have a growing interest in and appreciation of the church. There is not a dull moment these days and nights. Thirteen volunteers are helping to teach daily."

Stevens Memorial High School. The Woman's Division of Christian Service was able in 1942 to resume the payment of an annual appropriation to Stevens Memorial High School in Suining. A part of Rulison School from Kiukiang and of Baldwin School from Nanchang are combined with the Stevens Memorial in West China. The school has had a record enrollment and for the first time in three years had an entire school year with neither an air raid or an urgent alarm. Schedules have been worked out to give larger opportunity for personal guidance through an extra-curricular program. During the year there was a 100-per-cent voluntary attendance at chapel and in the regular Bible classes. A hundred per cent of the faculty are Christian. On the last Sunday morning of the school year eleven girls were baptized and forty-one brought into the church on probation. Thirty-four of the students responded to a call for service in daily vacation Bible schools in the country during the summer.

Fidelia DeWitt School, a school for homemakers. In 1940 the re-evaluation committee for West China recommended that Fidelia DeWitt School become a school for training for homemaking, but little progress was made. In July, 1942, the Chinese principal of the New Light School in Peking arrived in West China. Many tempting offers of work were made to her, but she sees the great opportunity for all China in the Fidelia DeWitt program and has accepted its principalship. A part of the appropriation from the New Light School will be transferred temporarily to the Fidelia DeWitt School. The principal and the school board are eager to lay the right foundations and will postpone opening the school until February, 1943. This autumn the work of planning the curriculum and of producing materials and literature for the homemaking program has been begun. The school board and the constituency are being educated concerning the significance of the school. Students are being enrolled.

Student Work. In Chengtu, on the campus of the West China Union University, Ginling College, Nanking University, the Union Theological College, Cheeloo University, and the West China Union University and Woman's College have enrolled thousands of students, some from the west, but many from occupied China. In the autumn of 1942 Yenching opened on the same campus, also the part of the medical school of Cheeloo which had been in Tsinan. Students from occupied China are continuing to make the long trek to the west and to carry on their search for an education in spite of all difficulties. A letter written from the Woman's College of the West China Union University, after school opened this autumn, said: "We are embarrassed by the greatly increased numbers of students we are being asked to take into the Woman's College this term. Numbers taking entrance examinations were high for all the Christian institutions and with universities in the region of Shanghai and Hongkong added to the list of those unable to carry on much, if any, work we are pressed on every hand to accept transfer students. . . . We have added a number of beds to our present accommodations and are letting a number live in their own or approved homes. Still they come! And many must be turned away. The tendency is toward a more rapid expansion than seems to us best, and a measure of it cannot be avoided in times like these. We have begun classes this week. It is a joy to feel the thrill of standing before new groups of students after years of teaching and to plan how one can try to put into their lives that which shall be of enduring worth."

Not only are students in large numbers coming to the Christian universities, but many of the private and government schools formerly in occupied China have moved to West China and are filled with students. In these a new and growing interest has been evidenced in Christianity. A co-operative effort to meet the new opportunity is being made by the Christian forces in West China. The Woman's Division of Christian Service has a part in this work by an appropriation made through the Foreign Missions Conference to student evangelism, and through co-operation in the program of some of our finest missionaries. Centers have been opened and student secretaries appointed for the work. An important feature of the work has been the close co-operation with the local churches, where there are churches. All the secretaries are themselves deeply devoted to the church and have tried to relate their work to the church. The excellent results of the work done are largely due to the careful preparation made for co-operative effort and to the carrying out of the program in consultation with the local churches. The student situation presents not only opportunity, but growing danger. China has had five years of war with its disappointments and disillusionment for students. The economic system is chaotic. "Among the students (and also in many cases in the families of professors) there is undernourishment, a tendency to pessimism and despair, and a great need for wholesome recreation—a desperate need for a faith to live by."

The Christian Farmer has steadily increased in usefulness to the whole Christian rural movement and to the cause of liberal social and economic thought in China. The subscription list has reached approximately forty thousand, placing the magazine in the homes of thousands of China's rural people. Because of the high cost of paper the magazine has been reduced from a biweekly to a monthly, and the price of the subscription has been raised 250 per cent. Consequently the subscription list has been slightly reduced.

China has always held in highest respect the scholar and the farmer. Today these two groups are responding to the Christian message as never before. Any kind of Christian common sense demands that the church in America take this opportunity to strengthen the work in China for generations to come.

The Costliness of Missions

Living costs have risen constantly in China so that figures given today may be out of date within the week. Conservative statements are that the cost of living has increased twenty or thirty times since 1937. The Woman's Division of Christian Service has voted to make an additional grant to each missionary in West China of 50 per cent of her salary and to those in other parts of Free China of 20 per cent of their salaries. Already word has come that the 20 per cent will not be sufficient and a 50-per-cent increase must be made for all. This increase will merely supply the barest living. The situation of the Chinese Christian workers is even more difficult. Some help has been granted them through the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief. But our teachers, Bible women, and medical workers are not getting enough money for food, to say nothing of clothing and medicines. It is imperative that salary increases be provided these workers in order that they may live. In the face of unprecedented demand for Christian literature, printing costs are unbelievably high. Each letter going to China must go by air mail at a cost of seventy cents for each half ounce. Postage from China is even more expensive. Transportation costs by boat have virtually doubled since last year.

These costs in money are minor compared with the larger costs which the missionaries and Chinese Christians are paying in order to meet the opportunities and dangers of this day in China. In every center in the midst of perils of war they are carrying heavier loads than ever before, made necessary by the increasing opportunities, by scarcity of equipment, and by the fact that many missionaries in America are unable to return to China. Diets are restricted both because of cost and because of the impossibility of securing many kinds of food. Medicines and hospital supplies are wholly inadequate. It has been necessary during the year several times to send by air certain medicines to meet emergencies, and perhaps to save life. The missionaries are paying the heavy cost of loneliness and isolation from the rest of the world. No magazines or books reach them; letters infrequently, only by air mail. The Woman's Division of Christian Service in America can bear some of the costliness of missions today by meeting the emergency financial needs and by more adequate appropriation. The greater costs of danger, loneliness, and overwork we can also share to some extent through understanding and prayer.

New Missionaries and the California College in China

In this report there is mention of the need for new missionaries in the Hinghwa Conference. The need exists throughout China. The average age of our missionaries is dangerously high for the future of the work. As soon as travel conditions permit many whose furloughs are overdue must come home. The Board of Missions and Church Extension wisely requires all new missionaries to have at least one year of work experience and at least one year of specialized missionary preparation before they are commissioned for foreign service. In addition to this preparation the establishment of the California College in China makes possible for missionaries for China to study the Chinese language before going to the field. Under the direction of Dr. W. B. Pettus, the president of the College of Chinese Studies in Peking, an excellent staff of Chinese teachers has been secured. The school opened May, 1942. Four missionaries of the Woman's Division of Christian Service are now enrolled. Three of these are missionaries on furlough from China who have served in non-Mandarin speaking areas and are now studying Mandarin. One, Miss Elma Ashby, R.N., was enroute to China in October, 1940. She was stopped in Honolulu and stayed there until July, 1942, nursing part time and studying Chinese part time. She returned to enter the language school in July.

For replacements of missionaries who will soon retire and for meeting new opportunities the Woman's Division of Christian Service should discover and prepare a large number of the choicest young women of the church for service in China. At least three years after graduation from college is necessary for preparation which can be secured in the United States.

The Foreign Missions Conference of North America

The Woman's Division of Christian Service co-operates with other mission boards and agencies in the work of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America and its committees by appropriations, and by service rendered by Division members, secretaries, and missionaries. Since unification no report of the work has been included in the yearbook of the Division. The following brief report has been prepared in consultation with secretaries of the Foreign Missions Conference.

The Foreign Missions Conference of North America had its rise in 1893, when about a dozen denominational foreign mission boards with headquarters in the vicinity of New York, N. Y., felt the need for conference and sharing of interests and concern. The results gained were such that there has been regular similar gatherings through the years. The fiftieth annual meeting will be held in 1943. That this organization arose so early in the field of interdenominational activities, and has continued for so many years to develop in scope, in significance, and in the confidence of its constituent members, gives evidence of the real need for it in the first instance, the continuing need for it in the present and the unmistakably distinct area of its functioning.

The Conference now unites in planning and action 121 boards and agencies of the United States and Canada, representing sixty-six Protestant denominations and thirty million Christians in the Christian World Mission through ten thousand missionaries in eighty-one countries.

It is an association providing these boards, societies, and their respective churches with an understanding fellowship and a medium for counseling together and one through which co-operative plans for action may emerge. It meets annually to confer on issues, to advise in the creation of policies, to detect overlapping, and to aid in initiating projects of advance. It helps unite members of the Christian church in many nations of the world in Christian service. It offers a most effective means of bringing together Christian personalities, activities, and influences for the realization of good will, brotherhood, and peace.

The Foreign Missions Conference and twenty-six similar conferences and National Christian Councils around the world now form and function through the International Missions Council.

While the Conference meets but once a year, its interim body, the Committee of Reference and Counsel, meets between sessions and carries on the co-operative work of the missionary enterprise.

The Conference functions through its representative committees (area and functional), through its secretarial council, and through special committees and commissions which study and counsel on plans for the development of world Christianity. All area committees render to member boards service when required in relation to North America and foreign government relationships—policies, passports, entry permits, etc., in matters of transportation, transmission of funds, communications, and in all other practical problems that arise.

The Conference and all its parts are now consistently working on current emergency problems and on post-war plans.

The Woman's Division has elected members to each of the representative committees having relationship to the areas or types of work in which the Division is at work. Miss Lee and Miss MacKinnon are members of the Committee of Reference and Counsel. Miss Glora Wysner, of Algeria, was assigned to the Foreign Missions Conference for special work for the proposed World Mission Convocation and is now working with the Committee on Africa. Miss Lora Battin has been allocated for half-time service with a special committee of the Rural Missions Co-operating Committee.

Committee on East Asia. The Committee has met frequently during the year to consider the common problems of mission boards arising from the war in the Far East. It has been particularly useful to member boards in serving as a clearing house for information concerning missions and missionaries. Much of the general material which has been sent to members of the Methodist Board has been culled from the bulletins issued by the Committee on East Asia. It has also rendered invaluable service in contacts with government in transmission of funds, the securing of passports, and occasional priorities for passage by steamboat and air.

Through the Committee on East Asia a budget of $25,000 has been provided to strengthen the National Christian Council of China in its new work in West China. It has sponsored the "Christian Farmer," the co-operative program of student evangelism, and has been in constant correspondence with the National Christian Council concerning other proposed co-operative projects for the new day in China.

India Committee. The committee at its annual meeting revises the actions and passes the budget of the National Christian Council in India, including the Central Board of Christian Higher Education, the Central Research Committee, the Literacy Movement, Evangelism, especially in mass-movement areas, the Committee on Christian Literature. It is constantly studying the possibilities of united action. This year several called meetings have been held to advise with the proper boards on critical situations in the field. The first of a series of special study sessions was held on September 30, addressed by Mr. S. E. Runganadhan, formerly vice-chancellor of the University of Madras.

The Philippines Committee. In confidence that the time will come when missions will be resumed in the Philippines with enlarged opportunity for co-operative work and experimentation, the committee has gone forward with constructive planning.

It has recommended to each board that it secure, train, and appoint candidates who shall be ready to go to the Philippines when transportation and other facilities are available. For these "appointees in waiting" plans are being made to provide a course for seminar reading which will give understanding of the life and customs in the Philippines.

The committee also recommends that its budget be maintained so that funds may be available for needs which will be urgent as soon as communications are resumed. A Christian Literature Program for the Philippines has been planned, including curriculum material, subsidy for a Christian journal, and material on home and family life. The Literature Committee of the International Missionary Council has appropriated $4,000 for Christian literature to be used in the Philippines as soon as conditions permit.

Committee on Co-operation in Latin America. This committee, organized over twenty-five years ago and representing the major boards carrying work in Latin America, is now a representative committee of the Foreign Missions Conference. Through the years it has played an important part in making North Americans conscious of the spiritual needs of the countries to the south. It has fostered friendly relations with these republics as the only basis of living together on this continent, and has emphasized the importance of evangelical missions.

The committee is now facing a greater opportunity for serving the cause of Christian Latin America than ever before due in part to the increasing interest in Latin America on the part of the people of the United States.

In response to an appeal from many parts of the field, the C.C.L.A., following the recommendations of the Mexico Conference on Christian Literature in 1941, has majored this year on a comprehensive literature program. A definite program has been adopted, calling for $15,000 a year for a period of ten years within which time specified Christian literature shall be produced in both Spanish and Portuguese for interdenominational use in Latin America. The program includes an excellent series of books for the educated classes, and pamphlets are being planned with equal care for those masses of untutored people who are largely indifferent or hostile to Catholicism.

During this year the C.C.L.A. has co-operated in the visits to Latin America of several important representatives of the Protestant Church. Dr. J. Merle Davis, director of social and economic research of the International Missionary Council, who has made surveys of Mexico, Cuba, and the West Indies, completed a survey of Argentina, Uruguay, and Brazil in relation to the social and economic environment of the Protestant Church. Dr. Forrest L. Knapp, general secretary of the World Sunday School Association, spent four months in South and Central America this year. The C.C.L.A. sponsors the visit of Dr. Frank Laubach to South America, where he goes at the invitation of the evangelical forces and in some cases of governments, to carry on a campaign against illiteracy. In the summers of 1943 and 1944, under the auspices of the C.C.L.A., Dr. and Mrs. John A. MacKay, of Princeton Theological Seminary, plan to make two "spiritual pilgrimages" to Latin America for the purpose of strengthening Christian fellowship among both missionaries and nationals.

The Africa Committee. In June, 1941, the Africa Committee recommended to the Board of Strategy of the Foreign Missions Conference that a conference on missions in Africa be held at an early date. Under this action the Africa Committee planned and carried out the Church Conference on African Affairs held in Westerville, Ohio, June 19-25, 1942.

No interdenominational conference on missions in Africa had ever been held before in the United States. The plan for the conference met a hearty response, and forty-eight boards and agencies co-operated, realizing that Africa is in a most difficult and critical situation in this period of world chaos. One day of the conference was given to consideration of a document on Africa and the War, and Peace Aims prepared through the co-operation of the Phelps-Stokes Foundation.

Following the Westerville Conference the Africa Committee set up two strong special committees to develop greater co-operation in carrying out the recommendations of the conference and to further studies begun.

Committee on Promotion of Interest. This committee is constituted to aid co-operatively in interpreting and informing North American Christians on Christianity's world opportunities. It is now further developing an active program which will seek jointly in new ways to reach the secular and religious press with news of Christian world significance and to use the radio in joint efforts not hitherto attempted.

It co-operates through the Inter-Council Field Department with seven other general interdenominational agencies in endeavoring to get the world mission of the church, at home and overseas, built solidly into the co-operative program of the city and state councils of churches and of councils of church women.

Rural Missions Co-operating Committee. Last year this committee sponsored eight special rural training projects for missionaries in which 111 different missionaries were enrolled. These special projects included a one-year special rural training course provided by the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Home Economics at Cornell University; a special six-weeks' course in home and family life education at the Merrill-Palmer School in Detroit, Michigan; short courses of from four to six weeks offered by Scarritt College for Christian Workers at Nashville, Tennessee, the Oregon State College at Corvallis, Oregon, the Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa, and the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, New York, and a ten-day field seminar following the formal instruction at Scarritt College, and a four-weeks' field study observation program in Alabama, in which the Farm Security Administration, Tuskegee Institute, Federal and State Extension Services, and the Departments of Education, Public Health, and Welfare co-operated. Courses were provided in home and family life education, nutrition and health, rural sociology, rural education, rural extension methods, the community, agriculture, the rural church, and experiments in village and rural reconstruction. With one exception all the above special courses are being offered again in 1942-43.

The committee is also sponsoring an important rural missions group study project, covering the interpretation of the Christian gospel for rural people and an evaluation of the contributions that various activities can make in a comprehensive approach to village life. A work committee has been organized of which Miss Lora I. Battin, of North China, is a member.

The Christian Medical Council for Overseas Work. The council serves as a center of information and counsel concerning the agencies at work in medical missions everywhere. The chief concern of the council at present is to serve the boards in planning unitedly for their medical work in the post-war era. This involves thinking of a province as an area in which missionary doctors and nurses may work together as a single team. It involves far more scrutinizing selection of candidates and more comprehensive training in religious fundamentals, in professional skills, in tropical medicine, in language, and in anthropology.

Under the auspices of the C.M.C.O.W. a conference was held at Ithaca during the School for Missionaries. A distinctive feature of the conference was that the medical session was turned over to nurses. Miss Sarah Glenn, R.N., of the Methodist Mission in China was one of the leaders.

The next session of the Foreign Missions Conference will be held in Cleveland, Ohio, in December just after the meeting of the Board of Missions and Church Extension. The first day of the conference will be a business session of the conference itself. The following days will be joint sessions of the Foreign Missions Conference and several other interdenominational organizations. In these days problems and questions pressing upon all Christians and Christian organizations will be faced.

Japan, Korea, and the Philippines

Light Behind the Curtain

WHENEVER was any report adequate to the task of catching up and putting into words all the beauty of personal Christian living and service that goes into the varied life of missionaries and other leaders as they build a church and Christian community in a land where Christ's way of life has not yet become the heritage of the common man on the street nor permeated the fabric of the nation?

Perhaps this awful war may bring us some gain if it helps us to realize that all of this beauty of living and service can go on even though we cannot collect it into a report, cannot even see it nor have messages telling us about it. December 7, 1941, dropped an iron curtain between us and our Christian friends in Japan, Korea, and the Philippines. But it did not stop their work. Their service and influence still go on, probably with much richer results than in ordinary times. They live now among people sorely distressed, people who do not have to seek reality. It faces them stark and grim in their daily lives. To such people Christ always has a message and a ministry. To him they will come for comfort. They will find it, and it will be as real as their need. In these lands as in our own land, Christ has the only answer to the great aching need of the world, and his church has a rare opportunity to mediate him and his help to the distressed of every land. He is in Japan, he walks among the villages of Korea. He enters internment camps in Manila and in Arizona. In every country there are those who know and trust him and they are telling others. In all these countries so completely blacked out we know the light still shines behind the curtain.

Let us exercise an imaginative faith and try to picture to ourselves the activities that still continue on the campuses and in the buildings which were once home to so many of us.

Japan

The Church

We wait impatiently for the curtain to rise on the developments in the new Church of Christ in Japan. In the years to come perhaps we shall look back to this union of Christianity in Japan as one of the great blessings that has come to the world out of these troublous times. Some are perhaps a bit dubious of the success of a union which is not entered with absolute freedom of choice. But we must remember that denominations do not mean nearly so much among the young churches as they do in the sending churches, and that uniting movements find a much more hospitable atmosphere with them than with us. Moreover, the desire for union was already strong in the churches of Japan. It has merely been enhanced and hastened by the trend toward national solidarity. The National Christian Council has almost lost its identity in the new church, and it is thought likely that the block system will end within two years. The new church probably has the hearty support of its members. Although it will encounter difficulties, the wise leadership of its ministry and the staunch support of its laity will insure our strong hope for it in the long future.

One of the great musicians of Japan gave his annual production of "The Messiah" on December 5. He is also conducting song and worship services in Tokyo United Church on the first Sunday of each month. This series was begun with special services on Good Friday and Easter Sunday. These services are well attended, especially by young people. This may be considered an example of the way in which the church continues to minister to the people.

The Colleges

Woman's Christian College, Tokyo, is having its difficulties. It had been working toward self-support, but was not prepared for the sudden cessation of all foreign help caused by the freezing laws of July, 1941. However, graduates, faculty, trustees, and other friends of the College have rallied to its support and the 40,000 yen deficit of last year has been met. Dr. Yasui, President Emeritus, at the head of the Emergency Committee, is doing fine work toward raising the budget for this year.

Kwassui College and Hiroshima College each has a new president. Rev. Muto, formerly pastor of the Central Church (Methodist) in Tokyo, comes to Kwassui to succeed President Okabe, who has reached retirement age. His wife is a former student of Kwassui and there are other connections which make him very desirable for the position. At Hiroshima, President Hinohara resigned last March. His successor is Dr. Takeo Matsumoto, who has served so very acceptably for the past two years as a member of the faculty at Chosen Christian College, Seoul, Korea. We are happy to know that these two important schools are under such capable and consecrated leadership.

At Seiwa Joshi Gakuin and in the Woman's Department of Aoyama Gakuin women are receiving training for special Christian leadership. At Aoyama there is also a three-year college course in home economics, while a course in kindergarten work is given at Seiwa. It is interesting to know that Miss Elizabeth Kilburn is still teaching at Aoyama, as well as at Miss Kawai's school.

The High Schools

Large high schools are attached to each of these colleges, Kwassui, Hiroshima, and Aoyama. In addition there are four other high schools, Hakodate, Hirosaki, Fukuoka, and Seibi Gakuen. It has been much easier for the high schools to attain self-support than for the colleges. They are all open and crowded. The Misses Hodges and Wolfe are still at Seibi Gakuen. They have freedom to associate with their teachers but cannot continue work among students. They plan to return to America in the next exchange of interneers.

Along with the high schools, we should mention Palmore Women's English Institute in Kobe. It has fitted many a girl for a position in the business world. But its usefulness is probably greatly curtailed now, since it is professedly a school for teaching English. Whether or not it has been adapted to other purposes and so continued we do not know.

Social Service Work

It is impossible to even imagine what has happened in the centers where so much helpful social service has formerly been carried on, but we will at least recall the points at which such activities have been conducted, feeling sure that there is more need for such help today than in the years past.

At Yohano Center in Fukuoka, there has been work with factory girls, primary school children, and a kindergarten. In the Melton Young Home at Nagasaki, the emphasis was mainly on children's work and a clinic. This center serves working people. At Kushikino there was a rural project for a community of fishermen, farmers, and tradesmen. Kei Ai Gwan at Kagoshima had a kindergarten and a boys' club, as well as work for children and girls. Ai Rin Kwan at Oita emphasized work with children, girls, and young women. Camps and Daily Vacation Bible Schools were summer activities. At Uwajima and neighboring villages tent evangelism made an appeal to the people of the countryside, especially since the missionaries interested themselves in the daily living of the people and made the improvement of economic conditions a part of their program.

In Keijo, Chosen, there was a hostel and kindergarten with clubs and other activities. The work was largely financed by Japanese Christians of the city and had the approval of the government general of Chosen. It is likely that it is being continued, and the increased needs may have increased the services rendered.

Ai Kei Gakuen in Tokyo is by far the largest undertaking in social service that we have in Japan. Its history dates back to 1883. It has five departments—well-baby clinic, nursery school, kindergarten, children's department, and welfare and relief. The plant is in a section of the city where people are very poor. Miss Mildred Paine has stayed with the institution to see it firmly settled. Now she feels that she can come away and will probably be on the next exchange boat.

Missionaries in Service to Japanese in America

Twenty of the Japan missionaries have found a very challenging demand for their services in the distress of the Japanese in America. Fifteen of these are in services related in nature to the work of the Home Department, and some statement in regard to them will be made in reports of Executive Secretaries of that department.

The other five are in the employ of the government. Three are teachers in War Relocation Camps. Of these one is supervisor of kindergartens and nursery schools, another is a teacher in elementary schools, and the third in high school. Another has the imposing title of assistant supervisor, public assistance and housing. In this position she finds a wide range of opportunity for service of all sorts, and for the human kindness and friendliness which these people need so much. The other missionary is in still another camp in work for women and children.

We feel that no other project engaging the services of missionaries in any part of the world has greater implications for good will among minority groups in America, for our future mission work in Japan, and for the work of the peace conference after the war.

Korea

The Church

We can be confident that Sunday mornings and evenings see the churches in Korea open for worship. We know that men and women, boys and girls, and little children find their way to church and gain strength and inspiration from hymns and Bible verses which fit into needs so poignant today, that the comfort thus gained is more welcome than in the days of ordinary living. Fine Christian men stand in the pulpits to guide the thinking and direct the living of those who come. Best of all, the Loving Christ walks in their midst, knows them, and is known of them.

The Schools

The importance attached to education by both the Korean people and their Japanese government makes us confident that the Christian schools are open and serving large enrollments, probably much larger than formerly, when we took such good care to limit the number in order to make the Christian influence felt in the lives of the students.

Ewha College is under strong leadership and is appreciated by the Japanese government as well as the Korean public. Very satisfactory news as to its condition came from our Presbyterian friends returning on the "Gripsholm."

The five girls' high schools, Ewha and Pai Wha in Seoul, Lucy Cunningham in Wonsan, Holston in Songdo, and Chung Eui in Pyeng Yang, are all under Christian leadership, which will continue to guide the steps of young girls to the high ideals which have always been taught in these schools. Along with these should be mentioned the Vocational School in Kong Ju, where girls study in the mornings and work outside in the afternoon. Its emphasis is on preparation for better homemaking.

Supporting and feeding the secondary schools, there are still a number of primary schools and kindergartens. However, these forms of education have largely passed out of mission policy and support. To the government has gone primary education, while the church communities have recognized the value of kindergartens and have taken the greater share of responsibility for them.

The Theological Seminary has met with great difficulties but it is open, carrying on its program in the building formerly occupied by the Seoul Foreign School and Church.

Hospitals and Public Health

Methodists have hospitals at Wonsan, Songdo, and Pyeng Yang. Besides this we co-operate in the large Severance Union Medical College and Hospital in Seoul. Severance has been for several years under the administration of a Korean president, the missionary doctors and nurses serving in departments with an ever-increasing number of Korean colleagues. The three Methodist Hospitals have extended their services to a large constituency, not only in Wonsan, Songdo, and Pyeng Yang, but also in the surrounding rural districts. In each of these four hospitals there is a good Nurse Training School. In these schools as well as in the nursing duties of the hospital, the Woman's Division has co-operated with money and missionary personnel. These schools are invaluable in that they furnish the hospitals with a well-trained nursing staff.

East Gate Hospital for Women and Children was our own venture and for many years served well the women and babies of Seoul and the surrounding country. Recently it has been sold to a Korean doctor who will continue it along the same lines of usefulness. The money received was placed to the endowment of Ewha College.

Public Health and Well-Baby Clinics. A well-organized program of public health has been carried on for years. In this program our hospitals, social centers, and schools have all had large participation. The missionaries in rural evangelism have given large service in this way, too. One missionary nurse gave entire time to itineration in rural districts where she served a large constituency. Another missionary nurse, having secured government license, conducted a Health Center of Infant Welfare Activities which included a baby clinic, prenatal and midwifery care, a day nursery, and two milk stations. The latter prepared 70,000 bottles of milk a year for the 300 babies they fed. Along with the care of the children there is a Mothers' Association in which the mothers learn how to make better and happier homes for their families. We can hardly hope that this service is going on uninterrupted, but we do know that in the case of the Infant Welfare Center the officials looked upon the work with great favor and made arrangements so that up to the time of the beginning of the war it was possible to send milk from America for the babies. It may be that the service is being continued in some modified form.

Social Evangelistic Centers

In five cities, Social Evangelistic Centers carried on a varied program of service for women, young people, and children. In Seoul, the activities included clubs for every age, baby welfare, and classes for instruction in English, music, and home economics. There was a large emphasis on religious activities which included Sunday services, Bible classes, and a program of home visiting which follows the whole constituency home to bring to them there the abundant life that Jesus has for them. This center was housed in a beautiful new building on a historic site very dear to the heart of the Korean people. It carries the Korean name, Tai Wha Gwan, which means The Garden of Heavenly Peace. In Wonsan, Chul Won, Songdo, Won Ju are similar institutions. Wonsan and Songdo have buildings for their Center work. In Chul Won the activities are connected with an institutional church. In Won Ju there are small buildings more or less adequate to the needs.

It is unlikely that this work has gone on with the same energy that marked it in the days of missionary activity. We know that the work in the large center in Seoul has been greatly disturbed and disrupted. But memories and associations that cluster about the place will serve to keep in the minds of many thoughts of the Christ in whose name they have been loved and served.

Rural Social Evangelism

This form of service was in the hands of missionaries and Bible women who traveled the country districts or lived in villages and counted no task too hard or too menial if they might bring to people the knowledge of the Saviour who offers Abundant Life. These women were greatly interested in the economic and home life of the people, in the total life of the individual, the family, and the village. They knew that the woman who could cook a good meal and keep the home bright and cheerful for her husband and children was helping to bring in the Kingdom of Heaven.

This important work has been left in the hands of the Bible women and the churches. It will certainly take different forms, but may adapt itself to uses of which we Westerners had not thought. It was always the little Bible woman who was called for every kind of need, from funerals to weddings. There are probably no salaried Bible women now, but there are still Christian women who will have the neighborly spirit of service.

W.C.T.U. and Y.W.C.A.

We are delighted to learn that these two women's organizations are gathering new strength in Korea. They are raising money for a building in which to have their headquarters and carry on some projects which they have in mind. They have exerted such influence upon legislation as to secure some laws for the protection of girlhood against white slavery. We glory in the accomplishments of these two organizations, for it means that Korean womanhood is awake to its powers and its responsibilities in the task of making Christianity operative in the corporate life of the people.

The Philippines

Before the ink was dry on our last annual report, the war had begun and the Philippines were under invasion. Much of the work was immediately disrupted, and we do not know whether any of it has been fully restored. On December 27, 1941, there was a cable from Dr. Ernest Tuck, saying that the missionaries were all safe. With the exception of three women, they were all in Manila. Since then, we have had no direct word until this recent message by way of the American Red Cross:

JAPANESE RED CROSS REQUESTS TRANSMISSION MESSAGE SAFE AND WELL TO BOARD OF MISSIONS 150 FIFTH AVENUE NEW YORK CITY FROM ERNEST TUCK AND GROUP

Just how much comfort we can take from this we are not quite sure. People returning from the Philippines on the "Gripsholm" brought the information that missionaries were at first interned but later were permitted to return to their work. All of this makes us fairly confident that all of them are free and that at least some of them are at their regular tasks.

The internment camp in Manila is at the University of Santo Tomas. The Japanese commandant, Mr. Tsurimi, former Japanese consul, is apparently a liberal fair-minded person. He has allowed the internees to govern themselves. So they are organized into community life in which they themselves hold the offices and act on the committees. Dr. Leach, of the Rockefeller Foundation, is in charge of health and sanitation. He has planned a diet within the limitations of available food which is sufficient to sustain life, although it is unbalanced and monotonous. The supply of food and medicines were running short even in June. It will be remembered that most of the food used by foreigners in the Philippines was imported. There have been no imports since the war began.

We have been unable to send any money to the Philippines this entire year. Although arrangements were made to send subsistence allowances to American citizens in other occupied countries, this has not been permitted in the case of the Philippines. It is possible that it will not be granted as long as our government refuses to recognize the conquest of the Islands by the Japanese.

The Church and Mission in Manila

If our mission work is going on in any part of the Islands, it will be in Manila. It is likely that Mary J. Johnston Hospital is open for aid to the suffering. If schools and colleges are open, it is probable that Hugh Wilson Hall is giving a dormitory home to students. We hope that Harris Memorial Training School is finding some sort of service.

We know that our missionaries are adapting themselves to whatever need they find, and despite all the hardships and all the heartaches, as they think of parents and loved ones who are anxious about them, they will look back on this experience, with its opportunity for loving service, as one of the richest in their lives. This suffering together will tie them to their Filipino friends with bonds that can never be broken, and will lay foundations for great advance in the life of the church as soon as we are free to begin building the new world.

If the Japanese have succeeded in establishing order in the city, the churches are in all probability open to serve the people. Again we are thankful for the sturdy church that has been established in all these countries. It has its roots deep in the hearts of the people. They will support it and it will comfort them in their difficulties.

Work Outside Manila

It is unlikely that any of our missionaries are outside of Manila. If the work and institutions are continuing it is under native leadership entirely. There are nine dormitories in other cities than Manila. We think it likely that they are continuing their service. They were already staffed by native women, and if there are schools there is more need than ever for their services. The Townsend Memorial Training School in Lingayen is under the presidency of Miss Paricino Ocampo. Whether or not it is open we cannot venture even a guess. In a country overrun by an army, the training of Bible women would not be considered a priority. But the associations and influence of this institution which has served so well will not easily die out in the hearts of the people, and the day will come (we hope it may be soon) when the service will be resumed. The new Community Hospital and Clinic at Tuguegarao is another institution which will not have been able to continue without the energetic leadership of its missionary nurse. But it, too, has connections with the hearts of people it has served, and it will be easy to renew the work once there is opportunity again.

District evangelism, whatever of such work there may be, is going on informally without the aid of missionary personnel or money. We are glad to remember that a large part of this was done by Bible women who were supported by local churches, and we hope this part is being continued. It is quite probable that the church under difficulty will take on new virility, and that a great deal of evangelism will be done without thought of any remuneration. To this end we should undergird them with our constant prayers.

Missionaries

This holocaust of war has greatly disrupted the work of the missionary personnel in these three countries. From Korea all women missionaries had withdrawn by the end of 1940. Four only remain now in Japan. The fourteen in the Philippines are laboring under great difficulties. All of these women have met this great upheaval in their lives with the fortitude and adaptability which is to be found only in life grounded in an unshakeable faith in the goodness of God and the ultimate success of his will. Words are inadequate to express to them proper appreciation for their splendid service both on the mission field and in the places of service which they are finding for themselves now that they are temporarily unable to continue with their chosen tasks. Perhaps the tabulation below will be of interest.

Our Part

This can scarcely be called a report. Instead of the factual material usually found in any report, this has been filled with the likely, the unlikely, the possible, and the probable. Much of it will seem to the casual reader an unnecessary description of what has been. But to the interested person it will be a framework into which the imagination will fit people, many of whom we know personally. It will give us thoughts which will form themselves into prayers. We will be reminded that behind the dark curtain the light is still shining, and that it is as bright as the promises of the Father God who still walks among our friends over there. If these results do not follow, to what use has been the making of this report?

Latin America, Europe, and North Africa

IN THE 1941 report from these fields the work was treated topically, illustrating types of projects and setting forth general trends and needs for development. Since Latin America is the field of mission study in 1942-43, many requests are being made for definite information on each project in these countries. The 1942 report is written with this in mind. The work is listed alphabetically in each group, according to countries and stations, and factual material is given about each project supported by the Woman's Division, noting the amount of our appropriation and the number of workers. Since the names of all missionaries are listed elsewhere with the names of the projects which they serve, few names are given in the text. It is hoped that this type of report will be of special help to program chairmen in the study of the Latin-American fields. More complete descriptions of Methodist work in Latin America are given in The Latin-American Circuit, World Outlook, and The Methodist Woman.

Argentina

Buenos Aires

Embajadores en nombre de Cristo (Ambassadors on behalf of Christ) are the words engraved in Spanish on the cornerstone of the new building of the Facultad Evangelica de Teologia (Union Theological Seminary), which is being erected in the metropolis of Argentina this year. In addition to the motto three dates appear: 1884, the founding of the first Seminary under Methodists and Waldensians; 1922, the opening of the first Training School for Christian Workers (girls) under the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society; and 1942, the date of the laying of the cornerstone and the fusion of these two institutions. This marks an epoch in South American theological education. The Facultad, now interdenominational (Methodists, Disciples of Christ, and Waldensians) and co-educational, becomes the center for the training of ministers and lay workers, both men and women, for at least five South American republics. The new plant, toward which the Woman's Division and the Division of Foreign Missions has each contributed an additional $12,500 this year, and the united school mark a new venture in the co-operation of the two Divisions.

The roster of students names twelve young women and ten young men, from Argentina, Uruguay, Bolivia, Chile, and Peru. Not a large number, but it is a hand-picked group, each with the necessary background training. One of the Argentinian boys, graduate of our school in Rosario and of a national normal school, will be the first to graduate from the new five-year course of the Facultad. One girl, the first full-time Mennonite student, takes along with her seminary studies the regular Red Cross nursing course in order to be prepared for the rural pastoral work she hopes to do.

The foreign faculty includes one missionary of the Woman's Division and two couples from the Division of Foreign Missions and the Disciples Church, who all live with the students as one big family.

When the new building is completed in 1943, it will be the finest type of theological seminary in South America. In spite of the war, the construction has gone on steadily, the enrollment has increased, the international aspect of the school has deepened, and everything points to a successful future. The Division furnishes $4,090 toward the maintenance budget.

Many graduates of this school are in responsible places in the church. An example is Miss Maria Aguirre, of Santiago, Chile, director of religious education in that country, continental secretary for the Federation of Methodist Women of Latin America, and editor of Gente Nueva, the new Spanish interdenominational magazine for Protestant youth. Recently she convened in Buenos Aires the first Congress of Methodist Women of Latin America. By sea from Peru, over the Andes of Bolivia and Chile, from the vast republic of Brazil, from Uruguay the delegates came to pool their talents and genius and spiritual attainments. They established the Congress to meet quadrennially, drew up a constitution and by-laws, and set up three permanent commissions: (1) LITERATURE, for publications in Spanish; (2) MISSIONS, especially for work among the Indians in South America, and (3) HOME, for studying means to better the life in the homes of the masses. One of the new ventures in an untried field was the resolution made by these earnest women to support a Christian worker who would dedicate herself for special training to work among the student and intellectual classes of Bolivia. It is their purpose to train leaders for other fields of service as quickly as possible.

Rosario

The Colegio Americano in this largest provincial capital of Argentina is the oldest Methodist school for girls in South America. The enrollment is 141 in kindergarten, primary, and special commercial and English courses. The primary department is incorporated under the government. Officials inspect the school regularly but never interfere with its work. The sixth-grade certificate has the same value as that in provincial schools and allows students to enter national secondary. The enrollment is 40% higher than it was ten years ago.

This school, where three missionaries are serving, is closely linked with the life of the church, and many earnest Christian young people have gone out to carry on Christian service. In one small Methodist church in Rosario nine alumnae of the school are now active. The institution has a local Board of Directors, representing various interests in the city, who take an active part in its welfare. The school needs to be enlarged and strengthened, and it is hoped that the Woman's Division will soon be able to build a small chapel-auditorium which will make the school more of a community center.

Brazil

Since the major part of our work in Brazil is educational, it is being seriously affected by the new law on secondary education. Heretofore the high-school course was five years. This is now changed to a four-year course called Ginasio, plus a three-year course designated Colegio. The latter will give entrance into all professional schools. Schools now having merely the Ginasio will be limited to teaching languages, history, geography, and general science. The Colegio course may be of two types, classical or scientific. Our schools which have "permanent inspection" may immediately begin the Ginasio and may petition the government for a license to offer the Colegio course. In most cases this will necessitate additional equipment but, unless our Protestant institutions offer this higher course, they will become second-rate schools. Schools having only "temporary inspection" may have the four-year course, but must wait until they meet the requirements in buildings and equipment for the Colegio. In the new plan boys must take military training and girls must take domestic science. Religion may now be offered as a part of the regular course and the course must be determined by the ecclesiastical authority of the church concerned. This means that The Methodist Church in Brazil is now at liberty to decide on the courses offered in our schools and insures our having full freedom to teach from the Protestant point of view.

Belo Horizonte

The Izabela Hendrix Colegio has the finest new buildings that we have yet erected in Latin America. Since their completion in 1941 the enrollment (then 315) has increased steadily. To meet the needs of the new students it was necessary to buy additional desks, typewriters, beds, and chairs for the dormitory, and to rent more pianos. Belo Horizonte is one of the strongest Catholic centers in Brazil. The Archbishop here was the one who wrote the letter to our Government demanding that Protestant missionaries be withdrawn. It is encouraging to have our work prosper greatly in spite of this opposition, and to hear that two sisters of charity from a Catholic orphanage came to look over our building because they had heard it was so well planned. The girls here take a special interest in music and participated enthusiastically in the chorus work given them in a music institute under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ream, who visited Belo Horizonte for this purpose. They are missionaries of our church and ministers of music to all of Brazilian Methodism. When the American Ambassador visited the city in May our students were invited to sing for him "The Star-Spangled Banner" in English. Three missionaries serve this school. The appropriation is $2,000.

Juiz de Fora

Granbery Institute is a school in which the Woman's Division co-operates with the Division of Foreign Missions by a contribution of $1,000 to the Girls' Department in which 203 students are registered. Today this school has more advanced students than any other of our institutions in Brazil, and has always been very closely allied with the church. Some of the leading Protestants in the country are graduates. Fifteen thousand dollars from the 1942 Week of Prayer Offering has been promised for the purchase of the private home and beautiful grounds now used as the girls' dormitory. The Brazilian principal, Dr. Ireneu Guiramaes, is grateful for this help, which will save this important building for Granbery. We have no women missionaries in this station.

Piracicaba

Colegio Piracicabano is one of the oldest schools in Brazil and has a history of which the church may be proud. A former President of the Republic, whose children were educated here, said that this school was the alma mater of the public-school system of the State of Sao Paulo. Five hundred and eleven boys and girls are enrolled in primary and secondary courses. Since 1934 the school has had government recognition. The Division participates by providing two women missionaries and $1,000 a year toward the work budget. Since the Catholic Church has the only kindergarten in the city, our school earnestly asks for money to erect a kindergarten in order that the children may be surrounded by Protestant influence. It is also hoped to change the five-year secondary course to the seven-year course now prescribed by the government. This would mean the addition of adequate science equipment, which the school now lacks, and a home economics department. No practice work can now be given in cooking because there is no equipment for this work. The school is co-educational and has a Brazilian man as principal.

Porto Alegre

The situation facing Colegio Americano is a strategic one which the Division is trying to meet. Overcrowded with girls, pressed by the new educational regulations of Brazil, hindered by war conditions, the school is desperately in need of its new buildings, long promised. Three years ago the land was purchased. Parents moved into the residential suburb adjacent to the new cite with the expectation of placing their daughters in our school. Funds for the building were delayed until 1942, when the Division pledged $30,000 for this purpose. Plans for buildings were approved by the Foreign Department. Miss Mary Sue Brown, architect and builder, who planned and supervised the Belo Horizonte buildings, and has been appointed to a similar task in Porto Alegre, hoped to secure government priorities to fly to Brazil before the end of the year. The increased cost of building materials will make the accomplishment more difficult, but the Board of Directors in Porto Alegre feel that it will be disastrous for the new school to be postponed until after the war. Materials are now available and Brazil has put no restrictions on building.

An additional reason for hurrying the building is on account of the new laws of the Department of Education, which provide for the extension of the secondary course to seven years. Our school already offers a five-year course. Unless it can now, at the beginning of the new school year in 1943, add a sixth year, two things will happen: The school will be relegated to the category of "four-year ginásios," which means that in Porto Alegre it will become a second-rate institution, offering only the first cycle of secondary; this would at once cut down the number of students and make it much harder to sustain the school financially. Also, the teachers who are now teaching the fifth year would be lost. If we can offer the sixth-year course in 1943, students now in the fifth year will continue in the Americano. If this prestige is lost now it will be almost impossible to regain it in the future.

The Americano cannot attain this new rating with its old building and equipment. The beginning of the new building at once is imperative if the good work of many years is not now to be lost. Conditions are more serious than ever as girls crowd into the old downtown building, and the whole city of Porto Alegre seems to be waiting for the word to go ahead with the new project. By erecting this new school we shall be strengthening enormously Methodist work in this southern metropolis. Only two blocks from our new site is the Methodist Boys' School with its fine new plant, and a new co-operative effort between these schools is planned for the future.

Ribeirao Preto

The Instituto Metodista is a busy place with its many activities. Since the regular school was closed in 1938 there has been an insistent demand on the part of townspeople that some educational work be reopened in addition to the program of the social center. Consequently the little kindergarten and primary school has this year an enrollment of seventy.

The major emphasis here is the newly organized Christian Training Course whose purpose is to prepare girls for volunteer work in the churches. From a beginning of two students last year, fifteen girls are now enrolled. They were carefully selected from forty applicants. The entrance requirements are that the girls shall be graduates from primary schools, have good health, be workers in their local churches and eager for further preparation to carry on this service without any thought of remuneration. The present group ranges in age from fifteen to twenty-six, and comes from three states. Two are engaged to Seminary students and two others desire to do mission work among the Indians. All these girls are from poor homes. Upon arrival one girl remarked: "This is a dream come true. Long before I knew of this school I was praying that I could study somewhere so that I might better serve in the church." The course of study includes Bible, religious education, home nursing, cooking, sewing, Portuguese, English, physical education, and music. The faculty of part-time teachers, plus the two missionaries, give great care to the development of each girl's potentialities.

With the belief that students learn by doing, emphasis is placed upon practice work in the social and religious field. With varied activities connected with the social center the students get experience along every line. The pastors of these students are asked to give the girls opportunities to do something in their local churches during the holidays and to send to the school a careful evaluation of the work accomplished. In the local Methodist Church eight of these girls are Sunday-school teachers, one has charge of the Children's Missionary Society, two work with the Cradle Roll, and three hold office in the Young People's Society. Practice in social work includes playground, library, sports, game room, workshop, weekly open house for parents and friends, story hours, and home visitation. In addition to all their academic work, every student must carry her share of housework in order to learn under careful missionary supervision how to keep house.

The lack of trained leadership is one of the most serious problems in the Methodist Church of Brazil, where few women are trained to work. Since Ribeirao Preto is a provincial city in the interior of the State of Sao Paulo, students studying here are not lured by the life of a metropolis, but receive the kind of training which urges them to return to their own parishes and build the kingdom of God in their own communities.

The appropriation for this institution is $1,400. Two missionaries are stationed here. Supplies needed include beds and mattresses, dishes, silverware, household linen, kitchen equipment, and chairs. All may be purchased in Brazil if supply money is sent to Ribeirao Preto.

The Women's Societies of The Methodist Church in this region of Brazil are working to raise scholarships for girls who could not otherwise afford to enter the Christian Training Course. To one teacher, Miss Dina Rizzi, the Division is giving an educational grant for study at Scarritt.

Rio de Janeiro

The People's Central Institute, with two missionaries in charge of the social-educational activities, continues to be one of the outstanding social welfare projects in Brazil. Last year 659 children were taught in the kindergarten and primary school, all of them children of the slum district in which the Institute is located, all of them children who would otherwise not receive an education. In the night school a fine group of 250 young people, most of them workers by day, are enabled to carry on their studies. About 400 boys and girls have their lives enriched by the club activities. And all these groups are linked to the life of the church at the foot of the Hill of Thieves. The prenatal and baby clinics have been enlarged during the past year. Daily about 150 mothers and children come here for friendly and skilled care provided by government doctors and nurses. Milk is distributed daily by the City Department of Public Health through the clinic to 250 underprivileged babies. The Institute offers a supervised playroom for the clinic children who play while waiting for the doctors. The mothers find it hard to understand why so much friendliness is shown to them. We contribute the full time of two missionaries and $1,000. The Division of Foreign Missions co-operates in this work.

Colegio Bennett—1942 has been a banner year for Colegio Bennett, which has not only prospered in its lowered grades, but has launched the first year of the regular Junior College and has moved into the new college administration building and dormitory. The formal inauguration of these buildings was on September 12. In his dedication speech the Director of the Federal Bureau of Pedagogical Research said, speaking of Axis activities in his country: "This sort of thing has never occurred in schools whose origin stems from institutions in the U. S. A. From that country have come teachers conscious of their mission, who have striven to study and understand Brazilian society, who have voluntarily become assimilated into this society, becoming truly Brazilian educators in the best spirit of loyal devotion. From these schools have come forth Brazilians of the finest type of whom our country may be proud. . . . This inauguration at this moment when we are both engaged in a war of those principles which are inalienable to the American continent, is a symbol of protest, of affirmation, of hope. . . . In these names engraven on these walls (Erasmus Braga and Hugh Tucker) we read a word of hope which burns like a living flame and which says that this school is in truth a house of religion, a house destined to unite men in a new understanding, not only as homes, cities, provinces, but also as people and nations."

It has been a great feat to achieve these new buildings in wartime and to have them partially equipped. Further necessary equipment will be provided from the 1942 Week of Prayer Offering. This work has been strengthened by the arrival of three new missionaries (one a transfer from China). Altogether there are six missionaries on the faculty. Our appropriation is $3,500. The present enrollment is about 400.

The Brazilian educators and public health authorities have become greatly concerned about proper nutrition for their people and they have inaugurated regular inspection of the feeding of school children in certain parts of the country. Bennett is one of the few schools, and is said to be the only one in Rio, that has maintained a home economics department since its founding, twenty-one years ago. One of the three courses offered in the Junior College in the normal course is home economics, emphasizing the Christian home. Here the college has a wonderful opportunity for training not only future homemakers, but also teachers to go all over the country as leaders in this "better homes" movement. The other courses are equally vital to the womanhood and family life of Brazil. They are Social Work and Religious Education and Nursery School Education.

Santa Maria

Three hundred and thirty girls are getting a Christian education in Colegio Centenario, in Santa Maria, a lovely city of southern Brazil. A greatly needed new building had been completed this year. It furnishes additional classrooms and dormitory, but it still lacks equipment. This school does not demand or expect as fine buildings and equipment as the schools must have in the great cities, but it does need the essentials for carrying on an educational program. Because of the new building, it is expected that the Centenario may be able to receive from the government the permit to add to its course to meet the requirements for a seven-years' colegio. If so, it will be the only Protestant school for girls in this part of the country offering a full secondary course. Since the new laws of Brazil have made home economics a required subject, this school must in time be provided with the necessary equipment for such work. Four missionaries are stationed here. The appropriation is $1,000.

São Paulo

This thriving, throbbing, rapidly growing city is the seat of our Methodist Publishing House and headquarters for the business management of the woman's magazine, Voz Missionaria, of the Methodist Church of Brazil. Today this little magazine has four times as many subscriptions as there are women in the Missionary Society 5,000 members and over 20,000 subscriptions. The magazine is twelve years old and it has never yet taken a backward step. This year the price was increased 50%, but in spite of this fact the subscription goal for 1943 is 22,000! All subscriptions are always paid in advance for the year. Part of the success of this magazine is due to the fact that its business manager, Miss Leila Epps, spends much of her time traveling all over the country to visit societies, especially in the far districts, inspiring the women with the gospel message. Speaking of the campaign for subscriptions, she wrote: "I knew we could get 20,000 subscriptions to our little magazine if somebody would just be willing to be crazy enough to set the goal and then to co-operate with the women right on and on and on. . . . It has taken a half year and many a battle, but the fight has been fun and the reward is satisfying." It is claimed that this magazine is one of the strongest evangelizing agencies of the Methodist Church in Brazil. Our contribution to this magazine and the Woman's Societies is $500. In São Paulo is located also the office of the children's magazine, Bem-te-vi, to which we give $1,200. One missionary is appointed to evangelistic work in connection with Central Methodist Church in this city.

Peru

Callao

Since 1891 The Methodist Church has maintained Callao High School in the great port city of 75,000 inhabitants. It is now an institution of the Division of Foreign Missions. Here the boys and girls of the poorer and middle classes have found a Christian education and many of its graduates today hold high places in the life of Peru. The enrollment is 803—432 of these being girls. According to recent law, co-education is no longer allowed so the Girls' Department had to be housed in separate quarters. In 1941 the former buildings of the British-American Hospital were purchased for Callao High School. Although these had been damaged by the recent earthquake, renovations have been made and the Girls' Department has been transferred to this property. For the first time the Woman's Division is co-operating in this school by the appointment of a missionary (transferred from Malaya) as principal of the Girls' Department. Her salary is the only financial contribution we make.

Lima

Lima High School continues to hold its place as the leading school for girls in Peru. Six hundred girls crowd the fine building, and more clamor to enter. They come from all over the country. The school undertook to run on a self-supporting basis in 1941 and the Woman's Division now supplies only the salaries of the missionaries. Since Peru is the most Catholic country in South America, new laws are frequently being passed to restrict religious teaching in Protestant schools and to make it more difficult for the national teachers to get their proper licenses. However, the school continues to teach Bible to every student and the influence of the school life is entirely Protestant. This year a former graduate has been made vice-principal. By government decree the name of the school had to be changed to that of a Peruvian woman, and the institution is now known locally as Colegio Maria Alvarado, after a famous woman writer. The name Lima High School will still be used in the United States, where it is so well known. A graduate of this school is now research assistant in the office of the special adviser to the Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs in Washington. Another graduate was the Peruvian delegate to the first Congress of the Federation of Methodist Women in Latin America, held in Buenos Aires. In 1943 a graduate of Lima High School will receive the B.S. degree in home economics from Syracuse University. Other graduates are studying at Wilson College, Smith College, and other institutions in the United States.

Of Lima High School, Miss Muriel Lester wrote: "Here is a grand work developing. Sturdy, keen minds, well-developing bodies, and a spirit of worship. . . . I went to a remarkable school started by an alumna, a Negro girl. She gathered the children from the streets in the community where she lives, among the poorest, charges twenty-five cents a month tuition, and has worked wonders. She, her sister, and her mother have that easily recognizable look of power, joy, and beauty that comes from devotion to Christ. They have ninety scholars in all. The orderliness and peace and joy obviously outweigh the physical disabilities of a darkened room and space restrictions. The wonderful old granny, having brought up her own family in the love of God, now has another family to whom she loves to teach reading and writing."

Uruguay

Montevideo

Crandon Institute is eagerly awaiting the gift of $25,000 from the 1942 Week of Prayer Offering in order to begin to make plans for the greatly needed new building. The crowded conditions in the primary school necessitated the taking over of eight dormitory rooms for use as classrooms, thus cutting down the number of boarding students. This is deplorable, as the greatest Christian influence the school can have is in the dormitory life. The kindergarten is crowded and the primary classes are so full that two sections are required for every grade, and still children were turned away because there was no more room. For three months the children of the "overflow" used old benches and boards on trestles until new desks could be made. Crandon has been building up a Liceo course, licensed by the government and granting a certificate in Spanish which admits to the University, and 1942 was the first year of this full four-year advanced course. The total enrollment is 530, in a building built to accommodate 400. Additional equipment and teachers have been provided from the school budget to which the Division contributes $2,255 a year.

Each department is faced with its problem of extension. The home economics department, which is unique in Uruguay, is greatly hampered for lack of room to meet the increasing demands of students and adults. Some valuable classes are also given for nurses in the government nurse training school. Graduates from Crandon's home economics courses are now working in two social centers in poor sections of the city: others are teaching food preparation, child care, and other phases of this work. Practically all the welfare organizations of Montevideo count among their officers or volunteer workers women who have had some training at Crandon. Some are wives of preachers, doing real work under great hardships. Some of the outstanding women lay workers in the Methodist Church of Uruguay and Argentina are graduates. One alumna is editing a paper for young people of the evangelical churches of the River Plate area. Others are carrying on splendid work in social centers, either as ordained deaconesses or volunteers. A young graduate who twice has been an exchange student to an American college returned to Montevideo last year and has organized the first school in South America to care for children who have lost the use of their motor activities because of some brain paralysis. She hopes to extend this work to care for victims of infantile paralysis. Her endeavors are gaining the recognition of authorities in the medical and educational world, as she is the only Uruguayan woman trained in physiotherapy. Twenty-four graduates are on the faculty of Crandon, thus helping to create and maintain that spirit which is known wherever the school is named. Crandon teachers do not ask for higher wages or shorter hours. They merely ask for more room in which to carry on their ever-expanding program, that they may touch more lives at a time when those lives are clamoring for what Crandon has to give.

The Division gives $60 a year to evangelistic work in Montevideo, a mere "drop in the bucket" compared to the great need. This money helps a Crandon graduate, who is a deaconess, to carry on her work in a growing mission church on the outskirts of the city.

Cuba

Baguanos

This rural center in Oriente Province has seen definite advance in the building of the missionary home and Christian center, called the "House of Friendship." This is situated in the center of the little village surrounding the sugar plantation on which about 3,000 people are employed, and the two missionaries here find it much easier to do their work when they live closer to the people. The whole village has taken a pride in this house. One young man who works in the iron foundry offered to make a shoe cleaner of iron which is fastened to the doorsteps so that the new floors won't be muddied.

Until the missionaries came to this settlement two years ago there had never been a church or a religious organization of any kind. Sunday services and Sunday school are held in the public school. The groups have grown so large that they have had to be divided both because of the space available and in order to do more efficient work with smaller groups. The work began with Cubans, but the Jamaicans heard of the services of the missionaries and requested that they come to the outskirts of the village where the Jamaican colony of workers lives and have an Easter service for them. This was the beginning of definite club work with these young people and children. The spirit of the young people of Baguanos has led them to reach out to others. After some preliminary visiting by the missionaries, fourteen young people went out to another settlement within walking distance across the sugar fields and held a service which over 100 people attended. It was the first religious service of any kind ever held in this place where spiritism is rife. In Baguanos, where the people live in a close community and are mostly of one class, the influence of Protestantism is growing very rapidly. Two missionaries are now stationed here and carry on the work on a budget of $1,000.

Cienfuegos

Colegio Eliza Bowman has a staff of four missionaries and an appropriation of $3,150. One of the missionaries is temporarily transferred from Korea. The school has two departments, one where all the subjects from kindergarten through sixth grade are taught in Spanish and the other where all work is done in the English language. From this co-educational school have come many of the leaders of Methodism in Cuba. A strong evangelical spirit prevails as a majority of the teachers are church members. A boy from this school was sent to the Young People's Institute at Lake Junaluska last summer as the delegate from the Young People's Societies of the Methodist Church of Cuba. The enrollment is 205.

This school has a beautiful campus, with green lawns and playgrounds. After school hours certain children of the community are invited to come here for supervised play hours. This work is now under the direction of the only regularly appointed new missionary sent to Cuba in 1942—Miss Beulah Jane Smith. Since she was born of missionary parents in Cuba, she already knows some Spanish, so is combining this social work with her study of the language.

Havana

Colegio Buenavista has had a slightly increased enrollment over last year (228). Two missionary teachers returned to the States, but their places were taken by two experienced missionaries from China, who accepted temporary transfers. A strong Parent-Teacher Association, with activities along social and pedagogical lines, helps to draw the school close to the homes which it serves. With the activities of the church there has been cordial co-operation on the part of Buenavista students and faculty. Seven students joined the Methodist Church this year. Church members among the boarders take turns at leading morning prayers in the dormitory. Some of the girls have organized Sunday schools in their home towns, and several have brought members of their families into the church. Sixteen thousand two hundred dollars was given this year for the purchase of additional land for this school. The missionary staff numbers four. The appropriation is $2,000.

Jovellanos

To this rural district in the vicinity of Matanzas one of our first-term missionaries, just finished with language study, has been assigned to social-rural work. Much of her time has been spent this year going on horseback with the pastor and his wife, over narrow, muddy roads, far out into the country, getting acquainted with the people and winning their confidence. She has had opportunity to explain her desire to work with children, young people, and mothers, and has laid definite plans for activities. Her diary reads like that of a pioneer missionary. The rural areas of little Cuba are almost untouched by the gospel, as the Catholic Church has paid slight attention to the needs of the people on the plantations and around the sugar centrales. Most of the people are small land-owners who live very primitively but could easily be stimulated to better their condition. The pastor in Jovellanos is also a trained laboratory technician, and is so eager to help the people physically, as well as spiritually, that he has organized a clinic, which is supported by the Methodist Church of Cuba, as a home mission project. The missionary will follow up the work of the clinic, visiting in the homes, strengthening the religious education and club work in the church, and being a friend to all the people. There is as yet no special appropriation for this work.

Matanzas

Colegio Irene Toland has had a good year and an unusually interesting group of thirty-eight boarding pupils, including a brother and sister who are half Chinese, a Jewish boy, two mulatto boys, and two North American children. The enrollment has been about 150. One girl has already given service in Baguanos and is preparing herself for church work. Another is an older girl who is engaged to a ministerial student in the Seminary in Havana. Two missionaries give full time to this work. Financial conditions are difficult, as the law demanded a 20% raise in teachers' salaries, while the Division could not increase its contribution of $3,500. It was not considered possible to raise fees as they are now equal to those of the government schools. Special religious services were held in the school to help students reach a definite conclusion in regard to the Christian way of life. It is encouraging to note that several ex-students are joining the evangelical church because of the influence exerted upon them when they were in the mission school.

In Matanzas is also the Centro Social, located in an old Cuban dwelling and ministering chiefly to the Jamaican population. This social center is in one of the worst slum sections of the city where overcrowding is extreme and the people live amid poverty and superstition. The religion of those in this community is influenced by the African cult known as nañigoes. Besides clubs for women and children, the Centro has started a little church to which the people begin to come gladly. A thriving Boy Scout troop of sixty, under the leadership of a consecrated Protestant young man, is bringing new ideals to the young people. From the Centro, leaders go out to make friendly visits in the homes. The Centro is located in the part of Mantanzas most ravaged by tuberculosis, and one forward step this year has been winning the co-operation of the head of the Tuberculosis Clinic, who came to the Centro to give talks to the people on disease prevention. One missionary is in charge and our contribution is $3,570.

Omaja

Two missionaries are carrying on a valuable piece of rural-social work in this town in Oriente Province, which is today only a sad relic of what was once a prosperous center for the orange-growing industry. The church and parsonage of former days has been abandoned until our workers took them over a few years ago and settled here to work with the people who have continued to live here. Our mission has become a popular and much-appreciated center, the church has taken on new life, and has an influence upon the whole town. Young people find here activities to develop minds and bodies. Already from their number a boy has become a candidate for the Christian ministry, and a young woman has volunteered for life service in the church. Besides the clubs, classes, and church work in the town, the missionaries ride on horseback to several points in the country to meet with organized groups of women and teach them some of the things that will make their life more abundant. Because it became apparent that much good could be done with a simple dispensary outfit, $100 from the 1941 Week of Prayer Offering was allocated to Omaja for this purpose. The regular appropriation is $920.

Pinar del Rio—Herradura

In response to the request of the Protestants in this western end of the Island, two of our missionaries have been assigned to social-evangelistic work in this area, to serve in connection with the already organized Methodist churches and the Clinic, which is a home mission project of the Methodist Church of Cuba. It gives great satisfaction to the Cuban church to have us co-operate with them in this way, as up to within a few years ago our interests were confined to school work. Pinar del Rio is a city of 30,000. The missionary is finding many opportunities for service as she surveys this new field and becomes acquainted with the people and their needs. In the Herradura district the missionary has found a splendid church building, with adequate rooms in which to carry on social work. The pastor is eager for her help with the young people and women. The work here and in near-by Entronque, about six miles away on the same circuit, offers great possibilities for the kind of evangelistic work which will strengthen the Cuban church. Because our missionaries feel such work is greatly needed, from several have come the suggestion that they will willingly give up a small amount from the appropriations of their own institutions in order to provide a small budget for this new project in 1943.

Mexico

Chihuahua

Twenty-five girls are crowding the new Nurses' Home of Sanatorio Palmore. The academic standing of this School of Nursing is the highest in Mexico, requiring a secondary school certificate for entrance. Most of the girls have a Protestant background and a spirit of Christian service. Up to the present, fifty-eight nurses have received diplomas. This year one of the oldest deaconesses in this conference has been appointed to the hospital as matron and religious director for the student nurses and patients. Much is expected from her ministry. During the year the new Obstetrical Unit has been completed, providing rich and poor patients alike with proper care. This is a great advance along this line in Mexico, where such work is usually done by unskilled midwives.

As a proof of the place the hospital holds in the community, 300 people attended the dedication exercises of the new buildings. Friends also contributed 3,000 pesos toward equipment. The Governor of the State gave 500 pesos and his wife attended the inauguration. She, along with the wives of other prominent officials, became "madrinas" (godmothers) of the hospital and are interested in helping in many ways. The doctors on the staff collected over 200 pesos as a prize for the first baby born after the dedication of the Obstetrical Unit.

The training of Christian nurses is one of the most important services Christian missions can offer to any country, as these young women have access to all kinds of homes and can have a strong influence on the lives they touch. Three missionary nurses are on the staff. We contribute $867. The Division of Foreign Missions also makes an appropriation to the general hospital work.

Another busy place in this city is the Centro Cristiano social center where two missionaries try to serve the community in various ways. This was the first social center in Mexico, established in 1919. Occupying half of a city block, the rambling building provides for classrooms, a day nursery, basketball courts with showers, and clubrooms. The day nursery is especially popular with working mothers who find here a haven for their babies. During three weeks when this part of the building was undergoing repairs it was distressing to see the difficulties these mothers had in caring for their children. Each day during the renovations the mothers still stopped at the Centro to get the pint of milk due each child. On Mother's Day these mothers were entertained in the garden when they came to take their children home in the evening. This year the Centro is offering a First Aid Course, taught by one of the missionary nurses at the hospital. It is well attended by teachers, nurses, and other professional women. Students of English in the night school are asking for a similar class. The appropriation is $2,399.

The Student Hostel, next door to Colegio Palmore, provides a home for thirty girl students who are being cared for by a Mexican deaconess-teacher. The appropriation for this work is $905. The school, under a Mexican principal, and the hostel work in close collaboration.

Cortazar

In this typical Mexican small town in the heart of the State of Guanajuato the Methodist rural-social project has far-reaching influence. The missionary and a Mexican nurse, who is a midwife, have a dispensary attached to their home where many babies are safely delivered and scientifically cared for if the untrained mothers are faithful in bringing them to the clinic. The presence of these two workers strengthens the little church, which has achieved an unusual degree of independence. In a farming community five miles from the town the missionary has built herself a one-room Mexican, thatched-roof house where she lives, in the midst of the farmers, for a part of each week and tries to lift the life of the community. It is hoped that this whole circuit may become one of the experimental parishes attached to the extension work of the Union Theological Seminary in Mexico City; that lay leaders may be trained to work for the evangelization of the whole territory. Over 100,000 people occupy this area and only a handful have been touched by the gospel. We give $900 for this work.

Durango

Several well-trained Mexican leaders, one a deaconess, carry on work in this town which was once one of the strongholds of Methodism in northern Mexico. The social center provides a day nursery for the children of working mothers, a supervised playground, and all kinds of club work. A small Methodist school still continues to function in Durango, under Mexican leadership, but the building is in a very dilapidated condition, the enrollment is not large, the financial condition is serious, and the Council of Co-operation has appointed a committee to study the situation and bring in recommendations for the future.

General Teran

Eight hundred and eighty-five dollars a year given to this rural station in northern Mexico makes it possible for the missionary located here to rent a Mexican house in the heart of the town where she lives as a friend by the side of the road. Her home has few of the refinements of life, but the women and children find here a place where they feel at home, kitchen dishes which may be used by anyone, chairs which small boys cannot injure, books which anyone may read. Here the sick find sympathy, first aid, and a missionary-guided trip to a city doctor, if such is necessary. Those in trouble come to share their burdens and to be helped by the power of Christ. Boys and girls learn to work together in club life. One of the newest features of this village work is a summer camp in the near-by mountains where the missionary rented a cottage and took a group of small boys who, for the first time, learned about the wonders of nature as they explored the canyons and mountain streams. There are no statistics for such missionary service, but the lives of the people are influenced for Christ by the presence of such a missionary friend.

Guanajuato

About 120 have been enrolled in Colegio Juarez, which is a good increase and shows that there is still a place for our Protestant school in this ancient and strongly Catholic city. The boarding students have increased from eight to nineteen. Eight of the new girls are students from other parts of the State who attend the Normal School in Guanajuato. These girls enter into the Christian spirit of the hostel, over which a missionary has charge, and attend church and prayer meeting. The kindergarten is growing in popularity and is greatly in need of supplies. The principal of the school is a young Mexican Protestant woman. Our contribution to the hostel and scholarship fund is $1,200.

Mexico City

At the Fourth General Conference of the Methodist Church of Mexico last September it was voted to establish one Training School for Deaconesses, to be located in the property of the former Bible School in Mexico City. The school will be under the direction of a local Council of Administration, composed of two Mexican women, two ministers, and four missionaries of the Division, who shall select the faculty, administer the finances, and take charge of the welfare of the school. It is expected that the reorganized school will open in March, 1943. There is a real place for the work of women in the Mexican Church as was evidenced by the excellent quadrennial meeting held at the time of the General Conference by the Confederation of Methodist Women.

The former Bible School, so long known for its faithful work, graduates this year two full-fledged deaconesses, one "aspirant" to the deaconess course and five in the course for volunteer workers. Through the thirty-eight years of its existence, in one form or another, it is reported that this school has had 929 Mexican girls go in and out of its classes and seventy-seven have graduated in the various courses. Nine of these are today wives of Methodist preachers. In the new school the work of the two conferences will be brought together, the course will be enlarged, emphasis will be put upon training not only regular deaconesses, but deaconess-social workers and deaconess-nurses, young women who will have a consecration to the Master which will lead them out into various paths of service for their country. Miss Ruth Warner and Miss Maria Luisa Chagoyan have given themselves devotedly to this work during its last period covering thirteen years. In addition, they have found time for direct evangelism on country trips and in the city. It was recommended by the Study Commission on Deaconess Work and Volunteer Workers in Mexico that each Annual Conference appoint officially a worker, apt and of spiritual experience, to visit the churches with the object of interviewing the volunteer candidates among the young people and thus strengthen them in their consecration for the Lord and Saviour. In cases where this special worker cannot be employed, it was recommended that the conference secretary of the Woman's Missionary Society carry on this work as she is able.

The Division has assigned two of its missionaries to teaching positions in the Union Theological Seminary in Mexico City. One gives courses in comparative religions and sociology while the other, a nurse, teaches health and mental hygiene. Women students in the Deaconess Training School will take some courses at the Seminary. Under the new Department of the Rural Church the Seminary is launching out on an extension program which will reach into the villages where 85% of our church members live. The nurse is a member of the "teams" going out from the Seminary to various parts of the country to hold Institutes in these "larger parishes." In this way she will be able to teach the people the simple laws of health and hygiene and how to improve their homes.

In connection with Aztecas Church a young Mexican deaconess-physician, Dr. Baez, carries on a dispensary and clinic, bringing the healing ministry to many poor people.

The Industrial School at Anahuac, on the outskirts of Mexico City, reopened its doors last year, having been closed for several years by the law of the land. With a fresh interpretation of this law by the present Bureau of Education, greater leeway is given to private schools, both Catholic and Protestant. A Mexican woman is principal and a missionary has charge of the large hostel where over eighty-five girls live under Christian influence. The appropriation for this institution is $3,330. The Division has recently voted to permit the school to open the first year of the secondary course, under a government permit. This necessitates no increase in appropriations, but will make it possible for girls who wish to enter high school to continue their education under Protestant auspices.

Monterrey

The Social Center in Monterrey is the largest and most prosperous work of this kind which we have in Mexico. Located near the heart of this great city, it serves youth of all classes, in night school, in home economics classes, in Boy Scouts, Girl Reserves, and Little Homemakers. Here the social life of the church largely takes place. Because it was felt that this work was worthy of expansion, the Division voted to erect a new building on land which had been used as the playground. The work was begun in October, 1942. This building will provide a much-needed gymnasium connecting two wings of clubrooms, one for boys and the other for girls. Money for this building was granted by the former Woman's Missionary Council from funds released by the sale of former mission properties in Mexico. The regular appropriation for this work is $1,875. Two missionaries are in charge.

The Student Hostel in Monterrey is housed in a small residence now crowded with sixteen girls. It has far-reaching influence on a small group. Under the rare Christian influence of the home everyone seems happy, even the two girls who are using the former trunk room as their bedroom. The youngest girl is eight, sent by her parents from the country because they want her under Protestant missionary influence. Most of the students attend Laurens Institute. Two are students majoring in medicine and chemistry in the University of Monterrey. Two plan to take training in the School of Nursing in Chihuahua, and one of the youngest has already decided to be a deaconess. This hostel work is very fruitful in character building, and very popular with parents whose daughters must come to the city for their secondary education as there are few high schools outside the State Capital. Many more girls apply than can be accommodated in the cramped building our limited rental allowance makes possible. A further investment for this type of work would be worth while, as this seems to be one of the most fruitful ways in which Christian work can now be carried on under the restrictions of the laws of Mexico. One missionary is in charge and works with a budget of $900.

To Instituto Laurens in Monterrey, belonging to the Division of Foreign Missions, the Woman's Division gives $400 toward the work of the Girls' Department. In 1942 there were 496 students, of whom 129 were girls. This school has produced more ministers than any other institution in this conference. It holds a place of high esteem with the government and its Mexican principal, who is a highly trained Christian educator, is a leader in the life of the city. This year the Woman's Division made a special contribution of 15,000 pesos for science equipment which was urgently needed in order that the school might retain its government license. This equipment now puts Laurens in the front rank of the schools in Monterrey. In 1942 the Division is giving an educational grant to a teacher from Laurens, Miss Dolores Gomez, who is studying at Scarritt.

Pitiquito

In the distant State of Sonora in the desert country bordering Arizona, one of our two evangelistic missionaries in Mexico is working. For several years the churches in this part of Mexico were closed because of revolutionary conditions. Now there are five active congregations which are served by the missionary and a Mexican deaconess. Nine hundred dollars covers rental, district travel, and supplies.

Pachuca

The Escuela Hijás de Allende (as the girls' school here is called) under a Mexican principal meets the educational needs of many children of poor families. This woman receives $1,200 annually toward the school expenses, but is otherwise entirely responsible for maintaining the work. Although she frequently goes without her own salary, her teachers are always paid. She was a student in this school and has given twenty-nine years of service here as a teacher. Although four new Catholic schools have been opened in this city, this school is overcrowded with 750 children. Forty per cent of these come from evangelical families. Twenty-five live in the dormitory. No missionary is appointed to this work.

Puebla

Here another Mexican Protestant woman leads the primary school of about 370 children. Next door to the church the school is openly Protestant in the heart of this very Catholic city. A missionary has charge of the student hostel of forty girls. We give $1,200 toward the hostel and scholarship fund. Another missionary lives in the school and carries on evangelistic work in the strong Methodist church here and in the surrounding district.

Ramos Arizpe

In this village is a Mexican deaconess-missionary who lives to serve the people and to strengthen the life of the church. In each village work the program may vary, but the example of genuine Christian behavior is the most potent of Christian influences, without which mere words are ineffective. Eight hundred dollars a year makes this work possible.

Sahillo

In the original building of the Methodist school, next door to the Methodist Church, is the Social Center. Year after year more people come here for the various activities held in the rooms around the patios. There is a gymnasium where girls and boys play basketball, volleyball, and other games. There are two baths with showers, two rooms for quiet games, a tennis court, and a clinic for poor people. Every night young people come to spend the evening in classes in English, cooking, music, knitting. According to law, Bible may not be taught, but there is much quiet, steady Christian influence for better living woven into the warp and woof of the classes. This kind of work is important because it is done among people of all social classes without any distinction of religion or position in life. Two thousand nine hundred and sixteen dollars is our contribution. One missionary and two Mexican assistants carry on this work.

Villa Frontera

Since this village station did not seem to be the best center for rural work and was not producing the desired results, the work here has been given up. A committee is studying the field to determine the most strategic spot in this region where new work shall be started.

Poland

Work in Warsaw, Poland, continues under the leadership of Miss Ruth Lawrence. It has been a year since any word came from her directly, but through the Y.M.C.A. International Office in Geneva, a letter dated May 30, 1942, reached New York in August.

"I have decided not to return to America with the exchange group, and shall appreciate it if you will communicate a message to my church for me. I have made this decision because I think it is very important that a missionary stay on the field if at all possible, and it seems to me I am the only one in a position to do so. I feel I am much more necessary here than at home. I have been quite well. I have sufficient means (borrowed funds) to purchase whatever I need in the way of food, clothes, and other supplies. Our church work is going well and we are optimistic about its development. It has been recognized and the statute approved by the authorities (German). Our number of workers is increasing and we are continually opening new places of work."

Others coming out of Poland report that Miss Lawrence is free to carry on work with the church which still has about 200 members in Warsaw. People who are soul hungry because of the trials of war are seeking strength in the church. As only a subsistence salary can be sent her through U. S. Government channels, the $3,145, which is our annual appropriation for the work in Poland, is being held in a reserve fund here.

Bulgaria

In the heart of Bulgaria, nestled at the foot of the hills in the lovely town of Lovetch, is the American School for Girls, founded by The Methodist Church in 1882. So far as is known, this is the only Protestant mission school functioning in Bulgaria today. On October 5, 1942, the New York Times announced in a dispatch from Istanbul that the American College in Sofia, Bulgaria, had been closed and ten missionary teachers had left the country. The same report said that the two missionaries of the Woman's Division, the Misses Mellony Turner and Esther Carhart, had remained to carry on their work in Lovetch.

From these intrepid workers frequent letters are coming through the International Red Cross in Geneva. They write with discretion, telling only of everyday happenings in the school, which is crowded with girls. Thirty new students matriculated in September, 1942. "So you see," writes Miss Turner, "it would not have been a good thing to run away." The total enrollment is probably about 250. All students are boarders. War measures have led to the transfer of the school administration to a Bulgarian. The Division has been able to send only subsistence allowances through government channels for the missionaries. No money for the work can enter the country, with which the United States is at war. Evidently the school is being run on borrowed funds. In the meantime the $3,600 a year appropriated is being held in a reserve for the future payment of debts incurred.

North Africa

The missionary force in Algeria has remained the same as last year. The seven who are there cannot leave the country and the three in the United States cannot return to the field. It is still possible to send money by special permit of the Federal Reserve Bank and our appropriations for the work ($14,761) and for missionary salaries have gone forward regularly.

As far as is known, Van Kirk Memorial Home in Algiers and Gamble Memorial Home in Constantine have had about the same number of Kabyle and Arab girls as usual. The feeding and clothing of these children has brought greater problems because of the scarcity of both food and clothes. Some of the girls in these homes are making real contributions to the upbuilding of Christ's Kingdom in North Africa in their Christian witness, and in some responsibilities they have been able to share in the work. Death has claimed the first Kabyle girl to become an assistant at Il Maten. She did fine work, and although her term of service was all too brief, she has left a Christian witness in the mountains that will have an influence for a long time to come. The social-evangelistic work at Hannah Goodall Center brings the gospel to many people.

The rural work at Sidi Mabrouk, a suburb of Constantine, and Il Maten, in the Kabyle mountains, has also continued through the year. The medical work at Il Maten has been somewhat curtailed by lack of medical supplies. The people in this part of the country have suffered intensely from lack of food and clothing, and a canteen at Il Maten proved a real blessing to the school children. A French missionary-teacher is in charge of the work at Il Maten.

The garden work done by the boys at Sidi Mabrouk, who were organized into a self-government group, has been very successful. This group approach will probably bring more lasting results among the Moslems than some of the other methods we have been using.

The work in the Student Hostel in Algiers has been carried on with a full program, touching not only the lives of the students in the university today, but helping many of the former students in their adjustments to the war problems. The French Evangelistic Work has also been carried on, meeting the spiritual and many times the material needs of the European population which has been so badly shaken and uprooted by the war.

The Role of Schools in Wartime

SCHOOLS in wartime! How shall we appraise the place of the school in a year—our first year of the greatest conflict the world has ever known? Our first objective is to do better the thing we are doing normally—to give more adequate physical training, to teach more creatively, to develop character more truly, to train in household skills more intelligently, to interpret democracy more realistically, and to create Christian attitudes more positively. A large order? Yes. Moreover, in addition we must adapt our curriculums to changing needs; we must encourage our pupils to aid in every possible way in the war effort; we must place at the disposal of our Government every facility of physical plant or man or woman power; we must constantly interpret the meaning of the world conflict, and above all, so to prepare the minds and hearts of our young people for a just and lasting peace that they may have an intelligent share in its making and that their children “may face the future unafraid.”

Our schools have all been affected in some way by the war—from the curtailment of repairs to the difficulty in securing teachers, or from the enrichment of the curriculum to the establishment of the V-I Navy plan in two junior colleges.

Our Responsibility

In thirty-five student centers, the Bureau of Educational Institutions has the responsibility of guiding young people through the leadership of teachers and other workers. Many schools report increased enrollments in the fall of 1942, and as the majority of our schools are for girls, the enrollment of boys is not so greatly affected as might be anticipated.

Developments

A study of the situation at Norman, Oklahoma, where we have a teacher of Bible at the School of Religion, revealed the fact that a full-time worker was not necessary, and that a correlation with the program of McFarlin Memorial Methodist Church would be feasible. The teacher, Miss Mary DeBardeleben, was transferred to Gammon Theological Seminary, as director of the Woman's Department, and an arrangement made to supplement the salary of the director of religious education at the church, who will teach classes at the School of Religion.

The George O. Robinson School, San Juan, Puerto Rico, was unable to secure the priorities for the last 10% of the new buildings and therefore did not open in the fall of 1942 as planned. Negotiations have been pending with the Government to utilize the building for Navy purposes.

Allen School, Asheville, North Carolina, has rented a commodious home to accommodate eleven girls and two teachers, and the enrollment in dormitory and day school has notably increased.

Bennett College, Greensboro, North Carolina, and Browning Home, Camden, South Carolina, have developed a plan of co-operation whereby certain points of their programs may be correlated, especially the aspect of teacher training.

Sager-Brown Home and Godman School, Baldwin, Louisiana, will, through the Woman's Division, provide scholarships for graduates to attend Gilbert Academy and Peck Hall, New Orleans, Louisiana, instead of expanding its own program to a four-year high school.

Scarritt College for Training Christian Workers, Nashville, Tennessee, entered into another forward-looking joint enterprise with Vanderbilt University and George Peabody College, in the establishing of the Nashville School of Social Work. It has opened auspiciously, in the fall of 1942, with forty-seven students, under the leadership of Miss Lora Lee Pederson, acting director.

Physical Plants

Before priorities made it difficult to secure materials, and labor shortage to find workmen, some changes and repairs were completed. The following schools had extensive remodeling, repairs, or redecorating: Harwood School, Albuquerque, New Mexico; Holding Institute, Laredo, Texas; Allen School, Asheville, North Carolina; Boylan-Haven School, Jacksonville, Florida; Rust Hall, Holly Springs, Mississippi, and Alvan Drew School, Pine Ridge, Kentucky. Erie School, Olive Hill, Kentucky, was able to redecorate the Walker Neighborhood House, through the gift of Mrs. Carrie Henbest Estate, and the building will be used as a teacherage as well as continued as a clinic and library for the community.

Outstanding Events

The historic three-day celebration during the week end of April 10-12, 1942, held at Clark College, Atlanta, Georgia, was a noteworthy event. Consummating the relocation of the College adjacent to Atlanta University, the new buildings were dedicated; the new president, Dr. James P. Brawley, was inaugurated, and the meeting of the college presidents of Methodist colleges was held under the leadership of Dr. M. S. Davage, secretary of the Department of Educational Institutions for Negroes of the Board of Education. The Woman's Division of Christian Service was represented in the ceremonies and the executives of the Negro homes and schools attended the meeting of the presidents and participated in the discussion.

At Pfeiffer Junior College, Misenheimer, North Carolina, there was held, on April 21, 1942, the cornerstone laying of two buildings, namely: Washington Hall, the new dormitory for boys, and the Henry Pfeiffer Chapel. The Industrial Arts Building was also opened in the fall of 1942, thus completing a succession of notable and beautiful buildings on the campus of Pfeiffer Junior College.

Bennett College, Greensboro, North Carolina, held a summer workshop in 1942, the climax of which was an "America, Be Strong Day," with an attendance of more than one thousand.

Ritter Hall, on the campus of Tennessee Wesleyan College, Athens, Tennessee, celebrated its fiftieth anniversary during the last school year, featuring an historical pageant written by Dean Elizabeth Brubaker, who is also superintendent of Ritter Hall. The Hall also joined with the College in the observance of Vocation's Day, March 25, 1942, when more than 1,000 high-school seniors from near-by towns came together in a program presenting a large variety of vocations by experts in each field.

Among the outstanding events must be listed a fire, which occurred at Vashti School, Thomasville, Georgia, when the rear of the health center was destroyed. Immediate replacement was possible through the insurance, and the new center, improved and with new furnishings, was dedicated on October 25, 1942.

It is a source of rejoicing to note that Wood Junior College, Mathiston, Mississippi, has been one of the objects for the gifts from the Week of Prayer and Self-Denial in 1942.

A Workers' Conference for missionaries and deaconesses of the Southeast and Central Jurisdictions was held January 26-27, 1942, at Scarritt College, under the leadership of Dr. W. B. Stubbs, of Emory University. A most stimulating series of discussions was held.

Relationships With Other Agencies

A relationship exists with the Board of Education at several points. The Woman's Division maintains seven institutions on the campuses of schools partly supported under the Board of Education. These seven are: Clark College, Atlanta, Georgia; Bennett College, Greensboro, North Carolina; Paine College, Augusta, Georgia; Rust Hall, Rust College, Holly Springs, Mississippi; Eliza Dee Hall, Sam Huston College, Austin, Texas; Peck Hall, Gilbert Academy, New Orleans, Louisiana; Ritter Hall, Tennessee Wesleyan College, Athens, Tennessee. At Clark College, the co-operative arrangement between the Woman's Division and the Board of Education, through a plan of unified administration, has been continued with marked success.

The Woman's Division is co-operating with the Department of Educational Institutions for Negroes of the Board of Education in the Survey of Negro Schools, which is being conducted under the direction of Mr. John E. Brewton, of the George Peabody Field Study Staff, of Nashville, Tennessee. Through this study it is expected that a new evaluation may be placed upon the function and program of each school and its relation to the total program of the two agencies.

As the Woman's Division has seven centers on state university campuses, where student counselors or teachers of Bible are engaged in student work, it seemed advisable to inquire as to their relation to the work among students under the Board of Education of our church. Therefore a Joint Committee on Student Work in State Universities was appointed, which held a meeting June 1, 1942. Among the significant recommendations of the committee is the following: (1) that inasmuch as it was the sense of the meeting that there should be a united approach of The Methodist Church to college students, that this committee be continued as a clearing house implementing this principle with relation to personnel, program, and future development of Methodist student work at state institutions; (2) that the student workers of the Woman's Division of Christian Service be considered part of the Methodist Student Movement, and that they follow the correlated program procedures of the two boards; (3) that in any future expansion of change of program at student centers on state campuses, where the two agencies are involved, there shall be mutual consultation through the respective secretaries involved.

Another relationship, more formally established this year, was with The University Senate. Members of the Senate had generously responded to requests for assistance in surveying schools from the standpoint of the standards of the University Senate. It was felt advisable to make this relationship more definite, and therefore a committee was appointed and met in Nashville, Tennessee, January 31, 1942, with Dr. John L. Seaton presiding.

Interdenominational relationships include that with the Conference of Southern Mountain Workers, and the Home Missions Council. In the latter we are serving through the Indian Committee and the Committee on the Wardship of the Indians. There is also a newly organized committee on Leadership Training of Indians which is giving special consideration to the Cook Training School at Phoenix, Arizona.

Publicity

Publicity has been given to the institutions of the Bureau through the new leaflet, "Christian Education in a Democracy," and through pamphlets on individual schools, namely: Vashti, Holding, Clark, Navajo, Alvan Drew, and Browning. Various channels of publicity have been used to describe developments in the programs of the schools, specifically, the news columns of the World Outlook and The Methodist Woman, the Advocate, the jurisdictional secretaries of Home Work, the Bulletin published by the Joint Division of Education and Cultivation (Missionary Education) and wherever opportunity offered.

The Bureau was represented at the Convocation of the Methodist Youth Fellowship by Miss Josefina Garcia, who presented the work among Latin Americans.

The Present Need

The draft has revealed the extent of illiteracy in our country:

"The Government found that 10,000,000 adults, over twenty-five years of age, were functionally illiterate. Of that number 2,800,000 had had no schooling at all. The others are fourth graders or less. Some 7,300,000 of the number are white, with 4,200,000 native born among them. Negroes make up 2,700,000."

"When we think of one group alone, the Negro, we face the fact that there is a wide range in the per capita expenditure per child enrolled in Negro public schools. In 1930-1940, the range was $5.55 in Mississippi and $69.09 in Missouri. The average expenditure per white child enrolled was $49.35; per Negro child enrolled, $19.31. That the Southern States are tending toward a more equitable distribution of school funds is evidenced by the fact that the per cent increase of total current expenditures of 1940 over those of 1930 is 8.7 for white schools and 39.3 for Negro schools."

The need for education, however, is not our only need. There is a religious illiteracy as well. There is need, as in New Mexico, for us to follow up our training in the schools, by the establishment of community centers in towns from which our students come, that they may be strengthened as they return to their Catholic communities.

Our Schools and Christian Faith

President E. C. Peters, of Paine College, in addressing the college faculty at the beginning of the school year, said:

"In times like these, it is incumbent upon teachers and others who are engaged in working with youth to examine their own faith. This faith should be rooted deeply in a vital Christian experience. Faith in forces less real and abiding, however much they may have seemed sufficient in the past, cannot meet the tests of this day. It is not enough to be able to teach well the subject matter of one's particular specialization. This must be done, but behind it and over it and through it all there must be this vital Christian faith, if what is done is to have very much meaning to our young people, rightly puzzled about the present and deeply troubled about the future. The present is a time when Christian teachers must reveal through their teaching and through their daily living the Christ they love and the Christ they serve."

Bureau of Town and Country

REPORTS from all sections of our Town and Country work show increasing interest despite the fact of conditions which obtain in every section of our country.

Quite a number of the assigned workers have married but are glad to continue as heretofore as the establishment of a home is not possible at this time. I am glad I can state the reports show increased interest instead of the reverse.

There is a sense of need for stability in our living that is natural under the conditions not only in the United States of America, but in practically all of the world which turns our thinking to the simpler, more fundamental things of life. From agricultural, mining, isolated, and nationality groups, reaction to world conditions seems to be the same. We want more of that which will bring us closer together and less of whatever tends to separation. Reactions from the youth groups as given in the monthly reports is noticeably different from the same age groups in the period of the last World War in which we participated. Many problems have changed and we see more clearly the need for facing them together. This leads us to a consideration of making conditions under which we live serve with us in every community and neighborhood. A constant and real interest in the affairs of community or neighborhood would bring results we as yet have not experienced.

There are many types of communities in the rural sections of our country. Among these is found a large number of communities in which the people are engaged in mining. Mill communities are also numerous and as varied in their products as the mining centers. There are scores of isolated communities in the mountain coves, river bends, in the forests, and on lonely prairies where people live. Another and needed rural community has evolved in more recent years in which many thousands of people who have lived in cities and larger towns have moved into the country areas, thereby securing the advantages of the countryside and sometimes avoiding tax on utilities from which they continue to benefit. It is estimated that practically one half the population of the United States of America live in the town and country or rural sections. Approximately three fourths of the rural population of the United States of America live in the agricultural sections and are engaged in agricultural pursuits. With these we are more familiar so we have become accustomed to thinking of a rural community as one in which the farm owner and tenant live, or that much-written-of community in which the farm worker lives and the owner resides in a distant city. Yet approximately one fourth of our rural population, this includes the professional and trades people who are a constituent and necessary part of any community, are engaged in industry and live in industrial communities.

Many of the work projects and institutions of our own organization are located in industrial communities where coal, copper, phosphate, zinc, granite, and other commodities are mined. Our organization also does work in a number of mill communities and villages. As yet we have only one project in the isolated community where trappers, hunters, and others spend their lives. In the newer communities, composed of those who have moved from the city areas, we have no work, but district superintendents and pastors are struggling with the problem with which the church as a whole must cope. We have not considered that urbanization produces an artificial life which will not stabilize the nation in a time when we need to be stable and that a large percentage of even the city leadership comes through the men and women who have spent their lives in the country. The church has come to know that without the people from the rural areas success cannot be attained, and it reminds us, too, that Jesus said, "Go ye into all the world and lo, I am with you." We also realize that in this country we need to utilize every tie that binds us together and overcome every obstacle that separates us. We have discussed our differences until we sometimes feel they are insurmountable, when as a matter of fact they can help us to be what we should be as a nation. It will help if we realize that industrial communities are composed of peoples of different nationalities who must live and work together, often under unfavorable conditions, making the best of these conditions and making possible many of the comforts that those who live in cities and towns enjoy; that living thus they do not often come in contact with the main trends of thought which are characteristic of the modern world, that this tends to separate us. We therefore can better understand that organizations which bring people together in constructive, mutual causes are needed always and everywhere, but especially are they needed now. The message that the church is particularly prepared to deliver must be given special attention, with emphasis upon home and community life in which a secure civilization may be built. Larger planning for understanding and fellowship must be considered as never before. The benefit of the church depends upon the extent to which it ministers to the needs and interest of the people. "No institution can prosper and may not continue to exist as an end unto itself."

Community plans have developed as the needs for them have been recognized. The village came into existence to meet pressing needs of the people of the country and serves especially as a center for trade and barter. Approximately one million, four hundred and fifty thousand people live in the villages of America. These villages are not only places of trade, but places of residence for the dependents of the countryside, young and old. It is also in the village that rural and urban attitudes and patterns of living collide and many misunderstandings arise. It is therefore increasingly necessary that the programs of the church be planned so that they meet the needs of the people of all groups, all nationalities, and in all stages of development. The village is rapidly becoming the social center of rural life and should be given consideration as such.

So that you may judge of the programs that are being developed and carried out we give you excerpts from reports from several different communities—agricultural, industrial, racial, isolated, and others.

Kirkpatrick tells us "that enterprise is surest of success that starts with a survey that provides a basis for intelligent action," believing that the only basis for building a really constructive program is a knowledge of the community needs; a careful study of the community is made and the needs listed before work is begun. After the survey is made, the worker is asked to study with the staff the community needs represented with full discussion, then to proceed to outline the program, then to present it to the community group for further attention before beginning to put it into execution.

We quote from different reports some things our workers are doing in different communities:

(1) "Rural work in a new area must progress slowly. However, during six months there are indications of progress through newly organized church schools, young people's groups, parent-teacher associations, handcraft groups, community meetings, and through individuals. We have been attempting to develop a spirit of co-operation, to create a community consciousness, to awaken people to problems confronting the community and to arouse in them a determination to face these problems. Not only have we worked toward making individuals aware, but to help them understand that they are a part of their community, a part of their government—county, state, and national—and that they are a vital part of the world in which they live and are responsible for helping it develop into a better world in which to live."

(2) "We have the day school for children and a night school for adults, and in addition to the school program there is the church school each Sunday morning, preaching twice a month, a community sing each week, boys' and girls' industrial clubs each week with a purpose to learn industrial arts, good sports and amusements, a community library and game room, house-to-house visiting, getting acquainted at home."

(3) "When we started our work, we wanted to be friends to folks and to show them by examples the living of Christian life provides Christian teaching, reading rooms, play hours, and such as your church may furnish for you. These days have added to that. We must help look after the health of the mothers and children, furnish clothing many times, help the man who says, 'I am sorry to have to come, but my wife and children are starving.' The deaconess went to the supply cellar and gave him canned provisions which had been put there for that purpose. Idle hours also require help, for boys and girls must do something. One thousand, six hundred and twenty-two books have been loaned from our library. High-school students come to our library to consult for reference books. Old and young alike are delighted when the summer has ended and the year's work begins. Girls' clubs, mothers' clubs, music lessons (with twenty pupils practicing on our pianos daily), basketball games in the gym, quiet games in the library all go to make up a regular day. The doctor and his nurse come up and help with the clinic our nurse has planned for the day. The domestic science kitchen has been sterilized and changed into an operating room. The gym has been turned into a convalescent hospital; the tables were placed on the floor; mothers were asked to bring a clean blanket and sheets with their child to the clinic; twenty-seven pairs of tonsils were removed in one day. The nurse said, 'Each child was better able to fight the cold of the winter and did not need to wait until he was ready to go to school.' On Sunday the children are eager to come to Sunday school. Of course, the boys come in overalls, but they are generally clean ones. They have nothing else these days. They love the old hymns—primary children, junior boys and girls, intermediates and older boys and girls, some in the teacher's training class preparing to help in the Sunday school. First aid has been given 237 persons; 202 babies have been examined; 27 cases of tuberculosis given advice and care; 57 nursing cases have been cared for by the nurse; 37 tonsils removed; one deaf child placed in the school for mutes; 2,729 calls in the home by the nurse and hundreds of calls in the homes by the deaconesses. Bible classes have been conducted in the homes in their own foreign language, using the little Gospels of their language, and one of the older girls acting as interpreter."

(4) "During the school year a character education program has been carried forward as a part of the regular curriculum of twelve different public schools (both white and colored). Each week approximately fifteen hundred children eagerly participate in these services. In the summer the program is continued through vacation schools in the various communities. Changed habits in the everyday living of the boys and girls give evidence of the effectiveness of the program. In two communities work is done in church school. Assisting in a general way with the school, counseling young people's groups, and teaching young people's classes open many opportunities for service. Young people from these church-school groups attend young people's assembly and intermediate camp where the deaconesses serve as counselors and teach. Mission study classes and Bible study classes have been taught in two missionary societies. Assistance on programs and with organization has been given four other societies. Scouting for both boys and girls has grown throughout the past year. Each week new boys and girls come into the Brownie Pack, the Girl Scout, or the Boy Scout troop. The older Girl Scouts, through the sale of Christmas cards, raised the money to buy uniforms for all of their troop members. Monday and Thursday afternoons each week numbers of boys and girls come to the deaconess home for library books. Old copies of good magazines, both secular and religious, are distributed through the library. Daily, human needs present themselves; daily, human beings cry out for something—something worth while—with which to fill leisure hours; daily, the deaconesses breathe a prayer of thanksgiving to God because they have opened the doors of a community center and said with Christ, 'Come.'"

Bureau of Urban Work

SINCE the last annual report our country has been thrust into an emergency which has made its impact upon every phase of human life. Not a person, even in the most remote area, has been untouched in some way by the changes and adjustments that are necessary in the present situation. Families are being separated and uprooted, the housing problem constantly grows more acute, mothers are finding employment, making it essential that private or public agencies extend their services to care for the children, juvenile delinquency is on the increase, and many other problems added to these enlarge the challenge and the responsibility of the church in a world at war.

Newspapers, magazines, and other informational pamphlets carry a steady flow of facts concerning conditions affecting human lives today. The Children's Bureau has issued "A Children's Charter in Wartime" which calls all citizens "to join together to: I. Guard children from injury in danger zones. II. Protect children from neglect, exploitation, and undue strain in defense areas. III. Strengthen the home life of children whose parents are mobilized for war or war production. IV. Conserve, equip, and free children of every race and creed to take their part in democracy."

A recent issue of Information Service, published by the Department of Research and Education, Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, carries a presentation of the problems affecting child welfare in defense communities and states. "No church can fail to recognize that this breakdown of family life all over the country is a grave threat to the maintenance of even such standards as have already been won." It further suggests that "there are at least four services churches might render in addition to religious education: assisting the community to secure foster homes for the youngest children and for those for whom nursery care is obviously undesirable; providing nurseries for the preschool-age children; arranging systematic recreation and supervision for school children, and helping in the organization of health clinics."

For such services as these, PLUS, the Woman's Division of Christian Service maintains Wesley Houses, Bethlehem Centers, settlements, and other types of city mission work.

Someone has said: "Intensively, the settlement aims to touch individuals at the quick—that is, to engage their wills. Extensively, it would elicit, so far as association, organization, and instruction may serve as a means, the latent human capacity of its given territory. The discovery of talent naturally constitutes the most exciting opportunity of local educators, and settlement workers literally comb their neighborhoods for natural gifts. The only method of keeping out of the slough of mediocrity into which all communities so easily settle, is to garner whatever capacity the chance of birth makes possible."

The opening paragraphs in the annual report from Centenary Institute, Nashville, Tennessee, give evidence of the touch of the settlement on the individual:

"Meeting the physical needs of men is comparatively easy; a man knows definitely when he and his family are out of food, when the last lump of coal has gone on the fire, when a child has a toothache, or his wife a high fever. And granted money and trained physicians, we know that we can help this family meet these needs. But there are no exact rules for helping a man spiritually; this is an art that the Master Teacher had in the highest degree, and which, as humble followers, we try to practice. We remember that Christ said, 'Man shall not live by bread alone,' that he told Nicodemus, 'Ye must be born again.' But spiritual help cannot be given until a person feels his need as clearly as he feels the need of food for his hungry family. Very few men or women, boys or girls, when they register at Centenary, would admit or think that they came for spiritual help; they come because they like certain activities to be found here, because of the friendly atmosphere, because they have friends who are members. A leader who has given a Christian message weekly for eleven years to a group of women, tells how at the first meeting the women sat with indifferent faces as she talked with them. Another leader of women, in speaking of one of the 'stand-bys' in a club who now nod her head in agreement to truths in a Christian message, says that for some time after the woman joined this group she would sit turning the leaves of a songbook, seemingly paying no attention to the words of the leader. Now the women of these clubs come to their leaders and staff members with their problems and ask for prayers for themselves and their loved ones.

"As board members and staff members, it is our purpose to help those who come to Centenary to reach their highest possible development, for their own good and for the sake of society; since we are Christians we believe that the highest development comes only to those who have that 'bread of life' Jesus came to give. It is then one of our chief aims to help our members come to the place where they realize their spiritual poverty as well as they do their physical needs, that they may find the 'abundant life' in Jesus Christ.

"Methods used to retain our purpose are clinics, groups of various kinds, friendly understanding on the part of Christian workers who strive to make their lives uphold their message, informal talks, and conferences."

There is no stereotyped program for settlement work, but each center works out a plan of procedure whereby it can best serve the community with the available facilities. The program must be flexible in order to meet the changing needs of the community. A recent expansion of services at Manley Center in Portland, Oregon, illustrates the adaptability of program to changed conditions. Portland is fast becoming an industrial center for defense work. Statistics furnished by the Federal Employment Service show that there are twenty-seven defense plants in the Portland area, employing 62,609 as of July 1, 1942. It is estimated that there will be 153,664 (an additional 91,055) by February 1, 1943, and the peak will be reached about July 1, 1943, when at least an additional 50,000 workers will be required. This tremendous influx of workers has created a housing problem that cannot be met without the full co-operation of the citizens of Portland. It was found that rooms on the third floor of Manley Center, which at one time were used for a day nursery, could be converted into dormitory space to house working girls. Also two basement rooms formerly used by the boys department could be made available since the boys' work has been curtailed by the impossibility to secure a full-time boys' worker. These rooms have been equipped with double-decker beds and furnish comfortable, attractive sleeping quarters for thirty-four girls. They have access to the game rooms, parlors, and clubrooms. Besides this additional service to the community, the regular settlement activities are continued, including a limited program for boys under the leadership of a part-time worker.

A new experiment in social planning is being conducted through the agencies serving the North Side area in Kansas City, Missouri. In order to more adequately meet the needs and to get the best returns from the financial support, the planning committee has delegated to each agency in the community a specific line of work rather than supporting competitive or duplicate programs. One center is organized with a nonsectarian board and will become the major recreational center on the North Side. Institutional Neighborhood House, a project of the Woman's Division of Christian Service, will continue and enlarge its program for the preschool children which it has maintained since 1897. It will also continue a child health center and mothers' clubs related to these activities. Another center will confine its services to a health program. Through a joint board of directors it is felt that a unified program can now be conducted with greater efficiency and better spirit than was possible in the past. Protestants, Catholics, and Jews are working together in this experiment which will be watched with interest by other cities as they plan for social service in the future.

With the general evacuation of the Japanese from the West Coast, it was necessary to temporarily discontinue the work at the Japanese Neighborhood House in Los Angeles, California. On April 29 the Japanese from that community were evacuated to the Santa Anita Reception Center. An effort was made by the Government to keep family and community units intact, so it was possible for most of those connected with the Neighborhood House to go together into their temporary homes. A recent letter from Rev. Lester Suzuki tells of their transfer on September 30 to the Granada Relocation Center, Lamar, Colorado.

"Before I go on further, we as a family and as a church group, wish to thank very deeply all of you for your kindness, your visits, your gifts, your prayers, and your moral support, before evacuation, during evacuation, at the assembly centers, and since then. We cannot tell you how encouraging, how heartening, and how happy we feel to know that you on the outside are so considerate of us. We say again, 'Thank you.' Since coming here we have received visits from the Colorado Church Council, from the ministers at Lamar, and yesterday Miss Dora Wagner, a returned missionary from Japan, spent a few hours with Rev. Yamaka and myself. She is now working in the San Luis Valley among the Japanese. On September 27 Rev. Gordon Chapman, Executive Secretary of the Pacific Coast Committee for Wartime Japanese Service, visited and preached here."

Although the work with Japanese on the coast was discontinued, we are still rendering some specific service through a co-operative program with the Foreign Department.

"Twenty missionaries of the Foreign Department are serving among the Japanese in America. Fifteen of these are in service which is related to the work of the Home Department while five of them are in Government employ.

"These women bring to their work of love among the Japanese years of experience in Japan, a knowledge of the Japanese language, and sympathetic understanding of the difficulties in which the Japanese in America now find themselves. Along with this they couple also a love for America that has been deepened and enhanced by the years which they have spent abroad. All of this makes them well fitted for the task of reconciliation which is so large a part of their work.

"Twelve of them are acting the part of a friend to Japanese still living in free communities scattered through Idaho, Colorado, Wyoming, Washington, Oregon, California, and Hawaii. They visit the sick; they talk to the older people in Japanese, to the young folks in English; they teach English classes and Bible classes; they organize clubs and direct play for boys and girls and little children; they take tiny corsages to the train for women and girls who are leaving their homes to go away to the relocation camps; they write letters to those whom they know but cannot visit regularly. Actuated by the love of the Master and love for those who need them, they adapt themselves in activities to whatever need may present itself. One woman is living in a tent among the Japanese in the F. S. A. Camp in the beet fields near Nyssa, Oregon. She is so happy to be there since it means that she can make herself available at any time during twenty-four hours in the day. To have been able to place one young woman who is a graduate nurse in work in a hospital, another who is a musician in a position as a music teacher, and several young students in college seems to her sufficient reward for any inconvenience. She does not know what sacrifice means; it simply is not a word in her vocabulary so far as her own experiences are concerned. The other two are serving on church committees for Japanese, one in New York, N. Y., and one in Denver, Colorado."

A series of planning institutes is being conducted with workers and board members in order that we might think together about the changing needs and attitudes, that we might share experiences and receive inspiration to plan more effectively and intelligently to meet the increasing problems in the cities today. All our Christian resources must be pooled and we must appropriate Christ as never before to enable us to perform our task.

This is a very inadequate picture of the total program of the Bureau of Urban Work, but it is sufficient to show that the need for consecrated Christian leaders is greater than it has ever been. It shows that we must be aware and alert at such a time as this and that the church must have the answer to the call for help. There are still vacancies in staffs. Workers are carrying unusually heavy loads. The Woman's Society of Christian Service has an obligation to support this important program and to direct qualified young people into service in these institutions.

Abbie Graham's "A Prayer in the Midst of Cities" should be our prayer as we build the city of God by serving the city of Man.

A Prayer in the Midst of Cities

As Jesus came from the silences of Galilean shores to Jerusalem, the city of his people, with its low roofs and temple towers shining in the valley beneath him, its streets crowded with the play of children, the trafficking of merchants, the caravans of travelers, and as he, looking on Jerusalem, loved it, let us, too, enter into the cities which our forefathers have built and find them good.

Teach us who love the fields and hills to love a city, too, and to stand unafraid in unfamiliar streets. Let us be proud of the achievements of man, but forgetting not to lift up our eyes above these sky-hung houses to the eternal fortresses of the heavens that the spirit of man discovered ere Babylon was dreamed. Teach us the worth of man that far transcends his work in stone or steel.

Let us not be dazzled by the show of things, but swift to perceive the qualities of the spirit, sure to discern the good in the midst of shallowness, the wastefulness of life, and the failure that we see in people. Let no dullness of life within us make cheapness seem good.

Let not the outward richness make us blind to the poverty and suffering hidden within the city's walls. We thank thee for the seers of great cities who, like Jesus of Nazareth, have been sensitive to the value of human life, who have ministered to its sufferings and multiplied its joy. Teach us to live as these, resenting wrong, strengthening the good, thanking thee always for the beauty which the heart and mind of man have conceived. Amen.—ABBIE GRAHAM.

Bureau of Social Work

IN THIS bureau there is no piece of work that has not been affected by the world conflict; one has been temporarily closed because of it, another has been added for the same reason. These two changes are easy to understand, but it is not so obvious that a day nursery in Cincinnati, or a girls' residence in Louisiana, or a children's home in California should feel the war's effects.

A New Project

At its last Annual Meeting the board adopted this recommendation: "We recommend that the Woman's Division confer with religious agencies, including the Home Missions Council and other denominational groups facing the same problems in defense areas, with a view to planning a co-operative program for men and women in those areas; that the Woman's Division take immediate steps to secure trained social workers (one white and one Negro) skilled in community and group organization to aid church women in setting up such a program; that conference and local groups be asked to co-operate in this project." After approval was given, the Woman's Division referred the matter to the Home Department. Two women, Mrs. Mabel Wagner and Mrs. Charles Wade, both of whom are especially well qualified for this work, were appointed and the work was begun on June 1. Our plan has been for them to go into local communities where military camps or war industries have created a problem for our churches, and help the churches to work out ways to meet the situation. Invariably we have sought the co-operation of other denominations, and this has meant much in the success of the enterprise.

Mrs. Wade has been working in a large eastern city with Negro women of many denominations. In her reports she says: "Last Wednesday the first Inter-denominational Volunteer Committee for work in a defense area, with Negroes, was organized at the Community House. For this organization, between forty-five and fifty women came, and seven preachers, all representing the different denominations.

"The Welcome Committee is taking a group of young people to the newly opened NYA Center in order to meet a group of youths who have come here for training for jobs in war industries. In this center the Information Committee has posted a unique church directory. A program of exchange talents will be given."

Mrs. Wagner's first assignment was in a prosperous, long-established college community with an agricultural background. I am quoting from her reports: "The committee has expressed its fine attitude in its fine spirit toward the work itself. There is an open mind and sincere desire to meet the local needs, to make the new people welcome and feel at home, in whatever possible ways or methods can be developed. The co-operation between denominations and utter lack of any rivalry evidenced is most unusual. It is difficult to measure the influence of leaders in this community, as they study and work out plans.

"Mrs. W——'s home is in the trailer camp. She and her husband have been here for several months and expect to be here for some time. They own their own home in New Hampshire and belong to the church there. Although I didn't urge her, I did mention I was a Methodist. The next Sunday morning she came all the way across the church smilingly to greet me.

"Mrs. M—— was home crocheting a rag rug for her trailer kitchen. 'I don't mind living in a trailer,' she said. 'People are nice, but it's hard in a new town to find a good doctor and dentist. I'd like to start Jackie to Sunday school, but I don't know where there is one near here.'

"D——'s father is dead. Her mother works in the office at the Ordnance Depot. They live in a trailer and she keeps house for them—and does it beautifully! She is Lutheran. One wonders about an adolescent alone all day, unless she can find the right friends. A Lutheran committee member and a local social worker are taking responsibility to get her acquainted with girls her own age."

Alaska

There are two pieces of work in Alaska which are supervised by this bureau, the Jesse Lee Home at Seward and the community center in Nome.

The evacuation of the children from the Jesse Lee Home was undertaken after very careful consideration and with very great reluctance. The Department felt that it should no longer be responsible for keeping over one hundred children together in the midst of an army camp. The children were sent to government schools or to the homes of relatives and foster parents, with the assistance of the Welfare Department of the Territory, under whose care they now are. We are looking forward to the day that we can reopen Jesse Lee Home when the present emergency is over.

The Mission at Nome has had an unusual year. It has always worked closely with the hospital and church in that town, the hospital being one of the institutions of the Woman's Division. Miss Constance Erickson, the deaconess who has charge of our Mission, is acting as pastor—preaching, burying the dead, making parish calls—as well as community house director. Recently she has also helped to organize a recreation center for our armed forces who are in the neighborhood.

Living Costs

All of our homes, whether for children, young women, or retired missionaries and deaconesses, have suffered from the rising cost of living that all of us have felt in our own homes. Prices of food, supplies, and other equipment, repairs and replacements have increased while income has not, for the most part.

Hawaii

Miss Frances Taylor, of our Susannah Wesley Home in Honolulu, has been bearing a heavy burden with humor and courage. Here is a quotation from one of her letters written this summer: "We were not able to find a place for any local evacuation, but since we are not now in the so-called evacuation area, by a half block, we're 'digging in' here.

"Everything is going along unusually well, however, in spite of difficulties. We're so happy to have our shelters. They're junior size but really quite comfortable when one sits. There are seats along each side. We keep fresh water, a box of bandages, cotton and adhesive, bottles of alcohol, peroxide, and merthiolate in each one."

Other Homes

Of course that home is in an unusually critical situation. But here is a report from York, Nebraska, which shows that it is not only the outposts that are involved. "It is to be expected in these times that our staff line will be difficult to maintain and that rising prices increase the difficulties. We are not discouraged, but it does take more time and planning to carry on. The demands for our services are increasing daily, and we feel that we have a real part in helping America. The nurse's work with the Red Cross and the school increases daily. She is now organizing classes of defense work in six counties in addition to her work here."

All our children's homes (Peek, David and Margaret, Mothers' Jewels, Ethel Harpst) that are in rural neighborhoods are having the same problems. Transportation difficulties are multiplying owing to tire rationing. One question arising in some of our homes is, "How shall we help our older boys to see the importance of keeping in school when they are being offered such high wages in industry?"

Our children's homes in urban communities (Spofford and Epworth) are not exempt from all of these difficulties. There never was a time when they were more needed. Delinquency in large cities is on the increase, and these character-building institutions are doing a preventive work that is invaluable. This is also true of the Mothers' Memorial Center in Cincinnati which is not a home in the sense of the others, but is making a similar contribution for Negro children and their parents.

Work of Individuals

Miss Katharine Maurer, who has for many years been deaconess at the Immigration Station in San Francisco, reports: "After Pearl Harbor the number of persons brought in crowded our detention quarters to capacity. In the hectic days that followed, and continued long into the year, our Station became the scene of a thousand dramas—full of heartbreak, and tragedy, too.

"The Advent Season was at hand, and though our country had declared war, Christmas was observed. To the detained people it proved an unforgettable experience.

"After Easter the United Nations group—sea-faring men, etc., followed and were housed in the international barracks at the camp; and shortly after the detained women were moved to the camp.

"Where does our work fit into the picture? To quote from the camp paper: 'Due tribute should be paid to the marvelous social welfare activity of Miss Maurer, Methodist missionary worker. Slowly, but surely, she is conquering our hearts by her fine manners, consoling words, and tireless efforts.'"

Our worker for many years at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, Deaconess Edith Smith, has retired. Her work is being carried on by Mrs. Ruth Leitzell, in co-operation with the Navy chaplain at that place. Mrs. Leitzell's work is with soldiers and marines as well as sailors.

We are co-operating with the New York Church Committee for Japanese work in the very significant project they are carrying on in New York. Miss Lois Curtice, formerly a missionary to Japan, is the executive secretary.

"During the days since Pearl Harbor, the Japanese Methodist Church has maintained its very fine program of service to the Japanese community which totals approximately 1,700. Through its efforts and that of co-operating agencies much has been accomplished in the rehabilitation of these people. Another very important phase of its work is with a large group of American-born young people. As one young man said: 'Here is one place where we feel completely at home. It's good for our bodies, minds, and souls.'"

The Esther Halls at San Diego, Ogden, and Salt Lake City are feeling the pressure of workers in war industries. So many more girls than we can care for are needing our kind of homes. The work of two deaconesses in the latter cities is broadening to reach, through the churches, the people whom the church should serve.

The chaplain in Carville, Louisiana, is making the church have meaning in the lives of the afflicted people in the leper colony there. He works in close co-operation with the Catholic priest to see to it that all the patients are reached by one or the other branch of the Christian Church.

Our Korean worker in Los Angeles has kept up her splendid service with her own people and with the Chinese. Her work with women and young people continues to be especially effective. It has meant much to the youth of Korean and Chinese parentage to have her guidance in this difficult time.

What we have accomplished all through the year is due to the skill of our workers, and to the willingness of the members of our boards and committees to spend time and effort on helping to find the right path to follow.

Bureau of Medical Work

THE institutions in this bureau continue to be filled to capacity and working at top speed. Many adjustments have been made so that the service may be kept at the usual high level in spite of the smaller number of doctors and nurses to care for more patients in every department of the hospitals. It is even difficult now to find a sufficient number of nurses' aids and orderlies to take over some of the less technical phases of nursing care, because of the increased need of young men and women in war industries.

The Government has again asked that Sibley Hospital in Washington, D. C., add more beds to meet the need of hospital care for civilians, and we are now arranging to take the nurses and students from Rust Hall, housing them in private houses, which were a bequest to the hospital some years ago and are just back of the home, using two floors of Rust Hall for patients. This will add about sixty beds. Two gifts from unexpected sources were received recently: a large American flag from the American Legion, and a resuscitator from a Teamsters' Union. These are both much appreciated. Rust Hall has been rejuvenated with fresh paint, the dining room is the last room to be finished, and the grounds have been resodded and planted with shrubs, so we are very vain about our appearance just now.

The isolation pavilion at Brewster Hospital, Jacksonville, Florida, is nearing completion, the work being done almost on schedule with comparatively few delays. Several young men who have been with us for a long time are now overseas, and many office workers have been called to Washington by the Government. This turn-over in employees makes administration very difficult. Examination of selectees goes on continually, and the stress and strain of life in a defense area has increased illness and accidents so that the hospital is running to capacity. The Training School began the year with nineteen probationers, and thirteen juniors went to Freedman's Hospital for affiliation. The maternity and pediatric departments have been filled to overflowing, and we are now looking forward to the Christmas season and what it will mean to the little ones in our care.

The situation in Alaska is still critical. We are rejoicing that the highway has been completed, although it is not at all certain that civilians will benefit greatly by it for some time to come. A few boats have been sent through to Nome with desperately needed supplies, and Seward has been receiving a fair share of necessities. The personnel problem is greater here than almost anywhere else, because there is no local supply whatever, even cooks must be brought in from the outside.

The two hospitals are carrying on under all these handicaps, doing fine work, and were never more needed.

Conditions in Santo Domingo at the present time are almost tragic. Sugar is the largest revenue-bringing crop of the island, and under present conditions cannot be sold. This brings more poverty and malnutrition—almost starvation—to people right here in our own hemisphere than has been known for years. Poverty and malnutrition causes an increase in disease and brings greater pressure on hospital facilities. Patients are being brought in from the sea these days—the Caribbean being the scene of many disasters to ships and airplanes.

The Methodist Sanatorium, Albuquerque, New Mexico, has had another busy year. The pavilion and the cottages have been filled constantly. However, if we have a severe winter, some of the cottages are in such need of repair that it will be difficult to heat them and they will have to be closed. We hope to be able to discontinue the use of cottages and have a modern, well-equipped building when "priorities" are a thing of the past. Cottages are difficult to administer and expensive to maintain with the constant need of painting and repairs.

The Medical Mission Dispensary in Boston, Massachusetts, has been concerned with many unusual duties the past year. About eighteen thousand patients have been handled through the year in the clinics and district work, but this is the usual procedure. Examinations of children from fresh-air camps and of drafted men for service has brought to light the poor physical condition of a large percentage of the number examined. A survey made in one section of Boston showed that of 222 boys just under draft age whose teeth were examined, only one needed no dental care. Our X-ray has discovered many cases where treatment was needed rather than extraction, which would probably have been done without the use of the X-ray. One case of "ulcerated tooth" in a young girl proved to be a cancer of the jaw which necessitated removal of a large part of her jaw. She was admitted to a hospital, operated upon, and is now being fitted with a denture that will build up the jaw and keep the correct contour of her face and restore her to health. We feel that this one case justifies the expense of the dental X-ray which we installed last year. The hope we have is that we may be able financially to increase the work of this department to meet this great need. The boys just under the present draft age are of prime importance to the country, and greater care in their examinations, more thorough inspection of eyes, ears, noses, throats, and chests is being emphasized, and as one of the health agencies, we are accepting this added responsibility in an effort to correct these conditions. Christmas is not far away, and the children of the neighborhood already are anticipating the celebration at the Mission. We ask your interest and help that they may not be disappointed.

Bureau of Deaconess Work

THE work of the deaconess, like that of every group, has been affected by the war situation. Moral and physical conditions, due to increased numbers in communities and the limitations of housing and recreational facilities, have demanded more hours of work and additional effort on the part of the deaconess in her attempt to help people become socially readjusted during this period of constant change.

The reports submitted by our deaconesses remind us of two factors of great moment:

(1) That the work now being done by them is vastly important in the defense of our country; and

(2) That each deaconess, through the service she is rendering The Methodist Church at large, is directly or indirectly related to the total program of the Board of Missions and Church Extension.

We hope by the quoting of and the referring to items reported we may prove the above statements.

Before entering into an account of the activities of our deaconesses, we wish to pay tribute to several who have been retired during this past year. Their lifetime of service could well be termed as having been expended in unselfish labor which has built up the spiritual lives of men, women, and children.

Miss Edith L. Smith, after forty years of continuous service, has completed her active work with the soldiers and sailors at the Naval Station, Portsmouth, New Hampshire. Miss Smith served for eighteen years as a deaconess in Washington, D. C., and Gardiner, Maine. She went to Portsmouth in 1921. From that time until September 1, 1942, Miss Smith has visited the boys and men in the prison, the hospital, and recently in the new army camp near by. She has been in touch with the wives and children of the men serving in the armed forces. The following testimony was given in her last report: "As I knew I was to leave the work soon I wanted to do all I could for the boys who have a big pull on my heart. Because of the war and the taking of so many new boys into the service, nearly three hundred have come into the prison in less than a year, and so many of them are very young. I did not tell them I was making my last visit, but some of the boys in the prison found out I was leaving and gave me a nice fountain pen set. There are many opportunities for a worker in the navy yard, the fort, and among the people—more opportunities than ever because of the war."

Miss Ella M. Fieger, who has just retired from the staff of the Goodwill Community Center, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, gave thirty-six years of active service. She spent eight years in the much-needed work of Robinson Street Mission on the South Side of Pittsburgh and then went to Trinity Temple. In the Sunday issue of The Pittsburgh Press, dated October 11, 1942, a picture of Miss Fieger and a write-up appears concerning the work she has done. To quote from the account we are glad to repeat that she has been parent, grandparent, teacher, nurse, and adviser to thousands. Her long service at Trinity Temple and the Goodwill Center located in the "Strip" (a narrow piece of land virtually enclosed by the river and a high hill, populated by warehouses and poor people) was a period covering many changes.

We cannot give an account of all the deaconesses who have been retired except to mention their names and years of active service. Some few were unable to serve as long as they hoped because of ill health. The following deaconesses have been retired since our last annual report:

The deaconesses who are working in churches as well as in settlements, homes, schools, and hospitals, are engaged in promoting not only the program of missionary education as set up by the board, but have given much time in helping to organize the young people to become active members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship. Some deaconesses have led Youth Caravans, giving of their own vacation period to serve in this capacity.

Miss Helen L. Johnson gave us several interesting items: "Teaching at two Caravan Training Centers was a challenging experience in planning with young people for their work in the field as they would be spending seven weeks in local church situations. The days in summer schools with the girls were pleasant and profitable. Many of the girls who were in camps this summer will be leaders in a few years in our women's work and the fellowship with the leaders, missionaries, and deaconesses at the summer schools helps in giving to them an understanding of the work during the years when impressions mean a great deal."

May we add to her report that it is known to us that many of our recruits, both deaconesses and missionaries, began to prepare for full-time service as a result of attending such summer schools. The best inspiration for recruits still comes from the deaconess and the missionary. Printed materials, addresses, and visual aids are helpful, but it is the living worker telling of her experiences who proves fascinating and challenging. If our deaconesses could be released from their duties at stated times for summer schools and field work, it is possible that more candidates could be secured for the much-needed replenishing of our deaconess ranks. We have been unable to supply many calls because the number of deaconesses available has been less than the demand.

From all our settlements comes the cry for more help in the way of workers. The great value of and help from volunteers has been appreciated by the deaconess staff in every institution. Classes in leadership training are strongly emphasized in our churches and centers by the deaconesses who realize the need of filling the gaps made in the ranks of the men and women volunteers who served faithfully during the past years but who now must give much effort to overtime work in war activities.

We are all aware of the invaluable work our deaconesses have accomplished with the foreign-born people. The older men who have not before seemed willing to sever relations with their mother country are now eager to become American citizens. Night schools find them faithful students. At Ensley Community House, Ensley, Alabama, the citizenship classes meet three times a week. They do not want to observe holidays and met all summer long. It is interesting to see these men struggling to become American citizens. Some of them come as far as fifteen miles to the class. The deaconess-superintendent has known most of them for years through her work in the community.

A deaconess working at an Italian church in San Francisco reports that ninety-nine per cent of the Italians in that church are American citizens. The deaconess who has worked many years at the Italian Methodist Mission in Madison, Wisconsin, writes that they have thirty young men representatives in the service. Many of them are now overseas. One of the former Sunday-school boys is a chaplain in the Navy; another is in the medical regiment in Australia.

Another deaconess stated in her report: "Our Wesley House is in the midst of a very thickly populated community, bordered by the Navy Yard. Many of our men and women work there. They have more money than they ever had, so poverty is not one of the problems, but delinquency is on the increase due to the fact that both parents are at work and the children are neglected."

The Co-operating Council of Methodist Churches of Newport News, Virginia, employs a deaconess. She is a member of the Council of Social Agencies and is helping build Christian character among the children of the community by means of group activities, home visitation, and close co-operation with the public schools and the juvenile officers.

The Nashville School of Social Work has been established with a deaconess, Miss Lora Lee Pederson, acting director. The school opened with a registration of forty-seven students. This is a graduate school and highly specialized. The American Association of Schools of Social Work requirements have been fully met, and it is our hope that deaconesses desiring graduate study in this field may take advantage of the opportunities this school offers. Miss Margaret Young, a deaconess on the staff of Scarritt College, offers courses in group work in this newly founded School of Social Work.

The deaconess who works with the Federal authorities at the Immigration Bureau in San Francisco tells us that after Pearl Harbor the Detention Quarters were crowded to capacity and continued so, long into the year. Christmas was observed, and to the detained people it proved an unforgettable experience. They marveled at the spirit of the American people and their expression of good will at such a time. The Shark Park Detention Camp near by is supervised by an immigration inspector. The people of the camp publish a weekly paper which reflects the news and views of the camp. To quote from the paper: "Due tribute should be paid to the marvelous social welfare activity of the Methodist worker (the deaconess from the Immigration Station). Slowly but surely she is conquering our hearts by her fine manners, consoling words, and tireless effort in order to secure for us social games, valuable books, magazines, and many items of everyday necessity, including underwear, shoes, etc. All this to make our life here more pleasant and bearable. Be sure of our appreciation and gratitude."

The great influx of girls to our cities has taxed the deaconesses who superintend our Esther Halls and Co-operative Homes in their effort to find space for every girl who applies for residence in the home. The deaconess-superintendent of the Chicago Esther Hall gave us an account of her plan for making a home for the girl away from home. She tries to prevent illness through helping the girls take cold serum and receive proper diet and rest. The segregation of girls with colds, at their own request, shows a developing consideration for others. Many of them are still receiving meager wages and they are helped to budget their money. A Woman's Society of Christian Service is a part of the family life and program to which the girls have made and paid their pledge. The devotional booklet, The Upper Room, is given to each girl.

The deaconesses who work in or near defense housing projects are visiting the newcomers to the vicinities and are helping them to become a part of the near-by church. They are enrolling the children in their church schools and, where necessary, are organizing new groups for them. A deaconess who is a director of children's work closed her report by saying: "We may well 'win the war and lose the peace' if we permit this present generation to grow up utterly unfitted for Christian leadership in the world that is to be when peace comes."

In fostering new organizations of the Woman's Society of Christian Service through adult societies, Wesleyan Service Guilds, Girls' Interest Groups, and The Methodist Youth Fellowship, weekday church schools, and the church-school organization, the groups are not only educated in the knowledge of the missionary program, but are inspired to give their money for the support of missionary work at home and abroad.

This encouraging word comes from a parish deaconess in a far northwestern town: "Parents are taking their responsibility seriously. On Sunday morning the streets are filled with children, youth, and adults, on their way to church. With tire and gas rationing now, even more people are coming to us rather than driving to the city."

If we ever had need for well-trained and fully consecrated deaconesses, capable of serving during such a time as this, it is now. The church is calling them to serve as Christian workers in order that a front line of spiritual defense may be established which will meet the increasing problems that face the world today.

All the effort which seeks to tie up neglected folk or indifferent members to a church or to a community house which teaches and exemplifies the message of the gospel is truly missionary labor. The deaconesses here in the home field are building for the peacetime world we hope to see established which shall include all countries with every race in one brotherhood.

Report of Editors

The Methodist Woman

MR. SAM WELLES, religion editor of Time magazine, spoke to the Associated Church Press on "Opportunities Before the Church Press Today." He said:

"An upheaval like this makes people look beyond themselves. I have been interested in foreign news. Therefore I have been intensely interested in the missionary program of the church. No church is stronger than its missionary program. No news has been as interesting to write in the past two years as what the missionaries are doing and what the church leaders and ministers have been doing in countries that have been invaded. Think of Norway! Think of Martin Niemoeller! Think of the Philippines! Think of Czechoslovakia and the other countries. There is exciting, thrilling news in what is happening."

We are trying in The Methodist Woman to give this news of the work of the church in local community, its extension in the homeland, and the building of a world-wide Christian community. It is more important than ever in a time of war.

This report is being written in the midst of a series of district meetings in the Iowa-Des Moines and Upper Iowa Conferences. The proof of the value of a paper is in the use that is made of it. Each of the district presidents has said something like this to her district group: "We may not be able to continue our district meetings. We must read our mail more carefully and look to The Methodist Woman for guidance and help." In these same district meetings many of the program items have been taken from the paper; a devotional program, the stewardship ceremonial, playlet—"Woman Behind the Whole Program," and in each commission group the basis of the discussion has come from The Methodist Woman. The paper is being read! It is being used and that is the best test of its usefulness.

HELEN COX EXMAN,

World Outlook

ONE of the most interesting developments in World Outlook during the past year has been the interest the women of the church have shown in the type of articles that has appeared. Whereas a year ago they were writing to World Outlook office to request that articles appear on India, Africa, city settlements, or hospitals, this year they are asking that articles be prepared that will answer questions that have arisen as a result of their missionary studies. The two most persistent requests have been (1) for a justification of the Protestant movement in the Latin-American countries which are supposed to be Catholic countries. These requests are not in criticism of Methodists working in Latin America, but are rather requests for logical answers to the criticisms made by the outside world. (2) There has been a request for material that will help women approach the whole racial question in this year of racial tension all over the world.

In the first case we have been fortunate. We have been able to secure three fine articles on the contribution to inter-American friendship by the Protestant mission movement. All will be run serially. One is by George P. Howard, born in Argentina, now a Methodist missionary in Latin America, and perhaps the best-known speaker in the southern continent. The other two are by Dr. Wade Crawford Barclay, of the Joint Committee on Religious Education in Foreign Lands.

We are continuing to search for good material on the race question and hope to be able to present it in the early part of the year.

World Outlook has followed the plan this year of presenting articles on monthly special objects of prayer to supplement the announcement of the object of prayer in The Methodist Woman. With these special articles an attempt has been made to present a devotional article which will give help to the spiritual needs of the individual reader of World Outlook.

Since the beginning of the year World Outlook has kept to the policy of preparing special articles on the theme of the Woman's Society monthly meetings. These appear the month before the theme is used so that they may be used by those preparing the program.

One of the most heartening experiences in the World Outlook office has been to see the steady growth of World Outlook even though the price has had to be increased. About 80 per cent of the circulation is from joint subscription orders, which means that women who have been used to paying far less for their missionary papers are paying this year the dollar and a half for the two papers with no slightest complaint.

It is the hope and plan of the editors that both papers shall so supplement and enlarge the work of the other that Methodist women throughout the church will have as nearly as possible a complete picture of the work of the Woman's Division of Christian Service as well as of the work of the Board of Missions as a whole.

As transportation difficulties increase we must depend more and more on the written word to carry the missionary message. With that thought uppermost in the minds of the editors World Outlook goes into this year of 1943 with a new sense of responsibility and a new feeling of dedication.

Literature

The demand for literature covering all phases of work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service has far surpassed that of the previous year. All material has been carefully planned. Twice during the year the Committee on Literature and Publications serving for the Woman's Division met to survey the entire field of literature. Asksings from all departments, committees, and secretaries were given serious thought. The recommendations of this committee were further studied by the Editorial Board. In an effort to increase efficiency the Editorial Board made an allocation of responsibility among its members for editing the literature of the various committees and departments.

More than 125 different pieces of literature have been put through the printing plant during 1942. Perhaps the leaflets on the fields of work have been the most outstanding. Illustrated pamphlets in color cover the following areas of work in foreign and home fields: China, Philippines, Japan, India, South America, Social Work, Urban Work, Educational Institutions, Deaconess Work. The Challenge Today Series contains twelve brief illustrated narratives on twelve institutions in the home and foreign fields.

Program materials for 1943, under the theme "A New Earth Wherein Dwelleth Righteousness," prepared thoughtfully and prayerfully, are adaptable for use by the large society, the small society, the city and country societies as well. A year's supply of program materials for Interest Groups of Girls consists of twelve worship services and twelve programs in separate leaflets in different shades of paper and ink. Week of Prayer and Self-Denial materials, Thank Offering and Lenten Offering Services, Installation and Pledge Services, with the accompanying envelopes and cards, also have been issued and used largely by our constituency.

Perhaps no phase of literature published is more important than that issued for the Spiritual Life Committee. During the year we have printed leaflets, programs for retreats, stewardship ceremonial, stewardship cards, retreat packet, and prayer calendar.

Of special significance this year was the material published in connection with the First Assembly—program; poster; worship services; communion meditation which was sent to many societies throughout the church who wished to observe the communion at the same time; delegates' and visitors' cards; World Federation of Methodist Women program, and the Assembly Bulletin, issued ten days after the meeting closed and mailed for 25 cents to all subscribers.

While the editors specialized in the preparation of organization materials during the first year, yet much of the literature produced this year comes in that category. Leaflets for the secretaries of children's work; study guides and helps for the various departments; duties and plans for officers; books for corresponding secretaries and treasurers; handbooks; posters; special membership leaflet; finances; cards, and many blanks of many kinds.

Report of the Publication Manager

Literature

IT WAS expected that the women would be so diverted by the many war projects that orders would decrease, but we have had the heaviest receipts since our setup. The volume of orders exceeds that of the same period for 1941. Of course, the orders are not only for literature which is sold, but also for the millions of pieces of free literature. This has necessitated an increase in our staff and office space.

It is evident that there is a greater interest in and appreciation of the need of literature. A district secretary has written:

"It was apparent that they (the women at the district meeting) are becoming literature conscious and my opinion is that there is a promising future for literature."

The quantity of certain things used in 1942 is interesting. For example, 750,000 Pledge Cards; 500,000 programs for the Pledge Service; 28,850 Efficiency Aims Posters sent to conferences. When the revised Guide was ready, we had nearly 30,000 waiting orders. We have printed and distributed 45,000 program books for adults; 80,000 worship services; 1,233,000 Emergency Gift leaflets and envelopes; 150,000 pamphlets for the Week of Prayer; 27,000 of the posters; 260,000 of the envelopes; 290,000 officers' leaflets; 90,000 cards and 80,000 leaflets for the Wesleyan Service Guild; sold 38,226 textbooks.

With unification came an overwhelming demand for literature about our fields and, of course, it could not be supplied. Now we have the very fine literature on the fields, one pamphlet for each bureau and thirteen additional leaflets on institutions. This is meeting with a very happy reception and supplying a real need.

Literature sales at the Assembly netted $1,531.25. We distributed 6,500 copies of the Assembly Bulletin.

In addition to the staff in the headquarters and distributing offices, we have a very fine, active staff of sales people in our districts and conferences, and their efficiency is growing with training.

We have attended all but one of the jurisdiction meetings and several summer institutes, assisting in putting on demonstrations and speaking. The special conferences with the secretaries and personal contacts were most helpful in building up an intelligent group of officers.

Literature was sent to forty-four summer institutes, and sales have increased over 1941.

Periodicals

There was a net increase of ten thousand subscriptions in the first four months of 1942, no doubt due to the impetus of the efforts to reach the goal, a two-thirds net increase in subscriptions. The slogan for the year has been, "Every officer a subscriber to The Methodist Woman and World Outlook. However, the increase has not continued.

Perhaps some of the loss is due to moving. The mails bring back hundreds of copies of the magazine marked, "Removed—left no address."

There are thousands of new subscribers, but the renewals have not come as they should. However, with it all, we have gains, not losses, to report.

Our receipts are greater than last year, but our balance is smaller. Part of this is accounted for by the increase in the number of subscriptions at the combination rate. It became necessary to change the price of the combination, but that did not go into effect until September. Therefore, the income for two thirds of the year was at the lower rate.

A great many more subscriptions have gone to World Outlook this year. This magazine is promoted along with The Methodist Woman.

In January and July letters were sent to thirty thousand local secretaries of Literature and Publications, to jurisdiction and conference secretaries. After all, our subscription list depends upon the personal, individual work of the local secretary. Each month in which she has expirations, the list and a letter are sent her. This is followed by the expiration notices to the individual subscribers. Samples of the magazine were sent to all meetings and summer institutes with flyers, blanks, etc.

We have been asked by the Government to conserve on paper, cuts, etc., and now we have an action (from the War Production Board) on cuts, with which we are complying. There have been some increases in postage, and the Post Office Department has warned us that there will be further increases in second- and third-class mail.

No financial report is given at this time. Our books close on December 31, and the 1943 Annual Report will carry the auditor's report.

MRS. GEORGE W. KEEN, Publication Manager.

The delay in receiving such reports is the result of prevailing unsettled world conditions.

We have examined the statement of cash receipts and disbursements for the period from January 1 to December 31, 1942, of The Methodist Woman. All recorded receipts were deposited in bank and all disbursements were properly supported by paid checks. We also examined invoices and other supporting data with respect to the principal classes of receipts and disbursements sufficient in scope to satisfy ourselves as to the substantial accuracy of such classifications. We did not, however, make a detailed audit of all of the transactions for the period.

In our opinion, the accompanying statements present fairly the cash receipts and disbursements of The Methodist Woman, for the period from January 1 to December 31, 1942.

Reports of Secretaries of the Joint Division

(Woman's Section)

Organization and Promotion

By MRS. V. F. DeVINNY, Secretary

IN OUR Annual Report for 1941, we stated that the organization had passed the exploratory period and was "well established as a smooth-functioning, growing organism," meaning by this, in terms of the dictionary, that "the structure with its parts has become so integrated that their relationship to one another is governed by their relationship to the whole." The increasing unity and cohesion is evident, not alone between different lines of work within the Woman's Society of Christian Service, but also between the organization and the other missionary agencies of the church. Many local societies testify to a growing sense of being an integral part of the total missionary enterprise of the church. Not just in our Student, Young People's, and Children's work is this unity being demonstrated, but it is apparent also in the adult work through District Institutes, Schools of Missions, and other activities carried on by the General Section of the Joint Division.

All this is strengthening and unifying the total missionary approach to our Methodist constituency. Many of our local leaders are taking important places of responsibility on the Board of Missions in their own local churches. Curtailment of large gatherings, because of travel restrictions, is tending to combine meetings of various agencies and in many cases, there is one meeting at which all interests of the denomination are presented. This is valuable to each agency and it also exposes the Woman's Society constituency to a larger vision of the church in action and develops them in churchmanship.

Organization and Members

The figures on new organizations and new members for 1942 are encouraging (see chart, page 203), but we know we have not reached saturation point in either organizations or members. Conferences are still reporting unorganized churches and thousands of Methodist women haven't yet become members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service. Furthermore, we are faced right now with a greater change in our membership than could have been anticipated even six months ago when we devised a plan to keep track of our shifting members through a transfer card, but even that may not suffice to care for this dislocation of members in certain conferences. Moreover, new industrial areas with their large unchurched populations present a real challenge to us to get information regarding missions and other interests to groups, many of whom have never had contacts with Woman's Societies, or perhaps with any church. These areas are virgin soil where we may be able to increase membership and income if our conferences and our local societies are on the alert.

Field Work

Through the reports of the workers and the reactions from the conferences, through letters and in other ways, we are convinced that field work is one of the most valuable promotional methods this organization carries on for the continuous cultivation of the conferences. Our four full-time workers visited seventy-two conferences during the year. These workers do all types of missionary education and promotional work. They are our ambassadors of good will and the liaison persons who interpret the Division to the constituency and, through their reports to this office, provide us with information regarding the needs of the conferences and help us to better understand the conferences and how to help them strengthen their work. Curtailment of zone and group meetings and the great turnover in officers in local, district, and conference positions also increases the need of the visit of the field worker. Even though it involves more expense for the Division than it has thus far, it is important to keep four full-time workers on our staff.

Missionary Itineration

In August, the names of one hundred foreign and home missionaries were submitted to our office as available for deputation work during the fall of 1942 and some of the number for the spring of 1943. The executive secretaries provided us with suggestions as to the time each missionary could give to this work and recommended the jurisdiction where they felt each should work. Several conferences have sent reports (on blanks provided for this purpose) of the visits of the missionaries. Others, we know, have used missionaries residing in their conferences but have not reported. Twenty-five missionaries had extended itineraries from September through December, ranging from two to six weeks. Most of their contacts have been with local societies. We hope that before June, 1943, every conference will have been visited by at least one missionary.

Emergency Fund

The literature and envelopes for the promotion of the "Emergency Fund" went out early in July, but many conferences did nothing about starting the publicity for this until late in September, and some waited until December to stress it. A number of conferences have overpaid the estimated per capita gift asked of them. Not a few of those that gave the full amount, or overpaid, have also increased their pledges liberally for the year. These deserve special commendation for the fine spirit displayed when they were asked for this additional gift. A last appeal for this fund appears in the December issue of The Methodist Woman. The treasurer's books will be open to receive these gifts to the end of 1942.

"Seven Keys to Progress"

To further the promotion of organizational activities in the local societies, specific aims have been set for 1943, called "Seven Keys to Progress." The poster and a methods leaflet to implement the plan will be circulated to all local societies. These plans are being publicized in the December issue of The Methodist Woman. Likewise, "Seven Keys to Progress" are suggested for conference attainment. With these standards for both local societies and conferences, based on the things which are so vital to the strengthening of the organization and to maintaining an increased interest and support, we do anticipate progress in 1943 despite the untoward conditions throughout our country and the world.

Forward Now!

Above the noise of battle, and the cataclysmic movement of events, we must see this organization as a part of a great spiritual movement for bringing the kingdom of God on earth. If the organization is to go forward with any certainty, if it is to make a vital contribution to the new age and to the building of the Kingdom, a greater missionary passion on the part of every individual member is a first requisite, right now.

To do this will involve unselfishness, personal surrender and sacrifice above and beyond anything we have yet experienced. It means for each of the more than a million Methodist women in the membership of this organization increased faith in the cause and a new quality of holy daring that will not falter in the face of the difficult or seemingly impossible. It means new achievements wrought out in sacrifice; a new type of courage; it means giving of ourselves and our substance; it means entering vicariously into the needs of humanity. Jesus took it upon himself, and so must we, if we are to have "A New World Wherein Dwellleth Righteousness."

Missionary Education

By MRS. HELEN B. BOURNE, Secretary

A GROWING understanding and constructive use of the total educational plans for the Woman's Society of Christian Service are encouraging even though at times the use of them may appear inadequate and superficial. It is necessary to review and evaluate these plans as effective means for realizing the objectives of the Woman's Society of Christian Service. The purpose of the organization always must be the realizable objective. Accordingly, those responsible for education and cultivation in all areas have not failed to consult and plan together the educational work of the Woman's Division for the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

For the cultivation and use of monthly program materials, the two periodicals and other literature, this department accepts a share of responsibility, and acts on the assumption that these elements are basic to the educational plans. The educational work also includes a more extensive and comprehensive study program, any part or all of which may be used according to the interest and progress of the membership of a society and its local situation. The best use of this part of the educational process involves careful consideration by a study committee of the society co-operating closely with the program committee in order to co-ordinate the society's total educational work throughout any year. Such wise planning by many societies has produced a more intelligent and broadened prayer life, a service spiritually motivated, and in many cases gifts that cost the giver serious prayer and consecrated service and are, in consequence, sacrificial gifts.

During the summer, thirty-three schools were conducted under the auspices, direct or indirect, of the Woman's Division or conference Woman's Societies of Christian Service. Four of these were jurisdiction schools, held in co-operation with the Board of Education and jurisdiction Woman's Society of Christian Service; seventeen were pastors' or Christian workers' schools, and twelve were schools or institutes or assemblies sponsored by conference Woman's Societies of Christian Service. A total of these summer opportunities shows that more than six thousand members of Woman's Societies were eager for the cultivation afforded, and over 1,200 course cards were earned by students in the accredited classes studying "Latin-American Missions," "Planning for Peace," "The Work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service," "A Workshop in Missionary Education," or some Bible course. Courses were offered in the areas of Christian Stewardship, Methods of Program Building, Christian Social Relations, Wesleyan Service Guild, etc., in which no course cards were given as these were directed solely by officials of the Woman's Society of Christian Service. Most of these classes were led by teachers developed and trained in our Methodist Church, a majority of them outstanding women. One of the finest contributions our society makes to the total educational work of our church is manifest in this particular field of service.

The co-operation in city-wide and state institutes with United Councils of Church Women and also in interdenominational schools and summer conferences furnishes to hundreds of Methodist women a much-needed and welcomed type of intellectual and spiritual fellowship, and is the inspiration for many kinds of co-operative Christian service.

A responsibility of this department is cultivation in the interest of Special Missionary Projects by which individuals and conferences share specifically in the support of the entire missionary enterprise. A great deal of information has been gathered and forwarded to jurisdiction and conference secretaries. Direct word concerning the many Special Missionary Projects in foreign fields could not, as heretofore, be sent promptly and frequently in the midst of the present world tumult. This very fact added to the greater need should stimulate each former supporter of a Special Missionary Project to be all the more zealous in giving the amount of money previously donated to the cause of missions, else the total cause suffers because of the lack of loyalty of any one person or group.

Our educational worker, Miss Sanders, has had a full program of work in educational seminars, Christian workers' schools, conference and jurisdiction schools, district institutes, and in other kinds of meetings of the Woman's Societies of Christian Service. She has prepared eight accredited courses and taught them in the various schools of The Methodist Church, beside conducting seminars in methods of program building and other phases of woman's work. These seminars have proven of unusual practical value, meeting specific needs in the Woman's Society of Christian Service. She taught in eight schools during the summer, in addition to spring and fall itineraries. Her work and its results are highly satisfactory.

This department has had opportunities for joint education and cultivation through direct avenues of service to the local church. The responsibility of women members in definite relationships to the total policy of education and cultivation has been clearly defined and attempts have been made to stimulate the full and effective use of these relationships in district missionary institutes, in the church Board of Missions and Church Extension, the School of Missions or church-wide study classes, the interpretation of literature, especially of World Outlook as a church-wide magazine, and cultivation in the interest of World Service giving, as well as creating new and increased interest in all leadership-training opportunities available to church members. Acquainting women with the scope of the missionary work of The Methodist Church and acquainting pastors and laymen with the quality of service women should render the church has been one of the major objectives. It was especially auspicious that the study planned by the Joint Division of Education and Cultivation was on the same theme as the interdenominational emphasis which many churches used last fall or will use this spring, Latin-American Missions. In summer schools, institutes, assemblies, and conferences, in fall institutes and educational seminars, preparation and training for widespread and fruitful study of this theme began. This was assiduously followed up in districts across the church. There seems justification for the belief that the Good Neighbor Policy will become, among thousands of thinking Methodists, the policy of Christian brotherhood implying a Christian world brotherhood.

The Woman's Section of the Joint Division of Education and Cultivation co-operates with the Nashville Branch of Methodist Information of which Mrs. C. W. Turpin is manager. While the work of the manager has been confined mainly to the Southeastern and South Central Jurisdictions, several lines of national importance have been stressed. Notably: The Woman's Assembly at Columbus, Ohio, through advance publicity touching every conference society in the connection and through the editorship of the Assembly Bulletin; Scarritt College through numerous news and feature stories in local papers and the general church press; the school of missions at Lake Junaluska in all papers of the South; the Wesleyan Service Guild, through a feature story in The Christian Advocate, and the Day of Prayer sponsored by the Federation of Methodist Women which was widely publicized. Activities of the Woman's Society of Christian Service and of the Wesleyan Service Guild in the conferences have been publicized in state and local papers. Posters have been sent to conference meetings and suggestions given for presenting the woman's work at annual meetings and for securing subscriptions to The Methodist Woman and World Outlook. Recently the manager visited Eliza Dee Home at Samuel Huston College for Negroes in Austin, Texas, and has written up this project for publication in connection with Race Relations Sunday.

The help received by this secretary from the conference and jurisdiction secretaries and other officers is hereby gratefully acknowledged. The good letters and reports received, the personal interviews held, and the various meetings attended were means of fellowship in service which were most enriching. We believe these contacts and our participation in conference and district meetings and in summer schools and conferences are safe ways of learning how to help direct the educational work of the Woman's Societies of Christian Service. For the assistance in the office of our excellent and efficient secretary, we are deeply grateful.

By MARION LELA NORRIS, Secretary

TO HELP bring the kingdom of God on earth is the aim of the Wesleyan Service Guild.

Challenge Today

Guilds need to be enlarged and strengthened. New units should be organized. "We expect great things of the Guild today," an executive of the Woman's Division of Christian Service said recently. "It can reach the women now going into employment as no other agency in our church."

"Before Pearl Harbor only about one in one hundred wage earners was a woman," a government bulletin says, "but a year later it was one in ten." This number is increasing daily. The same bulletin makes clear one line of Guild service today: "The unattached woman going into a strange community where work is unfamiliar and strenuous, hours are irregular due to frequent change of shifts, living conditions uncertain or wholly unsatisfactory, is in sore need of friendly services from those already on the ground if she is to give her best to the work she has been brought there to do and be released at the end of the emergency with increased rather than depleted capacity."

Highest Use of Leisure

Every employed woman must have some relaxation. Whether this will be good or bad depends largely on what is available near by and on the conditioning factors in herself—her personal interests and the degree to which she has physical energy and moral stamina to choose what she knows are the higher values for herself tomorrow as well as today.

"If people are worked too hard," says Dr. Leslie M. Weatherhead, "the few hours of leisure they do have find them exhausted not only physically, but emotionally also. Then they cannot use their leisure in creative activity. They are too tired for music, art, literature, let alone worship. They take their pleasure from those sources which demand least from them. . . . The church then must not only fight against bad industrial conditions and the overstrain of the workers, but ought to be ready to offer, wherever necessary, facilities for the most creative use of leisure. . . . The church of the future will meet the new age only if she has a relevant word to say on the whole problem of leisure."

Civilian Defense Worker

A new project is being initiated by the Guild. An experienced worker is being sent into typical civilian defense areas to discover how the Guilds can help lonely defense workers and tie them up with the churches. From her experience suggestions will be made to Guilds in other areas.

Spiritual Emphasis

To concentrate attention on that most vital need of all—enrichment of spiritual life—the Guild has a spiritual enlistment card which may be used uniformly by all members of a unit, or individually, to deepen the relationship with our Heavenly Father.

Mission Projects

Since the work of the Woman's Division of Christian Service is too extensive to be presented each year without mental indigestion, certain projects of particular interest to employed women are chosen and listed in the Guild Handbook. In addition units may contribute to any work of the Woman's Division. The Guild follows two basic principles: presenting the needs of the fields and opportunities for service in a challenging manner; and receiving pledges and gifts to meet these needs.

Trained Workers

The Personnel Department is continually looking for missionaries. Several of the candidates accepted since unification were Guild leaders. Lena Knapp had not thought of becoming a missionary until she had become an active Guild member. We hope that the Guild and the Woman's Society together can provide a way in which more people like her can go to the mission field.

Community Service

What our Committee on Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities can do to meet the needs of employed women is limited only by the imagination, ingenuity, and willingness of Guild members to work, pray, and pay.

May the united effort of the Woman's Society and the Guild hasten the coming of "a new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness."

Student Work

By MRS. LENORE E. PORTER, Secretary

FROM the beginning of this quadrennium the secretaries of student work of the Board of Missions and Church Extension and of the Board of Education, have been correlating their program recognizing the fact that the Discipline gives each board direct access to the campus.

For that reason your secretary has had opportunity to integrate the work of the three departments of the Woman's Division into the Methodist Student Movement as well as to help plan the total program. Through the local secretaries of student work, guided by conference and district secretaries, implementation is being set up with the campus directors, student chairmen, and pastors. She is jointly responsible with Mr. D. C. Baldwin for the missions' emphasis.

Reports show the student secretaries doing excellent work keeping in touch with student-age youth leaving the home church for campuses, camps, and defense-industry areas, receiving that youth upon return or introducing the youth to the new situation, finding the foreign and minority-group students, being the mother counselors to all, placing literature with camps and camp groups and in their libraries. They help promote acquaintance with our mission work at home and abroad, campus mission projects, and encourage interdenominational co-operation.

Meetings and Some of the Work Jointly Planned With Board of Education

The Second National Methodist Student Conference met in Urbana, Illinois. The First National Convocation of Methodist Youth Fellowship met in Oxford, Ohio, in which the Methodist Student Fellowship was a section.

To these conferences the Joint Division sent nationals and missionaries. With them your secretary planned international teas, creative interest hours, and informal discussions on world conditions, which attracted a daily attendance from 200 to 500. "The effect of this acquaintance with the church at work cannot be estimated."

The four Regional Student Leadership Training Conferences in June. Students came asking for techniques for their newly adopted mission program.

Co-operation with the Lisle Fellowship Groups.

Investigation on possible student projects in camp and industrial areas was also made.

The National Japanese-American Student Relocation Council. Your secretary represented the student staffs of the two boards, her particular concern being local community co-operation.

Literature Co-operatively Planned

motive, which features articles on missions.

The Student Program Packet. While originating in the Woman's Division is now prepared in the Joint Division. With last year's subject matter still pertinent the following additions were made:

The leaflet, "Christians in World Order," on the South American study.

A booklet on the Christian Colleges abroad (in preparation).

The picture folder, "Students Serve the World Today."

Miscellaneous free pamphlets on missions, Christian social relations, and book lists.

A world map for campus and camp use indicating locations of the colleges at home and abroad and the church at work in war countries.

Literature prepared for use of student secretaries especially was: Duties and Plans; the channeling cards for relaying names; the introduction card to give youth and an instruction leaflet on the use of the cards.

Meetings arranged through the Woman's Division were for the jurisdiction secretaries, the Advisory Committee on Student Work, student secretaries attending the assembly and at the jurisdiction meetings.

The value of the work being done by the student secretaries for those going to campuses, to camps, and defense-industry areas cannot be overestimated. No more important work presents itself to women today than the expressing of the Love of Christ to students and young people of all lands, all creeds, all races. Student secretaries everywhere will be untiring in their efforts to undergird the church and help youth face the days ahead as together they strive for the World Christian Community.

Young Women's and Girls' Work

By HELEN L. JOHNSON, Secretary

WHEN one looks back over the activities and experiences of the year she notes especially the reasons for encouragement and the problems. We feel that the unified plan for the missionary education of Methodist youth is gaining momentum. There is every evidence that throughout the church young people and leaders are seeking to make this plan an integral part of the ongoing program. We note some of the problems.

The Methodist Youth Fund

The year's figures show that of the 104 annual conferences listed 98 had contributed to the Methodist Youth Fund. The total amount received in the year from June, 1941, to June, 1942, was $82,033.45. This total was divided as follows: World Comradeship $40,297.80 and Woman's Division of Christian Service $41,745.65. In 32 conferences the Woman's Society received less than 50 per cent; in 66 conferences they received more than 50 per cent. We expected some losses in the adjustment to the plan of the Methodist Youth Fund, but the losses sustained are greater than expected. We are well in the second fiscal year and should see more encouraging results. The young people and leaders in each local church should know the plan and assume responsibility in promoting it. Learning and sharing cannot be separated in any program that lives. We are primarily interested that there shall be developed among the young people a knowledge of and sense of participation in the world mission of our church. The Methodist Youth Fund reaching across the world demonstrates "How to be kind in a world of ruthlessness, how to be generous in a world of greed, how to be Christian in a non-Christian world."

The Joint Committee

The lack of the Joint Committee on the Missionary Education of Youth in the local church (and on each level) is a distinct barrier. One of its major tasks is to channel information from the general Board of Education and the Board of Missions and Church Extension, including the Woman's Division, to the youth of the local church. Many churches lack the basic organization, and the pastors have failed to initiate the plan.

Literature

It has been a pleasant experience to co-operate with Miss Emily Hodder, of the Joint Department of Missionary Education, in the preparation of leaflets and curriculum materials. "Do You Know the Answer," a question-and-answer leaflet for workers with the Commission on World Friendship, has been popular and helpful. The mimeographed booklets prepared for leaders in summer institutes, camps, and assemblies were quite widely used. An intermediate unit, "Methodists at Work in Mexico," a Methodist supplement to a Missionary Education Movement text, is a new venture for intermediates.

We are encouraged with the number who are using the designated programs for the Interest Groups of Girls. The programs this year are built around the hymn, I BIND MY HEART THIS TIME.

Summer Schools and Promotion

We have been gratified with the reports from twenty-two summer schools for girls sponsored by the Conference Woman's Society of Christian Service. Many girls who were in these schools will be leaders in the woman's work in a few years and the fellowship with leaders and missionaries gives them an impressive understanding of the work during the years when impressions mean a great deal.

Youth Caravan Training Centers, leadership schools, summer schools, workers' conferences, and the National Convocation of the Methodist Youth Fellowship have provided enriching contacts.

The Covenant of the Methodist Youth Fellowship expresses youth's dedication to purposeful living.

"It is our purpose in the Methodist Youth Fellowship:

- to live clean lives following the highest that we know;
- to give our loyalty and service through The Methodist Church of which we are a part, working with others that she may more perfectly follow the Master and more worthily bless mankind;
- to hold the ideals of unselfish service ever before us, striving continually for human betterment, placing the welfare of others above our own;
- and in simple trust, to follow Jesus as our Saviour and Lord."

Children's Work

By RUBY VAN HOOSER, Secretary

AMONG the insistent calls that come to the Christian church in the confused world of today none is more clear than that to help its children achieve growing experiences of understanding, appreciation, and friendship with people of all the world family. It is quite clear, too, that the church is facing a situation in which it is becoming increasingly difficult to make progress toward the accomplishment of this goal.

Significance of the Program of Missionary Education of Children

It is necessary to hold these facts steadily in mind as we try to evaluate the significance of our work with boys and girls during the past year. In October, 1941, approved by the Interboard Committee on Missionary Education, a new plan of co-operation had gone into effect among the church's workers with children. It seems now as if the leaders were getting ready just in time to meet the larger demands with which they were soon to be confronted.

During the year reports show that over 125,000 children have been engaged in the study of the missionary emphasis for 1942. The most important fact of the past twelve months, therefore, is that thousands of boys and girls throughout Methodism have had actual experiences of friendship and Christian fellowship with children in this country and in countries afar.

Missionary Emphasis for 1942

During the first and second quarters of 1942 the children were concerned with activities centering about the study of "Children in America" and "Worship Around the World." This fall boys and girls began the study of the emphasis for 1942-43, namely, "Latin America."

Responsibility of Parents

Because of the rising tensions of family life reflected in the attitudes and behavior of the childhood of the nation, special stress has been put upon the necessity of wise understanding and guidance on the part of parents if the problems facing us today are to be met. The formation of study groups in this area have been encouraged. All Secretaries of Children's Work have made this one of their major objectives for the year.

Need for Parent-Teacher Co-operation

In addition to the increased responsibility of fathers and mothers today, it is also more than ever evident that parents and teachers in school and church school must work closely together if children's needs along all lines are to be met. This has been another of the outstanding goals of the year in the field of children's work and has resulted in a growing effectiveness on the part of parents and teachers in thinking and planning together.

Training of Leaders

Continuously during the past year have Secretaries of Children's Work been striving to prepare themselves more fully for the opportunities before them. Beginning with last summer courses for leaders in four jurisdiction schools were held. Study courses in conference, district, and community groups were also held. In addition, Secretaries of Children's Work have been urged to engage in wide reading in the area of the children's missionary emphasis for the year. The World Friendship Bulletin, issued quarterly for Secretaries of Children's Work in the church, lists excellent new material that is available, and endeavors to help each secretary understand the work of the quarter that is before her.

Plan for the Missionary Education of Children

The plan for the missionary education of children has now been in effect for slightly over a year. The principle of the co-operative approach has won increasing favor, and the plan in general seems to meet the approval of those working in the area of the missionary education of children. The greatest need at present is for the provisions of the plan to begin to function in the local churches more effectively throughout Methodism.

Contribution of Secretaries of Children's Work

During the year that is past all Secretaries of Children's Work have worked untiringly and with an increasing sense of the urgency and significance of the task that is theirs. The contribution they have made to the world-wide fellowship of children is one that is important and far-reaching.

Education and Cultivation

By MRS. ALBERT T. MORGAN, Chairman

(See page 45 for recommendations and action.)

IN SUBMITTING the report of the Standing Committee on Education and Cultivation, we like to quote the first paragraph of a folder article by our Division Secretary of Education and Cultivation, Mrs. Helen B. Bourne, entitled, "Ways of Conducting Successful Study Classes": "The purpose of all studies related to the work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service is to develop an intelligent understanding and appreciation of all peoples of the world, to increase sensitivity to need, and to enrich spiritual experiences, so that one will seize gratefully all opportunities of sharing with all peoples the knowledge of the redeeming power and fullness of life found in Jesus Christ."

At the third annual meeting of the Woman's Division of Christian Service held in Cleveland, Ohio, in November, 1942, reports from three field secretaries opened the meeting of the Committee on Education and Cultivation. These evaluations of the work of the Woman's Societies of Christian Service and discussion by the committee of other educational and cultivation matters, as viewed by executive secretaries, editors, and publication department and as revealed through questions from the Woman's Societies of Christian Service, led to recommendations later approved by the Woman's Division of Christian Service.

In considering ways to insure use of program materials provided by the Woman's Division and also the use of World Outlook and The Methodist Woman, the recommendations centered on ten points: (1) Program Booklets and Directories; (2) Goals for World Outlook and The Methodist Woman; (3) Subscriptions for Young People; (4) Yearly Study Program; (5) 1943-44 Studies; (6) Provision for Summer School Attendance or Young Women's Secretary at Summer Schools; (7) Literature Channeling for Week of Prayer; (8) Continuing Membership; (9) Transfer cards to defense areas; (10) Camp Director and Expenses.

Library Service

By MRS. C. N. TIMMONS, Chairman

DURING the past year Library Service has been able to render valuable service to our schools in South America, Mexico, and Cuba. Because of the war conditions it was not possible to send books to China or India. So the appropriation for this work in the Foreign Department has made possible the sending of about $100 worth of books to Bennett College in Rio de Janeiro; books also went to Colegio Americano in Porto Alegre, and to the Boco Mission in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Lena Mae Hoerner took back with her to Crandon Institute in Montevideo, Uruguay, about fifty books for the school library. Books were also sent to Colegio Buenavista at Havana, Cuba, and to Centro Cristiano at Chihuahua, Mexico. At the present an effort is being made to send books to Jubbulpore, India, in answer to an S O S from a missionary there. Scientific magazines were also sent where possible.

In the Home Department many new friends have been made for Library Service. Most enthusiastic letters are coming from many institutions which say the books sent them fill a long-felt want. Over 250 books were sent to the ninety institutions who sent in their requests. We are indebted to Miss Syble Tatum, librarian at Scarritt College, for the up-to-date list of books covering the fields of Bible and religion, of devotional books, of religious education, of books for workers with children, of books on social work, and also on hymns. Next year your committee hopes that more institutions will take advantage of this service which is offered them.

Literature and Publications

By MRS. J. N. RODEHEAVER, Chairman

THIS report is being written during the Thanksgiving season. The members of the Committee on Literature and Publications have reason to join heartily in the spirit of the season.

We give thanks for two well-attended, profitable meetings held the past year. The first meeting was held May 15-16 at Cincinnati, Ohio, and the second one September 3-5 at Winona Lake, Indiana.

We give thanks for the new member of the committee, Mrs. W. A. Roberts, of Baltimore, Maryland, who at her first meeting at Winona Lake showed an intelligent interest which insures a contribution of real value to the work of our organization.

We give thanks for the work of the special committee appointed to consider many suggestions for a theme for 1944 and to recommend the most suitable one under the circumstances. The theme recommended by the special committee, endorsed by the entire committee and submitted to the Woman's Division of Christian Service for final decision is, "The Lord's Song in a Strange Land." See Psalm 137:4.

We give thanks for progress made through the work of special committees, which studied problems and suggestions, and presented their findings for final action by the entire committee. A list of these committees will give some idea of the special items considered, in addition to the regular routine work of the committee which goes on like Tennyson's brook. Special committees are as follows: Policies, use of free literature fund, distribution of literature, blanks, securing special writers, missionary education, joint literature, translation of program material into other languages, Annual Report, etc.

We give thanks for the new policy adopted whereby three persons are responsible for each piece of literature bearing the imprint of the Woman's Division of Christian Service. Each type of literature is assigned to one editor who is responsible for the production of it, in consultation with the secretary or chairman whose work it will promote, and to one member of the Committee on Literature and Publications who reviews it and makes suggestions for future policies in that area. This policy tends to produce specialists in the various fields of literature production.

We give thanks again for the work of the editors and publication manager, who through difficult times continue to carry on in a magnificent way.

Missionary Personnel

By MRS. LEON ROY PEEL, Chairman

(See page 44 for recommendations and action.)

PERSONNEL work is the very heart of the great Board of Missions and Church Extension. The report of the Woman's Division on personnel is not of the identical nature as that of the Joint Committee, although the two are closely interlinked. We are closely united as Christian people through the great host of laborers at home and abroad. The World of Tomorrow will challenge us in immeasurable ways. What is our vision, to what degree shall we respond? We are being called upon at this crucial moment to give an answer.

The advance which has been made this past year is primarily attributed to the effective, consecrated efforts of Miss Ransom and her efficient staff. We feel we bespeak your appreciation at this time. Our concerted efforts of progress are reported in the Journal. We ask that all leaders will carefully study the actions, as they pertain to personnel work and that together a stronger bond of service may be brought about between us.

Our By-laws are being perfected. Two regular meetings of the committee have been held during the year; letters have been sent out to the conference leaders. A new leaflet will be off the press soon, ready for such distribution as is necessary throughout the conferences.

A great challenge has been presented to many conferences and is now being presented to all conferences to build up study grants for prospective missionaries who need help for their final year of study. This fund is over and above our present appropriations. As we face the need of tomorrow's opportunity, we urge all to think and act along this line.

At the annual meeting held in Cleveland, we heard the minimum requirement of one hundred twenty-five foreign missionaries (women only) and no limit was set on the number of deaconesses and home missionaries that could be used. One secretary said, "The ablest and most devoted young women of our church should be in preparation for the work." These should be doctors, nurses, teachers, social workers, and specialists in religious education. This need is for re-enforcement as well as additional workers. If we study our present personnel, we will understand the dire need for immediate help. We must face the problem of re-enforcement for those who have served twenty, twenty-five, or more years. It is not disheartening to face facts if we are true to our purpose.

The secretary and associates, together with regional committees, present new missionaries to the Joint Committee on Missionary Personnel, the Personnel Committee of the Woman's Division assists in securing grants through the help of the conference leaders. This committee gives directions as to the pre-requisites for such grants; they act on procedure for medical status and acceptance into the Woman's Division.

In the event that the stress has been placed on aid for scholarships, we wish to place the corollary need of increased appropriation before you also. God's challenge is always accurate. It is never in excess of our true ability. This challenge may appear staggering for the moment, but a clear honest analysis leads us to productive conclusions.

Therefore, let us move out into the fields open to us; seek well-seasoned, broad-minded leaders who can cope with the great problems of rehabilitation; those who can meet the need of an advance program; those who will work in a great on-going co-operative program with our sister denominations.

The Personnel Committee of the Woman's Division is your channel of service. We would welcome your suggestions and your help. Our aim is effectual service of great magnitude. Within our province there is the key to the dynamo of spiritual release which can and must change the disunited, war-torn World of Today to the United Brotherhood of Tomorrow.

Schools and Colleges for Training Christian Workers

By MRS. J. W. PERRY, Chairman

A YEAR ago this committee presented to the Woman's Division a summary of the study made of the two institutions for training Christian workers to which the Division bears an intimate relationship and for which it sustains definite financial obligation—namely, The National Training School, Kansas City, Missouri, and Scarritt College for Christian Workers, Nashville, Tennessee. Both of these schools were founded by organizations now merged in the Woman's Division of Christian Service. Therefore, it seemed logical to the committee to begin its work with a study of these two schools.

In pursuing its study and investigation of other institutions the committee has used the same outline which was set up as a guide for the former studies. It embraces information concerning: Entrance requirements; courses offered; opportunities for field work; co-operation with other institutions; degrees given; study grants available, etc.

Inquiry has been made as to special types of service on which particular emphasis is placed in the curriculum and in the training program. The following are the institutions about which information has been assembled during the year:

Chicago Training School
Garrett Biblical Institute
Northwestern University
University of Chicago

Pacific School of Religion
Fisk University and affiliated institutions
Duke University

Drew Theological Seminary
Hartford Theological Seminary and Kennedy School of Missions
Boston University

Emory University
Southern Methodist University
Merrill-Palmer School

The studies are by no means complete. The committee plans to continue its investigations before making a statement in regard to the advantages to be found at these centers of training. A number of other colleges have been listed and will be assigned for study at a later time.

From the above list it will be seen that the committee is endeavoring to secure information concerning centers of education in different sections of the country and to ascertain the special advantages which are to be found in each of them. As the church looks toward the future there is an awareness of the fact that its program will of necessity compass vastly different lines of work and types of service from those in which it has been engaged in the past. The former program will have to be greatly enlarged and in some degree modified. Revolutionary world movements must be met with a new and adequate program by the church. This will require skilled workers thoroughly prepared and well equipped. Workers with initiative, creative ability, a sense of mission, and a pioneering spirit must be found and well trained for the tasks ahead.

To meet the new situation educational institutions will be making changes in their curricula and programs of training. Also, no one center of training will expect to excel in all branches, no center can offer superior advantages in preparation for all mission fields. It is the purpose of this committee to endeavor to become conversant with the trends in the missionary enterprise and with the places where special advantages may be found in preparing to meet these new world problems. In this way it hopes to render some service to those upon whom the responsibility rests in guiding the workers in their preparation.

The committee presents this brief statement to indicate the work that has engaged its members thus far and to point out what it has in mind for future endeavor. This is a report of progress with no recommendations.

Spiritual Life

By MRS. W. M. ALEXANDER, Chairman

ONE of the outstanding events of the year is always the annual meeting of the Spiritual Life Division Committee, which was held in Cleveland, Ohio, November 28-29.

The members of the Jurisdiction Committees were invited to meet with the Division Committee. Much of the time was spent in an evaluation of the plans and methods for Spiritual Life Cultivation in the local society and an earnest effort was made to see whether the objectives as outlined in the By-laws are being realized. As the jurisdiction chairmen told of the program for Spiritual Life Cultivation in their several jurisdictions our hearts were encouraged. The reports told of large numbers of prayer and Bible study groups meeting regularly in their local churches; they told of other groups of shut-ins who not able to meet together were nevertheless observing the quiet time at a given hour in a Fellowship of Intercession.

The reports showed an increase along all lines, in the use of all of the Spiritual Life publications, in the use of the Upper Room, in special groups organized for prayer for men and women in the service of our country; in fact, the spiritual emphasis is being felt in every department of the work, whether it be in the worship services or in the transaction of routine business there is an increasing desire on the part of our leaders to put the things of the spirit first, that the local society may indeed become a true "Colony of the Kingdom."

Many conference and district retreats have been held during the year, the Spiritual Life "Day Apart" was widely observed in many parts of the country. The Week of Prayer Retreat program was sponsored by many Spiritual Life Committees. All of these meetings resulted in spiritual blessings for those who attended. Our hearts are encouraged and we press on aided by divine strength.

Status of Women

By MRS. FRANKLIN F. LEWIS, Chairman

ARE we correct in saying that never in the history of the world have greater changes taken place for women than in the brief twelve months since your Committee on the Status of Women presented their last report? Never in a single year have women been the subject of so many columns of print in newspapers and magazines; never have women had so many opportunities and requests for service from industry, the professions, and government. (The Women's Bureau states that since the beginning of the defense program in 1940 three million women have been drawn into employment, that fifteen million are at work, and that four to four and one-half million are in war work.) Never have women achieved such successes in unusual and untried fields, never have women faced so many new adjustments for themselves and members of their families both in the home and out of it; never in a single year have there been such demands upon each one of us to condition ourselves to the unusual.

A new history is being written for women and by women. Their achievements of the past are now giving them strength of leadership, capacity for understanding and knowledge, and a skill in more ways than the military to keep step in this new day. In every crisis-torn nation one factor is identical. Women are playing a greater role than ever before. Their contribution to the last war brought dramatic consequences; to the women of the United States and Britain it brought suffrage; cabinet posts in France; opportunity for professional life in Germany.

Rose Terlin, Economic Education Secretary for the National Y.W.C.A., who has had opportunity to see something of the position of women in Axis countries, says: "I assure you that this is a war against women in some ways even more than against men. Women stand to lose far more than men if this struggle for a way of life and our chance to improve steadily on that way of life is lost to us." She believes, however, that if women discipline themselves they may emerge from this war, when victory is secured, with even greater gains than those made in the last war.

Too many new precedents are being established to note them here. Only one is mentioned—the new wage policy of the War Labor Board, "that women who perform work which is the same in all material respects as that performed by men, shall receive the same wages as men."

Miss Mary Anderson, of the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor, who is now giving such thorough study to women in war work, says that it is not too early to begin the study of the question of women in the post-war period. Women who have made sacrifices for victory must not be accused of taking mens' jobs as they were at the close of the last war. All women's organizations will need to unite in easing the transition for women from war to a peacetime economy.

New recognition for women in the church as well as for war give encouragement when we learn that recent action of the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America was "that it be the policy of the Executive Committee to choose a woman as Associate Secretary of the Federal Council in the near future, for full-time service." Also under an amendment the official membership of that body was increased by one third, with the proviso that the additional members must be lay men or lay women. More than fifty women have been named by the denominational authorities to represent them officially upon the Council.

The Committee on the Status of Women have accomplished several things last year. The Handbook, written by committee members, was published. The publication manager states the sale as very good, but there are still thousands of local chairmen who have not made use of the help this book can give. The pertinent paragraphs on the Women of Mexico, Brazil, and Peru are timely with our study of Latin America. Requests for the playlet, "Listing the Grievances of 1848," as given at the Woman's Centennial Congress, have come from almost every state and women will learn in dramatic form of the dauntless courage of the pioneers who fought for privileges that now seem to be inherently ours. Some conferences report seminars of education and that the Handbook, along with Christian Social Relation Pamphlets, was stressed for study. This fine method is commended to other conferences and districts. In one district a woman who gives splendid book reviews has volunteered her service to many societies and reviewed Angels and Amazons, the history of the woman's century. An associate member of the committee has been appointed from the Wesleyan Service Guild. The committee appreciates the enrichment that will come from the point of view of employed women.

During the assembly a luncheon attended by 167 women was held. Although the time allotted was brief many received an impetus for study and an enthusiasm to carry some idea to their secretaries who were unable to be present.

Questionnaires were sent to the local societies asking for information on the positions women hold in the whole program of the church. Complete returns were not made, but the questionnaires, some with pathetic, others with laughable comments, did make women more conscious of their place in the church. Tabulations of the results showed that in smaller churches women hold more positions of leadership and responsibility than in larger urban churches. When it comes to the larger organization of the district, the conference, and the jurisdiction, the representation of women is smaller. The average church woman sees no further than the local church. Only a small per cent attend district meetings; women delegates to annual conferences are from 1/6 to 1/3 of the men lay delegates, the larger number of women delegates being in western and some south-central conferences. At the last General Conference women were particularly interested in having women delegates for women's work was to be planned and set up in the new church. They were concerned with having women on the Committee on Missions but you will recall that fewer than 100 women were members of that General Conference—70 regular delegates, 105 reserve delegates.

To the end that members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service may better express their Christian womanhood in the relations of the home, the church, and society, the Committee on the Status of Women recommend as working plans:

1. That the Committee on the Status of Women in each Woman's Society of Christian Service study the Handbook and related subjects of interest with a view of presenting a program on the Status of Women to the society and to the entire church during the year 1943.

2. That the women of the local church realize their responsibility for service on local boards and that they became more alert that well-qualified women shall be elected as delegates to annual conferences and to General Conference so that the number of women and men lay delegates may be more nearly equal.

3. That the women in city and rural churches where wartime industries are located assume their Christian responsibility of becoming acquainted with members of large groups of women who have moved to their communities to work and live and make every effort to assist them in meeting their problems of adequate housing, church affiliation, transportation, recreation, health, and household assistance.

4. That women in this organization discipline themselves as never before to believe in and secure equal economic and educational opportunity for all, that our members may create everywhere enlightened public opinion so that there will be no longer the old prejudices of women against women holding certain administrative posts, discrimination against Negro women, or those of other races or against classes working in places of industry and that women show no tolerance for unreasonable hours and unequal wages for the disadvantaged.

5. That since there is a reported shortage of chaplains and there are numbers of women who are qualified by religious training for such service and since branches of the armed forces have accepted the services of women, we request the proper Federal authorities to consider the use of women with adequate training as religious advisors (chaplains) in hospitals and to women employed in the war effort.

6. That women realize that in the world today (quote) "the surplus manpower is woman," and that they should not ask special privilege because they are women nor seek places of leadership in the church and in every area of life in competition with men, but in co-operation with them so that they may express themselves effectively in the business world, in the professions, in the church, or wherever they may be called of God to serve.

Supply Work

By MRS. HARRY EARL WOOLEVER, Chairman

THE report of Supply Work is not all we wish it were. For the first three quarters of 1942, we report $58,000 less for institutional and ministerial supplies than for the corresponding period of 1941. (At the time of writing, the reports for the fourth quarter have not been received.) An analysis of the reports for 1941 shows that in the first quarter many conferences included in their reports the work done in the preceding three months—that is, the first quarter's reports of 1941 included work done from October, 1940, to March, 1941. This explains the large decrease in the first quarter of 1942 as compared with the first quarter of 1941 but does not explain the decrease in the succeeding quarters.

We must look to other factors. One of these, we are convinced, is the vast amount of work done for the Red Cross. No one questions but that this must be done, but while we are meeting this imperative call, we must not allow our own institutions and workers to suffer. They have no one else to whom to look to supply their needs and we must not fail them.

We are very certain that much supply work which is being done is not reported. Many instances proving this have come to light. All supply work should be reported not only that it may be credited to the societies but that we may know if the needs are being met.

One would like to share the comments which come from the receiving end of supply work. Here are a few:

From the superintendent of an American Indian School: "Supplies were never better and they are so well distributed."

From the superintendent of one of our hospitals: "We have received fine supplies, both in quantity and quality."

From the superintendent of one of our children's homes: "The women have been very practical in their giving. One group gave money with which we converted an unused kitchen into a reading room for boys. The boys did the painting. Another cash gift gave the girls some very pretty spreads for their dormitory. This inspired the girls to keep their room neat and in order. Still another gift enabled us to have two good-sized tables made to be used on the playground."

From a missionary in India: "The other day we were in a stationer's shop and found that we could buy Indian-made pencils. Always before they had come in parcels from home and we had not needed to buy them."

"Library books; these are a necessity pushed aside because of no money to buy the regular textbooks—how to buy the 'extras'? Each school needs library books for supplementary reading. Oh, for more books!"

"Maps; the government inspectors say, 'You must get larger maps for the third and fourth grades.' Such are beyond the reach of the Rs. 12-8-0 per school. Then termites eat through the walls or into a box overnight and gone is the map. How to furnish another!"

"Yes, we can use the Rs. 6 ($2) per school and have the fun seeing just what can be bought to add more interest and educative value to the children. I am sure our teachers would say, 'May God bless you for this generous gift and grant you long life and happiness!' And so say we all!"

Two dollars per village school is not much, but evidently it goes a long ways.

Supply work is the "over and above" gift—the overflow of loving services.

Wesleyan Service Guild

THE Executive Committee of the Standing Committee of the Wesleyan Service Guild met November 21-25 in New York, N. Y., to plan for more effective work and closer integration with the Woman's Society of Christian Service. Plans are being made for a definite increase in membership and giving.

There is a close relationship of the Guild with the Department of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities. Two of the Guild chairmen are members of the Standing Committee. This integration with the department has proved of great value.

For the last four quarters the per capita giving for missions of the Guild members is $2.61, and of the Woman's Society $2.53, and the total giving of the Guild for those four quarters amounts to over $100,000.

With the vast increase in the number of women going into industry and professions the field of the Guild is greatly enlarged, and the more the members of the Woman's Society can aid in promotion of the Guild program in churches where it can serve, the greater will be the total interest in missions and giving for the work of the Woman's Division of Christian Service.

The World Federation of Methodist Women

By MRS. J. W. MILLS, Chairman

(See page 49 for recommendations and plans for 1943)

ONE of the first objectives of the Standing Committee of the Woman's Division of Christian Service on the World Federation of Methodist Women has been to create a vital interest in the World Federation in the 107 conferences of the U. S. A. through a knowledge of its scope and purpose.

The history and development of the Federation has been most attractively presented in a new leaflet issued in 1942.

A channel of communication has been established through the vice-presidents; from the Division through jurisdictions and conferences, and from conferences to local societies. Sincere interest has been shown, and most gratifying reports come from many sections of the church.

(For details of presentations at various large meetings, jurisdiction, assembly, conferences, etc., see report of the Vice-President in the Minutes of the Executive Committee meeting of the Woman's Division for June, 1942. For fuller report of activities of the Vice-President, see page 19 of this volume.)

The beautiful programs in the Program Booklet for December for the Woman's Societies, and for October for Young Women and Girls' Groups, have been widely used. One society of the Central Jurisdiction reported a most impressive presentation of the pageant, "Light in the Wind" as a part of their Watch-night service. Other groups report that many young women, new in the organized work of women, had taken part, and catching a vision of the world scope and wide results of "Woman's Work for Women," have become active members.

The World Outlook and The Methodist Woman have given much space to reports of the units of the Federation. The December, 1942 World Outlook featured the Federation in an eight-page section, bringing news and pictures from such lands as could be reached in times of war.

Mrs. Nicholson has sent letters and reports to the members of the Standing Committee as they have been received from other lands, and has kept fresh news before Methodists in the general Christian Advocates as well as the missionary periodicals.

The Standing Committee has taken careful inventory of their work, checking the recommendations adopted by the Division in 1941 and 1942. These have been carried out in a most acceptable way, and in the plans for 1943, we anticipate an increase in "international thinking" among women, as plans for world peace are studied, and united prayer and service and sacrificial giving are made a part of the daily program of the women of this organization.
